Is Eyestrain A Rare Condition?

BY NO MEANS. Most people are not aware of its prevalence, nor of its effects upon those who have it to any extent. But anyone who is even a little informed on Optometry knows that eyestrain is very prevalent and that its effects are so detrimental as to result in a great lowering of efficiency among people generally.

Have your eyes examined and know their condition.

THE NAVY LEAGUE HOLDS A MEMORIAL SERVICE

In the Allen Theatre Sunday Evening—The Attendance Was Large.

The obligations that the people of Canada owe to the dependents of the sailors of the British merchant marine service, as well as to many men who are crippled and disabled for life as a result of the war years on the high seas, were brought out in a most striking manner at the memorial service held in the Allen theatre on Sunday evening. The big theatre was well-filled with interested citizens, the speakers including Leman A. Guild, president of the Kingston branch, Navy League of Canada, Principal R. Bruce Taylor, Queen's University, and Rev. C. Adams, Toronto, chaplain of the Navy League for Ontario.

The musical service included patriotic and other appropriate selections as follows: "Rule Britannia," Charles Harvey; "Nearer My God To Thee," Master "Bud" Fay; "The Flowers of the Forest," Pipe Major Logan; and "The Last Post," by a bugler of the naval brigade. R. F. Harvey accompanied the soloists on the piano.

The chairman of the evening, Leman A. Guild, in a brief introductory address, outlined the object of the gathering, and stated that the memorial service was a tribute to the memory of those sailors of the Royal Navy and merchant marine who had paid the supreme sacrifice during the Great War. Our debt to these men right never be paid in full, but their deeds of valor would ever remain fresh in our minds. It was to the men of the merchant marine, however, that perhaps the greatest debt was owed, and it was the object of the navy league to assist in relief work towards this end.

The speaker concluded by stating that this entire week in Kingston would be devoted by the navy league workers towards the raising of funds to carry on with the good work. On Thursday evening next a concert would be held in Memorial hall, under the auspices of the navy league, with the entertainment being provided by the Girl Guides and cadets of the Collegiate Institute and the naval brigade.

Principal R. Bruce Taylor announced that he would give an account of the battle of Zeebrugge, that notable naval raid of the recent war, of which the 22nd and 23rd of April was the fifth anniversary. This spectacular engagement, while not the most important of the war, was one that had a great deal to do with the bottling up of the submarines on the Flemish coast, and stood out as a striking example of the bravery and determination of the men of the Royal Navy and merchant marine.

After describing the situation of the submarine depot, which was only seventy-two miles from Dover, the speaker outlined the difficulties that surrounded the attempt to block the entrance to the harbor. Surprise, wind, tide, luck, and several other things entered into the chances for success. After several previous attempts the raid was finally undertaken, there being 163 vessels of various sizes engaged in the scheme.

Dr. Taylor gave a vivid and eloquent description of the actual attack, the grueling fire that swept the decks of the Vindicator, the almost impossible attempt of the landing party, the success of one of the British submarines in blowing up a section of the bridge, and the action of the three concrete-loaded block ships which finally succeeded in their objective of closing up the channel.

There were 1,752 officers and men involved in the attack, and of these, 215 were killed or missing and over 400 were wounded. It was a great victory of strategy, and one at which the whole empire thrilled. As the 23rd April was the anniversary of the 2nd battle of Ypres, of which Canadians were so proud, so was this victory one of which the whole empire might point to with pride.

Before introducing Rev. Mr. Adams, the chairman told the gathering something of the objects of the local corps of the naval brigade and sketched the success of the organization since it had been re-organized by R. J. Rodgers, formerly of this city. There were now sixty well-trained boys in the brigade, and they were most efficient in their many duties, having progressed in a most satisfactory manner under the direction of Instructor Newton.

A stirring appeal for support of the navy league, its objects and aims, and the great work that yet remained to be done, was given by Mr. Adams in an address that touched on every phase of relief work now being carried on by this organization. He told of the hardships encountered by the widows and other dependents of the sailors of the merchant marine, for which no provision had been granted by our government. When the war broke out, these men were forced to give up their ordinary insurance and they were unable to obtain any other compensation.

The league had set out to raise $55,000 between Ottawa and Toronto, and in this district a quota of $3,000 had been allocated to Kingston.

Mr. Adams told of the life and hardships of the sailor during the months and years of the great war, and appealed to his audience to not forget that these men had rendered just as notable a service as any member of the navy or the army. Without the merchant marine, not a pound of provisions, hospital supplies, munitions and many other necessary materials of war could have been carried across the seas. In conclusion, the speaker told of the future that awaited the naval cadets of the brigade, and prophesied that in the time of need these boys would fulfill their obligations and answer the call of duty even as their fathers have done during the generations that have passed.

GANANOQUE

May 7.—The Tremont House, Tremont Park, was burned to the ground early Saturday morning, and is a total loss. Only one small bungalow was saved, due to the efforts of Dr. Worth Haig, who with his mother is occupying his summer home on the south side of the island. When Dr. Haig noticed the fire it had gained too much headway to be fought by him alone, and though several boat-loads of people from the town motored over when the fire was noticed in town and the alarm given, they were much too late to be of any assistance. The hotel was a large frame structure, owned by Mrs. John Gibson, Gananoque, and was an easy prey to fire. The cause of the fire is unknown, though it is surmised that some person must have been in the building during the afternoon or evening and dropped a cigarette stub. If a west wind had been blowing probably most of the cottages on the island would have been destroyed. Fortunately only a light breeze was blowing and this towards the river. Much sympathy is expressed for Mrs. Gibson over the loss of this valuable property, particularly as it is understood no insurance is carried. Several of the Gananoque firemen went over, and some of them remained throughout Saturday in event of sparks igniting other property.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Valleau motored to Deseronto to spend Sunday with friends there.

A. J. Abernethy, Kingston, is in town over the week-end.

Mrs. Harrington (Buddy) Baker took two children, Calgary, arrived in town on Friday and will spend most of the summer here.

Mrs. M. M. Gordon will shortly take up residence in the west wing of the Bain house on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Currie, and baby, Lyndhurst, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Webster, over Sunday.

Russell Lee, who has been spending the past few weeks with his parents at the Custom House, has returned to Ottawa.

John Pelow has bought the Hewitt house on Osborne street.

Several young people motored to Kingston Saturday evening for the G.V.V.A. dance.

Misses Lenna Kirke, Kathleen Kirke and Eva Glover motored to Kingston Saturday evening, bringing back with them Misses Nellie Kirke and Madeline O'Connor, who spent Sunday here.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson entertained at a large bridge party on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Begg and two children, St. Lambert, Quebec, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wilson over the week-end, enroute to Toronto.

Harold McCarney spent the week-end in Tweed.

Joseph Rogers and Ted Chapman of the D.P.H., Brockville, were in town over Sunday.

Charles Baker, Belleville, was in town Saturday.

Frank Rackham, Toronto, spent the week-end here.

ZION ANNIVERSARY DAY

Rev. A. S. Kerr, Belleville, Preached at Both the Sunday Services.

The thirty-second anniversary of Zion Presbyterian church was fittingly observed by special services on Sunday. Rev. A. S. Kerr, Belleville, was the preacher, and special music rendered by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Lennox organist and choir director. Large congregations attended both the morning and evening services.

In the morning, Rev. Mr. Kerr gave an eloquent sermon on "The Church, Its Aims and Uses," in which he showed the position of the church in the life of the community, and its influence upon the lives and actions of all who embraced it and consistently observed the laws of their faith. The speaker drew a parallel between the church and civil law. As the arm of the civil law reaches out and touches every citizen, so ought the arm of the church to reach out so that there may be none outside of its influence, he said.

At the evening service, Mr. Kerr, preached on the text "Forgive Us Our Debts," and showed how through prayer God wiped out our debts to Him.

The anthems were "Give Thanks Unto The Lord," "The Lord My Shepherd Is," and "Great Is The Lord." A duet, "God Is Love," was sweetly sung by Mrs. Meagher and Mrs. Herbert. In the evening a quintet was sung by Mrs. Prager, Mrs. Meagher, Mrs. McGrath and Messrs. Moncrief and Donnelly. The soloists were Miss Mildred Irwin and Mrs. Prager.

Zion church was built in 1891 by Rev. J. D. Boyd and since that time has grown from a mission to a place of first importance as the north side of the city increased in population. It has a large and enthusiastic congregation. The present pastor, Rev. E. H. Burgess is a hard worker and an experienced preacher. He preached in Belleville on Sunday.

Iowa Professor Says Science in Newspapers is More Up-to-Date.

Science as set forth in the newspapers, is more up to date than most textbooks and just as reliable, according to Dr. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa.

Dr. Horn based his statement upon research performed by Dr. Charles W. Finley and Dr. Otis W. Caldwell of the Lincoln school of teachers college, Columbia university, in which the articles of biology in eleven representative American newspapers were studied.

"In general, the reliability and high standard of the material collected," Dr. Horn said the conclusion read, "is one of the definite impressions made by the study."
"Newspapers appear to be more up to date in things biological than are college and high school texts in subject. Since these types of biological knowledge are going to the public in such large quantities and over the whole country, the course in school biology should consider them part of the legitimate foundation upon which to proceed in constructing a course of study."
