W. F. Nickle, Conservative, Gets Seat By Acclamation.

Are Quite Cocky That Clark Will Be Elected---Addington Nominations.

There will be no election contest in Kingston for the provincial legislature as only one candidate was nominated at the city hall Thursday afternoon. William Folger Nickle was named by the Conservatives. and as there was no opposition he was declared elected by acclamation by Returning Officer Wightman.

After returning thanks for his election, Mr. Nickle proceeded address the small gathering as to the local and provincial situation in the coming election. He had noth- Toronto and Kingston Synod tween the nominee of the U.F.O .ing but praise for the local Libera party in their decision not to eppose the Conservative candidate, and referred to the great Liberal standardbearers of Liberalism in this city, including E. J. B. Pense, J. M. Mowat and R. F. Elliott.

Mr. Nickle sketched the four years' administration of the Drury government, which he scored reckless expenditure and maladministration of affairs in general. conclusion the speaker stated that he was certain that the Conservative party would have the strongest group in the next legislature, and that was more than possible that, they would have a majority over the other two groups.

Frontenac and Addington. The Frontenae nomination took place Thursday afternoon at Sydenham where Anthony M. Rankin was named by the Conservatives and G. A. B. Clark by the United Farmers. There is no Liberal candidate. The Farmers' candidate supporters are cocky about the contest, declaring that Clark will surely be elected. The Conservatives have little to say of the result, beyond remarking that Mr. Rankin has never yet been defeated.

At Yarker, the Addington riding nominations took place, William D. Black, Parham, Conservative, and William H. J. Haines, Tamworth. Liberal, were the candidates named.

The Nominations Closed Hour Early

It is claimed that Returning Officer Wightman made a mistake in declaring the nomina tions closed at two o'clock Kingston time. The proclamation states that the hours for nominating candidates are from twelve o'clock noon until two o'clock in the afternoon, steen dard time. That would be from one to three o'clock daylight saving time, Kingston being on the new time. As Mr. Nickle was declared elected by acclamation and the nominations closed at two o'clock, the claim is made that the election is void and that another nomination will have to take place. In other constituencies the nominations are extended until three o'clock, daylight saving time. It is apparent that a blunder has been made.

Ottawa, June 14.-There are rumors abroad that prorogation may come much earlier than has been freely prophesied. When the Liberals had a caucus yesterday and discussed the course of business for the rest of the session, there was revealed a unanimous feeling in favor of holding over the redistribution bill The committee has been unable to reach anything like an agreemen and once the bill reaches the floor of the house a prolonged and struggle, which might well last six weeks, is inevitable. Under such circumstances, the government would prefer to defer the struggle till another session. the Autumn Is Already Creating Much Fervor in Ireland.

London, June 14 .- Although elections cannot be held in Ireland before October, yet the campaign in Dublin and other centres is already assuming widespread interest. While the result of the polling will undoubtedly be a victory for the government yet great changes in the Dail Eireann are expected as a result.

It is expected that the Republicans will be entirely wiped out as a result of the voting, with the possible exception of two or three theorists who may win in outlaying constituencies in Southwest Ireland. The government has unquestionably gained strength during the last few months, the strong measures taken to put down the revolution having inspired confidence, while social cfforts to ameliorate conditions in the poorer districts have won them many friends. The new land law to purchase their holdings has been pushed with surprising determination and efforts have been made to avoid partisanship in appointing of Split in Labor Ranks, Labor, which was lately considered the government's strongest opposition, has been greatly weakened by a split within its ranks which was definitely marked by the seizure by Larkin of the headquarters of the transport workers' union. The strike of laborers in the Waterford area has shown signs of diminishing since farmers and businessmen have comner the bolshevistic demand of the strikers. The farmers' party, although increasing in strength is not challenging the government at present. The chief difference between the old Dail and the new is the increasing number of businessmen. In the former elections the sole quafffication of many candidates 'as the record of the part they played during the Anglo-Irish war.
