THRILLS AND PATHOS

"The Village Blacksmith" Picture Based on Poem.

If you think you are thrill-proof or think your tea-well has gone prohibitive just take a trip up to the Allen theatre, Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday and sit through a showing of "The Village Blacksmith," the latest William Fox melodrama.

In presenting "The Village Blacksmith" the manager is giving the movie-goers just about everything in the way of pathos and human touches that can be crowded into an hour and a half.

Will Walling, as the smithy, is a big, strong, husky lad with a strong manly chest. He'd have to be to stand all the misfortune that drapes itself about his manly shoulders. No frail weakling could live through all the terror of the first half of the first reel. But the smithy stands his punishment like the heroic figure the film makes him and along toward the end he reaps his just reward of happiness.

There is a railroad wreck, his youngest son is crippled for life by falling from a tree, he thinks his daughter goes wrong, his eldest son is almost killed, his wife dies and then his daughter is accused of stealing a church fund. Aside from that the smithy has an easy time of it doing the work about his shop.

Tully Marshall gives a good and mean performance as the squire. Virginia Valli is good as the daughter. Ralph Yeardsley is sufficiently cowardly as the squire's son, but the best bit of acting in the picture is done by George Hackathorne as the cripple. Francis Ford, who used to be a dancing hero, is very good as a half-witted country lout who causes much of the trouble.

Yes, if you are in need of good entertainment, by all means see "The Village Blacksmith."

NEW DWAN TRIUMPH

"The Glimpses of the Moon" Filmed at Great Expense.

Allan Dwan, famous as the producer of "Robin Hood," has done remarkable work in his first Paramount picture, "The Glimpses of the Moon," which will be the feature at the Strand theatre, next Monday. With Bebe Daniels, Nita Naldi, Ruby de Remer, David Powell, Maurice Costello and Charles Gerrard in the cast and an exceedingly costly investiture, this picture is one of the most effective and elaborate screen story dramas thus far presented to the public. Director Dwan has produced "The Glimpses of the Moon" with the same lavish hand that fashioned "Robin Hood" for Douglas Fairbanks.

The Paramount studio was taxed to its capacity for this production. More than three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of properties, consisting of costly jewelry, expensive hangings, rare oil paintings and antique furnishings were used to give the picture the rich flavor called for in Mrs. Wharton's novel. In the settings of wealth and splendor, made for this picture at heavy expense, Director Dwan has woven a dramatic story of the love of Susy Branch and Nick Lansing and the troubles they encounter in trying to keep pace with their millionaire friends. Mr. Dwan has transferred to the screen the picture of sophisticated society people in their highest and lowest moments which Mrs. Wharton so cleverly put between the pages of her book.

CHURCH UNION SONG.

(Tune: "Marching Through Georgia.")

By Rev. W. H. Brokenshire.

As heirs of all the ages in the Kingdom of His Son

We had the silver dawning of the golden day begun.

Too long we've been divided; 'tis our birthright to be one;

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

Chorus:

Hurrah, hurrah! We're swinging into light,

Hurrah, hurrah! In unity there's might

We feel a strong hand guiding and we know we're in the right:

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

We love our church's history; grace has shone upon her way;

The Lord of Hosts now calls her a more glorious part to play.

We stand upon the threshold of a larger, brighter day:

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

Away with petty rivalries! United let us stand,

Remembering those who follow and the needs of this young land,

No more to take the Master by ignoring His Command.

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

The old, old order changeth and the new, new age is here:

Ours pathway's bright with promise and our hearts aglow with cheer.

Let each receive his brother with a love that knows no fear:

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

We've taken some too seriously and paused for years a score,

In hope of jointly entering the wide, effectual door.

They'll all be welcome later on, but we can wait no more—

Our banner blue is waving true for Union.

TREES THREATENED WITH DESTRUCTION

Armies of Forest Tent Caterpillar Cause Damage in Saskatchewan.

Regina, Sask., June 16.—The trees in the southeastern and central part of Saskatchewan scarce enough at the best, are threatened with destruction. Armies of the forest tent caterpillar are causing immense damage. From all over Saskatchewan come reports of the depredation of the new insect pest. They have broken out anew at the Moose Mountain reserve, their original Saskatchewan breeding place and are spreading westward rapidly.

They have been doing great damage at Windhorst, Summerberry, Wolseley, Indian Head, Q'Appelle and other towns along the main line of the C.P.R. and the Brandon, Regina, branch of the Canadian National Railways. Summerberry, Wolseley and Indian Head have purchased poison sprayer to cope with the pest which is eating the leaves off the trees in town. Nothing has been done, however, to kill the caterpillars feeding in millions upon the bluffs in the country. Motorists report the march of the pests westward. Millions of the insects have been seen crossing the road at McLean. The yellow hair on the bodies have glistened in the sun and have given the appearance of a great splash of automobile oil oozing over the highway. When one driver reached the caterpillars they were so numerous that the automobile wheels skidded and he was forced to use chains to get through. The insects are devouring every leaf and morsel from the Saskatchewan bushes.

Poisoning measures provide only temporary relief and merely save the situation locally. Entomologists state that the grubs will persist in Saskatchewan until natural enemies, such as the birds, have increased so as to kill them off or keep them under control.

A serious feature of the situation is the fact that a number of chickens have been dying and it is thought that they have been eating the caterpillars, with fatal consequences. It is fortunate that none of the grain fields have been attacked by the insects.

FIGHT FOR POSSESSION OF TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Who Was Recently Adopted by Her Uncle, George Ketchison, Picton.

Summerberry, Sask., June 16.—The message that her sister Helen, aged ten, had been adopted by her uncle, George Ketchison, Picton, Ontario, against the wishes of her father, E. P. Austin, Winnipeg, was received here by Hazel Austin, aged nine, who is making her home here with her aunt, Mrs. C. A. Anderson. A legal battle has been started over the child. Mr. Ketchison has kept Helen since the death of her mother. Recently, in compliance with the Ontario law, the girl was put in an orphanage without the required knowledge, and after the required time, notice was sent the father that Mr. Ketchison had applied for the right to adopt her. The notice, though sent by registered mail, was never delivered to the father and Helen was adopted without his consent.

DR. P. E. DOOLITTLE

He was re-elected president of the Canadian Automobile Association at Hamilton this week.

The Burdened Pillow.

Lord Morely has said of Walpole that he was "a great sleeper," yet there can never have been a parliamentarian who was less likely to be caught napping. There is, indeed for men and statesmen alike, so clear a distinction between the arts of sleeping and napping that to confuse them is to court disaster.

"I put off my cares," said Walpole himself, "when I put off my clothes," and all over-anxious men, whose troubles harden their pillow, will envy him his power.

Mor'd House on Barge.

Spring moving of a rather unusual nature was undertaken at Stamford, Conn., lately, when a large three-story house was mounted on a barge, hauled out to Long Island Sound and brought to a new location north of Shippan Point. Aside from certain obvious difficulties, the greatest trouble was encountered in transferring the house to the barge with the changing tide raising and lowering the water several feet—and in fighting a five-mile breeze on the Sound.

The Dempsey-Gibbons Fight at Shelby, Montana.

Shelby, Montana, was saved from financial failure when president G. H. Stanton, of the Stanton Trust and Savings Company, Great Falls, Mont., advanced $50,000 and pledges were made for $50,000 more to make up the $100,000 installment due Dempsey.

The death took place at Brockville on Thursday of Christopher Bernard Kehoe, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kehoe, after an illness of six months' duration in his twenty-sixth year.

At the Brockville General Hospital on Friday there passed away a well known resident in the person of John Hooker, who died after a long illness, in his seventy-eighth year.

Mary Agnes McCormick, aged nineteen, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCormick, Belleville, died on Friday after an illness of over a year.

Steam from a pipe of a boiler which he was overhauling in the C.N.R. shops, badly scalded Joseph Hagarty, of Stratford.

CHANGE IN STENOGRAPHIC SYSTEM IN COMMONS

Has Been Suggested But Not Likely to Be Adopted.

Ottawa, June 16.—A movement is on foot, engineered by certain of the Maritime provinces and Quebec members, to change the stenographic system of the House of Commons. At the present time, and for some years past an appropriation of $43,000 per year is, and has been made to supply expert stenographers for the members. Today there are sixty-three stenographers in the parliament buildings, handling the correspondence of the members and paid at the rate of four dollars a day while parliament is in session. They are carefully selected, must have five years practical experience in stenography, are taken on probation at the outset, and are not retained unless they make good. The present staff is not only a competent one, but is composed of ladies of culture and education, well versed in political matters and with a good knowledge of business affairs. They are distributed according to the needs of the various members, and their work is exacting to a degree.

The movement on foot has for its purpose the granting of permission to each member to bring to parliament his own stenographer.

In order that he may do so it is suggested that an addition of $400 a year be made to the seasonal indemnities—a proposal which would involve an expenditure of $94,000 a year. In addition it would be necessary to purchase about 150 new typewriters at a cost of about $120 each. In the case of certain members, who have small correspondence to attend to, the $400 would be a free gift. Under the circumstances it is not regarded as likely that the movement will meet with the approval of the government.
