BEDFORD SEDUCTION CASE

Before a Jury of the Court of General Sessions on Thursday.

Before Judge Madden and a jury at the June Sessions of the Peace on Thursday forenoon, James B. Babcock, a young man about twenty-five years of age, was placed on trial, on a charge of seduction, the complainant in the case being Miss Minnie Timmerman. Both parties live near Bedford.

T. J. Rigney, crown attorney, appeared for the prosecution, while the accused had A. B. Cunningham, as his counsel. The prisoner entered a plea of "not guilty."

During the forenoon, evidence was given by Mrs. Timmerman, a widow, and mother of the plaintiff. Mrs. Timmerman stated that she was the mother of ten children and that Minnie Timmerman, who made the charge against Babcock, was eighteen years of age on March 25th last.

Questioned by Mr. Cunningham, witness admitted that she could not read nor write. A friend had taken up the case on behalf of her daughter and had secured a copy of a birth certificate of her daughter Minnie.

Evidence implicating Babcock was given by Minnie Timmerman, who also declared that she was eighteen years of age.

Other witnesses called during the forenoon included James Wilson, at whose home Minnie Timmerman was employed for about three months, William Black, inspector for the Children's Aid Society, in this city who had been given the case to investigate, and Dormal Peters and Charles Babcock, who live in the district where the Timmerman family reside.

The jury empaneled to hear the case is composed of H. W. Guess, Daniel Joyce, John J. Gerardi, William J. Berry, H. Johnston, John Campbell, Wilson Franklin, John Gray, Henry Graham, Xavier Raspberry, Sarah Ball, and G. W. Esford.

Sure They Were Safe

Major A. W. Long tells in the course of his Irish reminiscences of staying in an hotel in the west of Ireland, the proprietor of which was known as "Pat." "When dressing I heard Charles, whose room was next to mine, shouting for his boots; and after a time Pat's voice answered from the hall below asking what he lacked, and then Charles telling him that his boots had not been touched. A pause, and Pat asked were he had left them. 'Outside my door, of course,' snapped Charles. 'Sorr,' said Pat, in his grandest tone of voice, 'of you had left your gold watch and chain outside your door, sorr one in this house would have touched them.'"

FIRST PRIZE COMPETITION.

Of The P. W. O. R. Rifle Association Since Reorganization.

The first annual prize competition of the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment Rifle Association since its reorganization will be held on Saturday afternoon the 16th, at the Barrieffield rifle ranges. A bus will leave the armouries, Montreal street, at 2 p.m. sharp.

All members of the regiment who attended at least two practices are eligible to compete, and the list of eligibles has been divided into three classes "A", "B", and "C", according to proficiency as disclosed in previous competitions and tests. The object of this division is to ensure that every man will be firing in his own class, thereby obviating the possibility of a tyro being required to compete against an experienced and proven marksman. In this way the interest of every competitor is maintained and each man has a fair opportunity of winning at least one of the three prizes which are awarded in each class. The prizes will be in cash.

LITTLE DOG DITCHES AUTO.

And Delays Jurymen Enroute to the Court House.

A little dog was responsible for holding up a jurymen at the June sessions and causing him to be late for the sessions of the court, and thereby hangs a tale.

A well-known farmer living about eight miles from Kingston returned to his home by auto on Tuesday night, after serving during the afternoon on a jury. Wednesday morning he started out in his car for the court house again and within a short distance of Kingston—to be exact—he had reached St. Mary's cemetery. A little dog got in the way of the car, and it is stated that although very small succeeded in putting the car in the ditch, and it was some time before the driver could clear himself of the tangle. The dog evidently has a charmed life as it is stated that the canine escaped injury.
