What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

A POPULAR STAGE

PLAY IS FILMED "The Little Church Around the Corner," the popular stage play that has held the interest of millions of theatre-goers, has been made into a motion picture by the Warner Brothers and it will be shown at the Strand theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

An exceptionally large cast of well-known screen players were engaged to interpret the varied roles in this romantic melodrama, the underlying theme of which is that there is a little church in every person's heart.

It is the story of Leila Morton, the lovely daughter of a millionaire mine owner, and her sweetheart, David Graham, a young social-worker, who thinks the poor should be given a square deal. The two fall in love with each other, but difficulties arise when David has to take sides between the poor and the rich. How he wins both the poor and the rich to the place where they work together, and how at the same time he wins the girl whom he had almost lost by his idealistic practices, form high points in this story.

William Selter directed the photoplay. Olga Printzau wrote the scenario. One of the most outstanding added attractions of the present summer season at the Strand will be the appearance tomorrow, Friday and Saturday of Thomas Dunn, the famous and talented soloist. Mr. Dunn very seldom contracts engagements outside the key cities of the Dominion, and it was by mere accident that E. Abbey, Famous Players' Canadian Corporation's local manager, at the Strand here prevailed upon him to come to Kingston for three days enroute to the big Capitol theatre in Montreal where he is to appear indefinitely.

"ARE YOU A FAILURE" HAS GREAT STORY. As a sure cure for those lone some nights we heartily recommend "Are You a Failure?"

We are told that this is a picture of laughs, love and life—and it may honestly be said to live up to its advance announcements. It is crammed full of unexpected twists and surprise stunts that keep the onlooker struggling between laughter and chid chid.

Little Madge Bellamy, as the lumberman's daughter, wins her audience with her first demure smile from the screen; Lloyd Hughes is the handsome youth who—but that would be telling. Tom Santschi reveals himself as a far more accomplished actor in this picture than ever was suggested by the thrillers in which he formerly has been seen.

Its unusual success lies in the fact that everybody from the director to the extra, seems to have absorbed the spirit of the unusual story and aided in telling it on the screen—a feat that has been accomplished with the aid of a series of truly remarkable photographic effects.

Youth Killed: Girls Hurt. Ogdensburg, N.Y., July 18.—Donald Borden, fifteen, Cleveland, O., was instantly killed and Miss Gertrude Riely, Plattsburg, and Miss Grace Corcoran, Cleveland, were painfully injured when the roadster in which they were riding upset in a ditch near an overhead crossing on the Canton-Potsdam road, on Tuesday. The accident occurred about one mile from Potsdam.

Safe Enough. "Don't be afraid," said an aviator to a timid passenger. "All you have to do is sit quiet." "I know all about that," retorted the passenger. "But suppose something happens and we begin to fall?" "Oh, in that case," the aviator reassured him, "you are to grasp the first solid thing we pass and hold tight."—The American Legion Weekly.

Bad News for Nineveh. Recently a set of political messages from Babylon and Nineveh was discovered among the 296 so-called, "Amaras stone letters" which were found in Egypt. They tell of the relations between the Babylonian king, Burnaburash, and the two pharaohs, Amen-hotep III., and Amen-hotep IV., who lived around 1400 B.C.

Other clay letters reveal various phases of life in the two capitals of Assyria and Babylonia. We learn, for instance, that bad tidings were announced when an Assyrian writes to his sovereign, King Ashurbanipal, of Nineveh, in the following manner: "To the king, my master, from your servant, Babua: May the Gods Nabo and Merodach have mercy upon the king, my master!"

Stealing Wives. In semi-historic times, during which Romulus, the legendary founder, the first king of Rome, is said to have traced out the form of his city with a plough, the stronger took from the weaker whatever tempted his ambition or seemed good in his eyes. And so one roads of Romulus, the half-civilized chieftain, living in a mud hovel covered with thatch in the midst of a few families of the old Trojan race, supplying himself and the younger men, outlaws and runaways who had joined him, with wives by the simple expedient of inviting a neighboring tribe to a feast, and then carrying off their maidens.

William Houston of the Globe. Toronto Star. When you can put an encyclopedia in a paragraph you can give some idea of the scope of experience of a veteran journalist, educator, citizen, who hasn't dazzled two generations, but has served them. To be with in ten weeks of one's eightieth year is to be old, according to the calendar. To be as replenished in the mind and as active in body as Mr. Houston is to make the eighth decade seem like a phenomenon of very recent origin. Last summer he walked to Whitby within the day.

Sorrow which is never spoken is the heaviest to bear. It is glad labor which is ordinarily productive labor.

TO-MORROW

Through an oversight it was stated under the above heading in this column yesterday that the Athletics and 4th Hussars of the senior city league would play this evening. The notice was meant for today's issue as the city league teams meet on Thursday evening. The date was originally set for Friday, but in order to avoid clashing and to give the fans a chance of seeing all games, the executive ordered the Hussars—Athletes match played Thursday. A win for Athletics means first position for them, while Hussars by a victory will take a long lead in the second round.

TO SECURE NATIONAL UNITY.

How It Can Be Brought About Discussed at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, July 18.—To secure national unity it is essential that the people of each part of Canada should understand the view point of all, declared Hon. W. D. McPherson, Toronto, grand master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, in presenting his annual report at the opening session of the grand lodge this morning. East and west must each have a set of different local problems and interests which it is desirable that all of us should appreciate and study, in the hope that as far as possible justice should be done and all should work unitedly for the upbuilding of our common country, stated Mr. McPherson.

GREAT STORM SWEEPS OVER SASKATCHEWAN

Live Stock Killed and Damage Done to Crops by Rain and Wind.

Regina, July 18.—At least one person has been injured, much livestock killed, dozens of houses and farm buildings wrecked and thousands of acres of crops laid low by hail, rain and wind, and hundreds of miles of telephone wires put out of commission in a storm that swept the province from west of Dodsland to east of Wolsey last night. The storm was the most severe of the year in Saskatchewan. With telephone communication cut off, few reports were obtainable. Mrs. Burbridge, who was at Clinton Pettigrew farm, near Lusenden, was bruised when her house was destroyed. At Dodsland and Plenty, cloudbursts occurred which caused streams of water eight inches deep to run across the roads and over fields washing away crops. In Lusford and Marquis districts some half-flood, which dislodged several hundred acres of crops. Telephone lines and poles were blown across the roads.

The Late Mrs. John Kincaid.

Junetown, July 23.—Peacefully, at the home of her son-in-law, B. B. Graham, Caintown, on July 10th, Mrs. John Kincaid breathed out her spirit after having rounded out her four score years and four. Patience Esther Earl, for such was her maiden name, was born at Temperance Lake, near Athens, in 1837. In 1863 she married John Kincaid and moved to Caintown to the same home where they resided together till last Nov. 7th, when death severed their companionship. Since then she has resided with her daughters, Mrs. B. B. Graham, Caintown, and Mrs. W. H. Franklin, Junetown, who survive, together with four grandchildren, to mourn the loss of a much beloved mother and grandmother.

Possessed of a buoyant cheerful and contented spirit, those who knew her could never think of her as old. Early in life she joined the Methodist church and was an active member and Sabbath school teacher until prevented from attending by age. Truly hers was a strong and useful life, very devoted to the care of her husband during his declining years.

Her funeral, which was largely attended, was conducted in the home church at Caintown, by her pastor, Rev. T. Meredith, after which the remains were laid to rest beside her husband in Glen Elbe cemetery.

One of the guests at Cedar Park has a radio apparatus and the Willard-Firpo fight, on Thursday, was listened to. The cheers of the crowd and the sound of the gong were distinctly heard. A number in this vicinity went to Smith's Falls on Thursday last. Mr. and Mrs. D. Young are visiting friends at Black River, N.Y.

On Wednesday afternoon little Miss Monica Hudson entertained a number of her little friends in honor of her little cousins, Carl and Helen McKenny, Franklinville, who were visiting her. The little folk spent a merry afternoon and in the evening enjoyed a car ride.
