An English House of Distinctive Design

This house avoids the commonplace in design; in every detail it shows unusual character; it is a house that would stand out in distinction from its neighbors.

Yet there is nothing freakish about the design, it is throughout, in the best of taste and, at the same time, it is unusual and distinctive. It follows the old English type.

The architects have so handled the roofs that a pleasing variety in form and outline is obtained. The entrance gable has the roof eaves brought down to the tops of the first story windows, and the plain stucco walls of this gable form a fitting setting for the heavy oak doorway.

The walls of the house are finished in stucco, preferably white; the roof is slate of various colors and sizes; the chimney is hard burned red brick, and the timberwork, window frames, etc., should be stained a weathered gray, preferably quite dark.

The plans of this house present a livable arrangement of good size rooms, the result of thorough study on the part of the architects.

The necessary coat closet and the very desirable toilet room are both provided near the entrance door, where they are most convenient.

A small stair hall gives entrance to the living room, the dining room, and provides the stairway. Steps from the main stair platform to the kitchen (with a door) eliminate the service stairway.

On the second floor three bedrooms are well laid out. A large bath is provided. There are plenty of closets.

A cellar is provided under the entire house, and here is the heating plant, the laundry, and such. This house should have a lot with seventy-five feet frontage, to give it proper setting.

Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-36.

HOME REMEDIES OF OUR ANCESTORS

Almost every man and woman in America can remember the botanic recipes of our mothers and grandmothers for the treatment of disease, and they were wonderfully dependable too. Every fall there were stored away in the attic thoroughwort, pennyroyal, catnip, sage, wormwood, rue, etc., for treating ills of the family during the winter months that followed. In 1873, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was first prepared from one of the best botanic recipes, and the demand for it has increased to such an extent that hundreds of tons of roots and herbs are now used annually in its preparation. It has recently been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who try it have been benefited by its use, which is a marvelous record for any medicine to hold.
