HUSSARS ORGANIZE FOR SOCCER GAMES

All Players and Officials Are Enthusiastic Over the Outlook.

The 4th Hussars soccer team met in the Whig office last night and organized for the coming season.

The election of a manager resulted in A. C. Givens being chosen for that post and the position of coach was thrown open for election and Mr. Harrison chosen.

The team secured a bye in the drawings for the round and will meet to talk things over more fully and possibly have a light workout on Queen's Lower Campus before the soccer match on Saturday afternoon next.

New Sea Sleds May Go 80 Miles an Hour

C. Graham-White, the British airman, has carried out successful experiments with a new type of sea-sled, which has surface propellers, a bottom shaped just the opposite to the ordinary boat, and which gains in stability as the speed increases.

The V-shaped air passage running underneath the sea-sled enabled it to travel like a sea-plane, while the rush of air prevents the stern from sinking low in the water, according to the description in the London Daily Mail.

With a square bow and shaped almost like a barge, the craft is designed for great speed.

During the experiments Mr. Graham-White reached forty-two miles an hour.

"These sea-sleds," he declared, "would prove very useful for war-time raids. They would not sink if holed by a shot or torpedo, for they draw no water at all. And they would prove an elusive target."

Sea-sleds of this type, carrying torpedoes, could be designed to travel at eighty miles an hour.

"The shallow draft makes it valuable for commercial purposes. The business man with estates several miles up rivers, like the Congo and the Amazon, where sand banks shift almost daily, could go to his property in a very short time."

"They can be built to carry 100 passengers, and could be used on coastal services."

"Previously ninety-nine marine engineers out of 100 would have said that to use surface propellers would reduce the speed of the craft; but I claim to have proved otherwise."

"This sea-sled can reach a greater speed than craft with submerged propellers."

Will Fight Tax

The attitude of the British book-makers to the betting tax proposal was revealed at a meeting of the Turf Guardian Society, which decided to raise a fund to finance the placing before the public of the case against an excessive betting tax. Secretary Randall said those experienced in betting completely agreed that in no circumstances could such a tax yield more than one or two million pounds sterling annually.

Business Dull in Petrograd.

Petrograd, April 26.—Petrograd still appears as an isolated city and, in comparison with Moscow, business life is as dull as in a majority of Soviet provincial towns. Golf Balls X-Rayed.

The best grade of golf balls are regularly X-rayed by their manufacturers. WORLD HEADED FOR RUIN.

Major Douglas Thinks Danger is Inconceivable. Ottawa, April 26.—That the world is heading for the most dire disaster that the mind of man can conceive unless there is a change in the existing banking and financial system was the prediction made by Major Douglas, author of the "Douglas Credit Scheme," before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons.

The trouble centred, he declared, about the attainment for individuals of a reasonable store of the goods and services they see about them. There was no difficulty in producing all the goods and services that were desired. If that had not been proved before it was proved during the war. As to the possibility of agricultural production, that was proved by the fact that the subsistence of Russia as a grain producer had hardly made any difference in the price of wheat.

On the one side, Major Douglas pointed out, was the possibility of producing to meet all demand. On the other there were a large number of people who barely got the means of subsistence.
