AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

The Dumbbells in "Carry On." Captain M. W. Plunkett's "Dumbbells" company will offer their latest and most spectacular overseas revue, entitled "Carry on" at the Grand for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9th, 10th and 11th.

The organization has been greatly augmented and strengthened by the addition of the outstanding stars from each of the four divisional parties that were organized in France. The company now numbers thirty-two Canadian soldiers, and is still headed by those two popular stars—Ross Hamilton and Al. Plunkett. Others in the cast are Stan. Bennett and Fraser Allan, Canada's foremost song writers; Ben Allen, the original coloured parson; Pat Rafferty, the pint sized comedian; T. J. Tilly, the original comedian of the "Dumbbells" in France; Dick Kimberley of the old "Volantines;" Morley Plunkett and Bert Wilkinson, "Dumbbells" of long standing; Jimmy Devon, who put on the dancing platoon; Gordon Calder and Bert Mason, star "girls" of the shows in France; Al. Johnson, the French-Canadian baritone who won highest honors in the national musical competition this year; Jack Challos of the "Maple Leafs;" Billee Baker, Jack Grace, H. Clark, N. L. Lye, Roy Lockesley, Bert Williams, W. H. Thomas, Bob Ford, D. Chisholm, Art Allan and the gallant Captain, himself, complete a cast that would be impossible to duplicate from the ranks of the Canadian Army.

There are twenty-six new musical numbers in the score of "Carry on," and two brand-new military sketches. The entire production is, as usual, under the personal direction of Capt. M. W. Plunkett, who is making his first public appearance in Canada this season, singing his own songs and telling a few stories and getting acquainted.

A regular slice of life is this little document from Vitagraph—a slice of small city politics which revolves around the glass top desk of the mayor and the swivel chair of the editor of a local paper. You all recognize this bit of emity which puts color in our smaller communities, and Jess Robbins, the director of this picture has brought forth all its vitality—all its humanities and realism. Trust Robbins to make no mistake when it comes to incorporating lifelike incident. In "A Front Page Story" he makes his picture so human—so interesting that it stands out a conspicuously fine, little document.

The comedy note is dominant because it is introduced by Edward Herton, a comedian with a sure grasp upon the qualities which create humor. He plays in a deadly serious manner the part of a lackadaisical youth determined to get a job. He rides into the town at the wheel of a flivver and puts an ad in the local paper. There is some deft comedy introduced with the car—which is not the elapstick brand—even though the car is always a good prop for humor. And by using his head and taking advantage of opportunity when it knocks he causes himself into a partnership with the editor.

The rest of the story has to do with patching up a feud between his elder partner and the mayor—and he does this by sheer bluff. The front page story is nothing but a screaming, scorching, announcing that the mayor will be exposed. It precipitates a deal of anxiety for all concerned—even for the partner whose ideas of journalism follow the orthodox channels. The old man's daughter is a handy girl about the office. And aside from acting as a foil here and there it is her object to carry the romance.

"All Brothers Were Valiant." The features at the Strand Theatre on Thursday evening were the gripping story "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a great sea picture, at once dramatic and tragic, and a novel extra in the musical comedy presented by Stoddard and Brown, that brought forth prolonged applause again and again. Mr. Stoddard is a musical genius, and actor. In addition to his marvellous violin playing he is an accomplished player on several other instruments and he is ably assisted by Miss Brown, soprano, who appears in various costumes. These two actors are specialists and patrons of the Strand greeted them with a warm welcome of appreciation on their initial performance Thursday evening.

"All the Brothers Were Valiant" is a sensational picture and to those possessing traditions of the sea, it is living reality in every aspect. A marine story, it is full of action and gives a vivid impression of life among the whalers. It is regarded as the best story Ben Ames Williams ever wrote, and the news that it has been made into a motion picture by Metro, has made photoplay fans eager to see it. Those who know the book declare that the picture is even more thrilling and exciting than the narrative, and the gripping scenes hold one even more completely than the written version.

"All the Brothers Were Valiant," is a great drama, and underlying all the differences that arise in family difficulties there is a call of the blood that is irresistible, and this is emphasized in the story of the heroes of this thrilling picture. It will be shown Friday and Saturday at the Strand with a matinee each day.

THE K.A.B.L. PLANS A JUNIOR SECTION

League's Scope Will Probably Be Increased to Take in Juniors.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Kingston Amateur Baseball League was held on Thursday evening. Letters were read from Mark B. Dulmage, secretary of the O. B. A. A., welcoming the league into the association and accepting the application for affiliation in the intermediate section. Mr. Dulmage also approved of the constitution drawn up and congratulated the officers of the league upon it.

President James Kane occupied the chair and in a comprehensive review pointed out the growth of sport in Kingston and finally the starting of the Mercantile Baseball League and the development from it of the City Baseball League. He spoke of the formation of junior and juvenile sections and the desire of the league to open out these branches and encourage the boys learning the game. The City League will undoubtedly carry at least one junior section, but it is hampered at the present time by lack of suitable grounds. With the City League, the Mercantile, the C. O.B.L. team, the Sunday School League and the County League all playing games and practicing, matters will be rather difficult to straighten out in regard to grounds, but every effort will be put forth to secure a fitting and amicable arrangement.

Entries of teams were received from A. Davis & Sons, 4th Hussars, Athletics, and Circle-Six. In the order named they were entered by James Quinn, F. D. Vanlunen, W. Palmer and T. Mounter. The Circle-Six will play in the senior section provided no junior sections are available, but should ground be secured it is understood that they revert to juniors. Managers of junior or juvenile teams, or parties wishing to enter the same, should get in touch with T. Mounter as soon as possible and convey their intentions. Certificates were given out to the clubs entered, to be filled in and kept as records of players. Every player in the league must have an amateur card from the A.A.U. of C. and the stamps necessary for this may be taken through any official of the league.

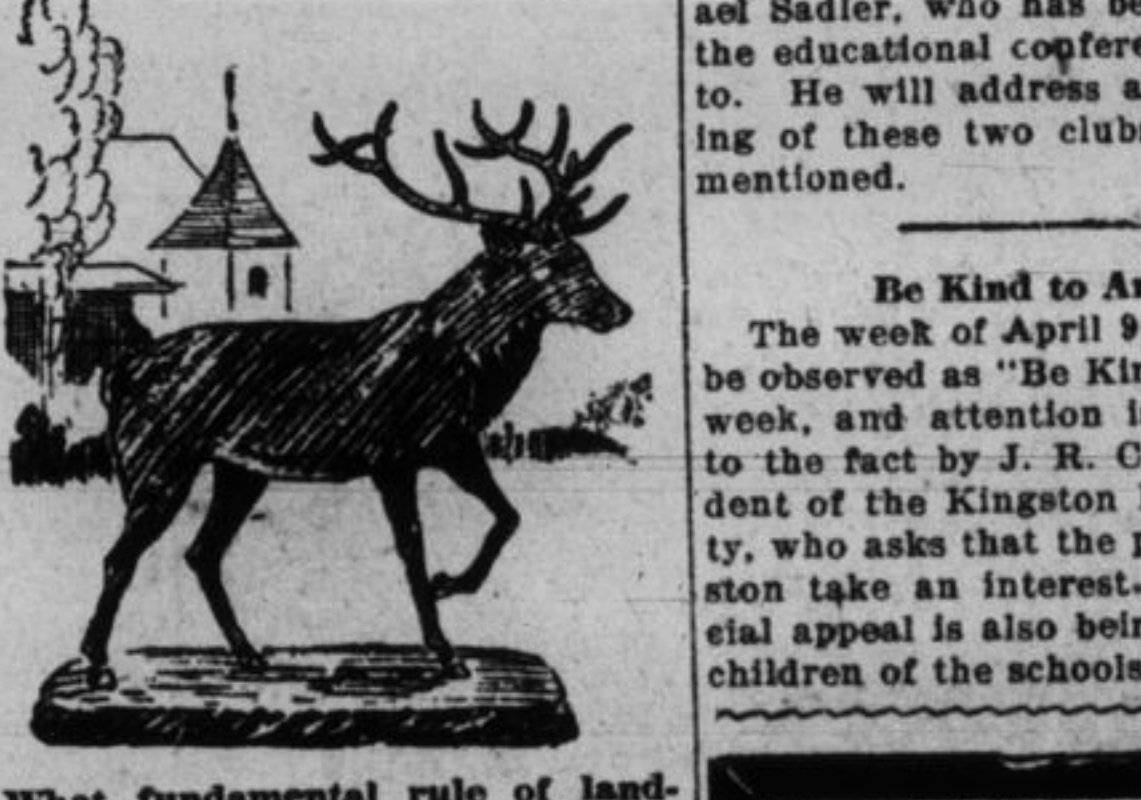

Nominations were taken for the office of first, second and third vice-president and will be held open until the next meeting, when they will be closed and voted upon.

There was some discussion and surmise as to whether Wolfe Island would go with the county or the city this season but the matter was not officially recognized, Wolfe Island not having signified any intention of entering the city group as yet.

A Scottish Entertainment. The Sir William Wallace Camp, Sons of Scotland, held their monthly meeting on Thursday evening, after which a very enjoyable entertainment was given. J. Ramsay acted as chairman, and lived up to his reputation of being exceedingly popular with his "brither Scots." Jack F. Elder, Kingston's own Harry Lauder, rendered a number of selections, and was forced to respond to many encores. The programme also included readings by Sister Edgar, and Brothers J. Marshall and Politt; songs by J. Ramsay and Brother Phillips. Dancing was later conducted, and refreshments were served by the ladies of the society.

MATRON ISSUES STATEMENT.

Regarding Her Leaving the Orphans' Home in Kingston. Miss Isabel J. Mackenzie has asked the Whig to publish the following statement:

"The statement in your issue of Wednesday, April 4th, page 14, bottom of column 3, would give my friends a wrong impression. I did not leave my position as superintendent of the Orphans' Home. On the contrary, quite unexpectedly to me, I was requested to leave on account of 'strained relations' between myself and some members of the board of management. Yours in the interests of truth.
