UNIVERSITIES CONFERENCE

Concludes its Sessions—Report on the Royal Military College Course.

On Friday at the Universities Conference the report of the various committees were discussed. In the report of Dean Adams on graduate work, he stressed the necessity of securing co-operation amongst the larger Canadian Universities. Only first class men and first class work should be allowed.

Dr. J. A. Gridsall, Ottawa, supplemented Dean Adams' report but more particularly on research work in agriculture. By so doing he said, "our agricultural districts would be greatly aided in scientific advance."

Dr. Gridsall gave a very fine paper which enumerated many of the problems of agriculture which called for investigation of experts of highest ability. He pointed out the great economic losses which are being suffered at present, and the corresponding gains which would result from the solving of these problems. Dr. Gridsall's paper was much appreciated by members of the conference who were most anxious to forward his ideas.

The report on research, by President Mackenzie of Dalhousie, urged the importance of concentration of all agencies for prosecution of scientific research, in behalf of the industries, but urged that insofar as universities devoted themselves to the training of specialists in research, they should, during training period, use problems during research, primarily as a means of training the students, and should defer to a later period in students' career a thorough going prosecution of the problems of industrial research.

President Tory, Alberta, spoke on the very interesting and valuable project for carrying general cultural instruction abroad from Universities throughout the whole province of Alberta. He gave a detailed description of the methods employed in extension work.

Dean Skelton of Queen's, emphasized the necessity of having greater facilities in the various Universities for prosecution of training for business careers.

Dr. Secombe, of the Dental College, Toronto, reported on the present state of dental education, and what standing a student required for entrance.

Friday evening at the dinner at the Cataract Golf and Country Club the toast, "The Dominion of Canada" proposed by Dean Fox (Western University) was responded to by Canon Chartier (University of Montreal) and Sir Robert Falconer, Toronto, and the toast "The Universities of Canada" was proposed by President Mackenzie, Manitoba, and responded to by President Mackenzie, Dalhousie and President Kline, British Columbia.

The officers elected for the coming year are: Dr. Bruce Taylor, Queen's, president; Sir Arthur Currie, McGill, vice president; Dean Ling, Saskatchewan, secretary-treasurer. Others of the executive are: Dr. Nolin, University of Montreal, Dr. W. J. Hattie, Dalhousie University.

About Royal Military College The following is the report of the committee appointed to consider the request of the Royal Military College:

The Committee met at Queen's University on Thursday, June 14th. There were present: Sir Robert Falconer of Toronto University, Principal Bruce Taylor, Queen's, Dean Fox, Western, Dr. Nolin, Montreal, Professor Dawson, Royal Military College, Brigadier General Andrew Macnaughton, C.M.G., D.S.O., General staff Militia Headquarters, Ottawa, and Sir Arthur Currie, Convent.

The Royal Military College authorities ask the Universities of Canada to consider the possibility of granting to cadet graduates, three years' standing in the following departments of Applied Science: Civil Engineering and Mechanical engineering. Mention was made of granting the same credit in the departments of electrical engineering and chemical engineering, but this was not pressed.

The Royal Military College base their request because of the following changes in their curriculum:

- 1. The course has been extended from three years to four years.
2. The military curriculum has been revised increasing the proportionate number of hours given to civil subjects.
3. Greatly increased laboratory facilities are now available at Royal Military College. These are in chemical laboratory, machine shop, assay room, and draughting rooms particularly.
4. The lengthened course and the revised curriculum permit of a greater degree of specialization particularly in the fourth year.

Generally speaking the universities grant to the graduate cadet two year's standing in any branch of applied science, through some universities are considering the revision of this somewhat arbitrary agreement.

The committee takes into consideration the fact that cadets may enter at sixteen years of age and that the entrance requirement is only pass matriculation—a standard which it approves for the Royal Military College. It recognizes the necessity and importance of the service which the college is rendering and believes that every encouragement should be extended to it by the universities. The committee knows that many of the cadets look forward to a university course on graduation and believe they should receive all possible consideration for the work done at the College and be placed to the best advantage in the University undergraduate body, yet it feels that the standard and value of the degree must be maintained. It makes bold to suggest to the college authorities the wisdom of adhering closely to those subjects distinctly allied to military science.

The conclusions of the committee are that cadet graduates and undergraduates who have completed more than two years of the regular four year course can only be admitted to university courses on conditions to be determined from time to time and depending upon the standing presented and upon the department the applicant wished to enter. Graduates with exceptionally good standing might be admitted to the fourth year in civil engineering or to the third year in the other branches of engineering.

The principle which will underlie the credit granted to the cadet will be that he will receive all possible credit for the work done at the college.

The committee recommends that the conference approve of this principle, and that it appoints a committee of three—one each from Toronto, Queen's and McGill, whose duty it shall be to visit the Royal Military College and consult with the Royal Military College authorities with a view to determining what credit can be granted the cadet graduate and for the purpose of advising with the Royal Military College as to measures to be taken if necessary in order to secure greater credit than at present.

The committee further recommends that the present Royal Military College committee be continued.
