CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE By Uncle Ray

Chapter 81—The Book of the Dead. What happens to a person after he dies?

That was a question the people of Egypt tried very hard to answer. Stories about a life after death were invented and written down on long sheets of papyrus. The stories together with some prayers, were usually called the "Book of the Dead."

The Egyptians believed every person had a "double." The double did not have real flesh or bones, but it looked just like its owner. When death came, the double left the body and went to a region under the ground, the "under-world."

The Book of the Dead says that when a person entered the under-world, he met evil spirits or demons. He kept them from hurting him by saying prayers he had learned in the Book of the Dead. Lakes of fire were also there and had to be avoided. Sometimes monsters had to be put out of the way.

Finally the dead person went to the Hall of Truth and Justice. Here he saw Osiris, king of the under-world, sitting on a throne. In front of Osiris were 42 judges, each standing for a different city in Egypt.

This picture shows a "soul" appearing a great serpent which is trying to block his way to the Hall of Truth, the serpent has its teeth in the body of a donkey.

SENATOR W. H. THORNE OF ST. JOHN IS DEAD

Well Known Figure in Federal and New Brunswick Politics Removed.

Ottawa, July 10.—The news of the death of Senator W. H. Thorne, of St. John, N.B., removes a well-known and popular figure from federal politics, and it was received with much regret in the capital. He was one of those forces whose influence was exercised more through contact with his fellows than through speeches made from his place in the Red Chamber. When he did speak, however, it was with authority, as his ripe judgment and business acumen lent to his public utterances an undoubted distinction. He was a Conservative of the Macdonald school and his reminiscences of political battles of days long past in New Brunswick always secured for him an appreciative audience.

MISTOOK CHARACTER OF HIS CONGREGATION

Archbishop of Paris Addressed Patrons as Institution Inmates.

Paris, July 10.—His Eminence Louis Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Paris, ascended the pulpit in the Church of St. Eustace on Sunday. The Cardinal, one of the most loved and eloquent men in France, was to preach in support of an institution that helps fallen girls.

"My daughters," he began, "I see with joy that gradually the traces of vice are vanishing from your faces and that the straying sheep are re-entering the fold. I am thank—" A priest ran up the pulpit stairs and whispered that the congregation was made up, largely, not of the inmates of the benevolent institution, but of its patronesses, some of the most aristocratic and fashionable women in Paris.

OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY.

Of the Anglican Church at Richmond—Former Rectors.

Ottawa Journal, July 6th: Anglicans of Richmond on Wednesday celebrated the 100th anniversary of the founding of a parish of the Church of England in the town. The first church building in the town was constructed in 1823 and was later replaced by the present building. The corner stone of the first church, laid with Masonic honors, is still preserved and is in the possession of the parish.

On Wednesday three former rectors of St. John's church were present for the service which marked the 100th anniversary. They were Rev. A. H. Cotnam, Rev. J. Saddington, and Rev. W. H. Green. His Lordship Bishop Roper spoke and there were ten clergymen present. Rev. A. H. Ferguson, the present rector, conducted the service.

Following the church service, luncheon was served the visitors and congregation, at which a paper on historical incidents connected with Richmond's progress and founding was read by Mr. McElroy, a descendant of one of the families who founded the town over 100 years ago.

Rev. R. V. Rogers, father of the late R. V. Rogers, K.C., and founder of the parish of St. James' church, Kingston, was also a rector of the Richmond church.

Miss Sarah Garrett, Wellington, a lady of venerable years died on Sunday night. Two brothers, John and William Henry, reside in Wellington.

Mrs. George Tree, Belleville, was painfully injured in a motor car which hit a tree to avoid a collision.

Forty-five pupils are registered at the vacation Bible school which is being conducted at Clayton, N.Y.

Miss Maggie Hanton, Frankville, visiting in Chicago, had a fall breaking her hip. She is in the hospital. A consignment of axes from a Brockville factory has been shipped to the West Islands.
