Choose your Skin Soap

as you would a gown.
It is as much a part of you.

There is no detail of the toilette in which a woman's personality is more clearly evidenced than in the soap of her choice—her skin charm and perfume in one.

Peerless Eramic is a glow of youth to the skin—a pearly clearness, velvet-smooth and warm—an elusive fragrance floating near.

Naturalness is the Eramic complexion's chiefest charm—the wildflower beauty of a young girl. A haunting mystery is the fascination of its fragrance—an alliance of innocence and art—the superb stroke of the master perfumers of London and Paris.

Mrs. Henry Joseph, who has just returned from Europe, was the speaker at the annual luncheon of the Montreal West Women's Club, held Monday afternoon in the Town Hall. Mrs. Joseph gave a delightfully intimate talk, summing up a few of the impressions gained on her trip, from Holland to Cologne, up the Rhine to Bingen, where, she said, she stopped on account of the old poem; thence through Germany to Munich and Oberammergau, and on into Italy. Mrs. Joseph said she saw no signs of the much-pleaded poverty in Germany. After visiting Rheims and witnessing evidences of destruction in France, she could understand the strong desire of the French to protect themselves for the future. Mrs. Joseph dwelt particularly on her stay in Milan, Florence and Rome, touching on many of the art treasures and architectural monuments standing out against the historic background of the Italian cities.

A reception and tea was held on Saturday afternoon at Rideau hall, Ottawa, by the excellencies of the governor-general and Lady Byng of Vimy, when about two hundred guests were present. Their excellencies received the guests in the hall adjoining the blue room. Major H. Willis O'Connor and Major Archambault were in attendance, the other members of his excellency's staff also being present. The Lady Byng wore a black lace gown over black crepe charmeuse adorned with a wide girde, brocaded in silver and sylvia tones. She wore an ermine scarf. Tea was served in the ballroom.

Mrs. Francis Macnee and Miss Cecil Macnee, "St. Lawrence Cottage," King street, entertained at bridge on Tuesday afternoon, when four tables were in play. The dainty souvenirs given at each table, were won by Mrs. H. K. Hill, Miss Doris Folger, Miss Beatrice Bedell and Miss Gwendolen Folger. Mrs. Macnee made tea and her daughter cut the loes at the effectively-arranged tea table.

KINGSTONIAN SHOWS MUSICAL TREASURES

Beautiful Examples of Violin-Maker's Art on Display in Sargent's Window.

Since the world began there have been many varieties of musical instruments devised that man might give expression to his emotions through the medium of music. The first instrument was a work of the Creator, the human voice, and when it approaches perfection it is regarded as the greatest of all. Then there came the crude drums made from skins and the first wind instruments accidentally discovered through reeds and hollow pieces of wood. So, on down through the ages the development continued, culminating in the cornets, flutes, saxophones, French horns, violins, violoncellos, guitars, banjos, mandolins, harps, pianos, and majestic organs of the present day.

The greatest of all these is undoubtedly the violin, for, though it cannot surpass the perfect human voice, yet there are so few human voices perfectly trained and developed that the violin is called upon to fill the vacancy thus created. In the hands of masters, this instrument can be so expressive that it is often claimed to surpass the human expression in its wonderful notes and chords, and the why and wherefore of all this forms the basis of a very interesting study.

Some years ago, T. H. Sargent, well-known local druggist, became interested in violins, not only for their music but for their structure and variation of design and his interest soon led him to develop a hobby along this line. He began collecting violins of all kinds, picking up an odd one here and there and gradually retaining the more valuable and interesting specimens in a separate collection until now his display is certainly worth seeing and studying.

Recently Mr. Sargent received some of the productions of Auguste Delivet, the celebrated French violin maker of the present day, who has been awarded medals and testimonials all over Europe for his work. Delivet has succeeded in combining all the best points of the productions of the old masters in his violins and a very limited number of his works have been secured in Canada. Several of these are now on display in Sargent's window. They are valued at $250.

With these modern violins, Mr. Sargent has placed some of the best in his private collection in order that a comparison may be made between the ancient and the modern and also that Kingstonians may have an opportunity of seeing some really high class instruments. In the collection may be found an Italian instrument made in 1710; another of Italian make made in 1762 valued at $500; a violin of French design made in 1810 and another of English workmanship produced in 1760, along with other beautiful instruments of varying ages and designs. With them are some of the famous Tubbs bows, with two valued at $125 and $100 each and the whole display is interspersed with raw materials used in the production of the instruments.

Some of the wood used must be seasoned for nearly half a century and one block in particular, selected for the making of the back of an instrument from some rare striped wood, is worth about one dollar per cubic inch.

The making of a violin is not only a matter for great precision and skill, but also demands a world of patience.

A Whig representative was privileged to see two sections of a violin in the making, fashioned by Mr. Sargent in his spare time, and he marvelled at the frail yet beautiful construction of the pieces.

In the future when we pick up newspapers from other cities and see sensational stories of great old violin collections, we can say: "That's nothing. We have a man in our city that not only maintains a beautiful collection, but makes instruments himself."

This display will be in Sargent's window for the remainder of this week at the very least and there is food for thought and a world of information in it as well as a treat for violin fanciers.

GOOD HEALTH SECRET OF BEAUTY.

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches, and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women so troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome woman's ills and restore health and beauty.

Fourth Lady in Land

Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, immediately upon her marriage, will become fourth lady in the land. At all informal state affairs she will rank only after Queen Mary, the Dowager Queen Alexandra and Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles.

There is every indication that the duke and his bride will be increasingly popular with the British people, he because of his genuine interest in industrial reform, and she because of her good looks and pleasing ways.

The duke, who is 28, has been trained both in the navy and in the air force. He is rather democratic in his ways, and delights in learning first-hand what are conditions in big

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method—Measure off two tablespoons for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

Bon Ami
"Hasn't Scratched Yet!"
Cake or Powder
Do you know there are two kinds of Bon Ami—cake and powder? Both are made from the same ingredients—both are equally good.
It's a matter of taste which you use? Many women prefer the powder in its handy sprinkler-top tin—it's so easy to shake the powder on a damp cloth.
Others prefer the solid, long-lasting cake—that's rubbed on the cloth like ordinary soap.
Many women keep both kinds on hand—they prefer the cake for some uses, the powder for others. It's a splendid idea to keep both—why not try it?
Are you familiar with the principal uses of Bon Ami—they're listed at the right?

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble
THURSDAY, APRIL 26.

According to this day's astral operations it may require strict attention to business to keep out of difficulties. Under the strongly-averse position of Mars there may be a tendency to be irritable and quarrelsome and to fly for relief from provoked grievances to law—which may prove disastrous. Aside from impulsive actions there may be found some delays and disappointments. Those in the employment of others, however, are under excellent aspect for recognition or advancement.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year calling for much patience and self-restraint in order to reap business satisfaction. Those in the employment of others should push for recognition or promotion if undeniably deserving, but should not be too impetuous or contentious. A child born on this day will be ardent and may make its best success in the employment of others.
