THE EDUCATIONAL OUTLOOK

Address Before Canadian Club By Sir Robert Falconer, Toronto University.

"A liberal education has four elements, wisdom, truthfulness, beauty and charity, and these carried from our universities to the public schools and exemplified in the lives of the people will leave no question that it ought to be adequately supported." This was the concluding statement of Sir Robert Falconer, president of Toronto University, in a brilliant address before the Kingston Canadian Club at the Frontenac hotel on Friday.

Sir Robert Falconer was introduced by T. J. Rigney, president of the club, who extended a hearty welcome to the delegates attending the Universities conference.

Speaking on "The Educational Outlook," Sir Robert Falconer reviewed briefly the development of higher education from the Middle Ages, when it took its rise, the progress made in the Renaissance and the present conditions to be found in America, Europe, India, China and Canada.

He found that there was today a general condition of disillusionment but still much hopefulness of productive endeavor. "In England," said he, "there has been a very profound earnestness in regard to education, and we are under a deep obligation for the reports of the past few years, reports by eminent men in Britain that are epoch-making." He mentioned particularly the report by Sir Joseph Hopkins on science, reports of modern languages, one on classics and one on English by Sir Henry Newbolt. A very valuable report appeared in 1922 on the universities of Oxford and Cambridge. All of them show that Great Britain was seriously in earnest regarding the present condition of affairs in education and is preparing herself for conditions that have been forced upon us by the war.

He referred to the work of Sir Eric Geddes whose report recommended reductions in education, but which the government did not accept. While the universities in Britain are looking to the government for support they are seeking to retain their independence. From the educational point of view Great Britain has been making vast progress. In Central Europe people are wondering whether the old educational class will survive. This class was hit hard by the war, and the universities are wondering whether they can survive. There is more suffering among the educated class than among any other and it is a question whether the intellectual pre-eminence will pass from them.

In India, it is now recognized that is not satisfactory, being but a smattering. An element of the population is now in control and the Brahmins have lost their former position, and it seems as if these other classes are going to prevent the old class from getting the education that it did before. On the other hand, some say that the Brahmins deserted. In China, it is said, that the revolution is supported by those educated abroad. In Japan there has also been change.

Coming to America, the speaker said that there was a vast amount of money spent. The people are said to be getting restive owing to the cost of education, but the average American is not much burdened by the amount he contributes owing to the growth of prosperity. The question with the people there is not the cost of education, but are they getting out of education what they have a reason to expect. The same thing is true of Canada. Are the people really getting educated? They are taking stock as to the methods of education. Education is not merely the faculty to read and write. It is much more. Are we getting a thinking person?

In Canada, we are under a disadvantage in being a neighbor of the wealthy country to the south. We have to struggle to keep up to their standard without the same wealth. Canada will not be satisfied with an education that is less than that of any other country. We can say to our people that they need not leave home, and that the matter of money need not stand in the way. There is not to be a little lower standard, but a little more sacrifice.

"One thing that emerges out of history is that education is both conservative and progressive. There has always been a great advance because of the vitality of those who had problems to deal with. In the Middle Ages this condition arose and was followed by decline. Again in the Renaissance it was repeated. That continued for a long time, and the universities of this continent came out of that period, the curriculum being the same that has existed for several hundred years. We have been brought up and are living in a great creative period. Oxford and Cambridge experienced the change from 1859 to 1922 but America felt it little. They went to Germany and got new ideas.

"But the question now comes, What are we aiming at? We have come to see that the mere accumulation of knowledge is not by any means education. The result is that there has been a great deaf of unrest and all who read and write imagine that they are educated, but that is not so. We have to preserve the spirit of a liberal education in all our development and we ought to take the best out of the past and carry it on. To my mind it is an education that makes a man master of himself and enables him to find satisfaction in himself and makes him a freer man in a free state. Education is not a sedative against anything, not a thing that sets loose a theorist, but enables a man to find his delight in the things that centre in himself. He will get delight and inspiration in all the places of the world. He will not be groping for wealth, nor will he be like the wage-earner who thinks that in the possession of a car he will rise in the world. The educated man will look rationally."

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker on a motion of Principal Bruce Taylor, seconded by Major-Gen. Sir A. C. Macdonell.

LOW SPIRITED AND DEPRESSED

A Condition Due to Poor Blood and Weak Nerves.

Nearly all women and most men suffer at times from fits of depression and low spirits, from which they are unable to free themselves. They cannot attend to their duties satisfactorily and are unable to get any pleasure out of life. People who suffer in this way soon lose their energy of mind and body. They lack vitality because their blood is poor and ill-nourished, and their nerves are starved in consequence. The only way to obtain new health is by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The new rich blood made by these pills will carry renewed health and energy to every part of the body. Your appetite will improve, your spirits brighten and you will be endowed with fresh energy and find a new joy in living.

Mrs. G. Reid, Napanee, Ont., tells of the benefit she found through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on different occasions and cannot emphasize too strongly the benefits derived from them. I was growing nervous, my complexion was becoming sallow and my eyes dull and listless. My vitality was poor and I did not sleep well. I became despondent, losing interest in my work, which seemed to tire me so easily. I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking six boxes I began to enjoy life again and looked much brighter and felt happier. My appetite improved, I gained in weight and could sleep without any nervous wakefulness during the night. I also used these pills while nursing my baby and found them a wonderful help both for myself and for making my baby better natured. For these reasons I gladly recommend them to anyone who needs a tonic for the rebuilding of strength and energy."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Next year the Independent Order of Foresters will be fifty years old. Having successfully passed through the process of readjustment to an actuarial basis, which every such insurance institution must sooner or later go through if it is to survive, the Society is now in a position where, operating on the proved legal reserve basis with fixed rates not again subject to increase, and with ample assets according to the valuation of the Dominion Insurance Department to meet requirements, it can face the future with confidence in the knowledge that each passing year will add to its strength and security.

That it is fulfilling the function for which such organizations exist, that is, the distribution of benefits, may be gathered from the fact that it has paid out in benefits since its inception over $75,000,000.

It now maintains reserves of over $38,500,000 to protect its insurance certificates, while its total assets amount to over $40,000,000. The surplus and special reserves amount to over $1,700,000. Last year it paid in death benefits, $2,123,999.49; in old age benefits, $1,303,150.15; in disability benefits, $169,182.02; in matured endowments, $34,095.39; in sick and funeral benefits, $50,874.31. The increase in investment assets in 1922 was $21,250.52, and the increase in Government and Municipal Bonds owned by the society was $3,766,791.31.

BOAT LEAVES WHARF FOOT OF BROCK STREET

Near the End of Their Rope

A party of English professors undertook, for a scientific object, to penetrate into the depths of a Cornish mine. One of the number used to rotate with infinite gusto the following incident of his visit. On his ascent in the ordinary manner, by means of the bucket, and with a partner for a fellow-passenger, he perceived, as he thought, certain unmistakable symptoms of frailty in the rope: "How often do you change your ropes, my good man?" he inquired, when about half-way from the bottom of the awful abyss. "We change them every three months," replied the man in the bucket, "and we shall change this one tomorrow, if we get up safe."
