team have solved the problem of harbor again. making the trip to Kingston at a maximum of comfort to the players. The Kingston jaunt was figured as inconvenient because of the train connections, but the plan favored by the Petes seems to fill the bill. It is proposed to have a sleeper attached to the midnight C.P.R. train, which will be dropped at Sharbot Lake and taken into Kingston in the morning. A similar arrangement will be adopted on the return journey, and thus the Petes will not be deprived of an opportunity to sleep, and they would be home early enough in the morning after the game to enable them to go to work as usual. The Peterboro team is scheduled to make four trips to Kingston, and the proposed arrangement will make them among the most enjoyable of the season.
