 What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

"CINDERELLA" COMING TO THE GRAND SOON
 The realm of musical phantasy holds a powerful appeal to the imagination of all theatre-goers and for that reason has been utilized with considerable success in productions of the past. The fairy tales of childhood still possess the charm and romantic flavor of their first telling and are seldom forgotten by those who delighted to hear them in their young days. In the musical phantasy, "Cinderella" which will be presented here Labor Day, Sept. 3rd, matinee and night, this romantic charm has been greatly enhanced by music of an unusually melodious type and by settings which are designed as an effective background for the elusive, enchanting figure of Cinderella herself. This fairy tale is one of the most beloved of childhood and also one which has held the attention of all classes and all ages, not only in its original form but also in various modern settings. In "Cinderella," however, particular efforts have been made to keep as much of the original tale as possible, with the result that the production is both picturesque and dramatic without, however, holding any suggestion of modernization which would jar on the whimsical beauty of the presentation and detract from the charm of the original tale. The libretto is by Forrest Audubon Rucker and the music from the pen of Stanley T. Vermilyea, who has written some delightful and tuneful numbers of a particularly arresting type. In mounting the production a special lighting equipment has been installed and the seventeen scenes, excluding the prologue, follow each other almost instantaneously. The whole phantasy, of course, revolves around the personality of Cinderella herself, and as the principal actress, Miss Theo Macfarlane will be seen a dainty figure who seems the very personification of the original both in youth, charm and in art. This little Canadian actress heads an all Canadian production which will be found to hold more than ordinary interest for the theatre-goers.

The management of the Grand were able to secure this attraction for the re-opening of the house only at great expense and trouble and should be congratulated on their success.

PHOTOPLAY OF THRILLS IS THE TIGER'S CLAW

In response to letters from hundreds of Jack Holt's admirers, who asked that his next Paramount picture be a succession of genuine thrills, The Tiger's Claw was especially written. With what success this was done, will be apparent when the picture is shown here for the first time at the Allen theatre starting Monday.

Orders were given Jack Cunningham, the scenarist who adapted The Covered Wagon, to write a picture story for Mr. Holt, filled with as many kicks as are ordinarily found in an entire serial. Mr. Cunningham got busy and for the first time in his screen career Mr. Holt was given a triangle love plot—one in which his own love balanced between two women.

India, the darkest and most mysterious country of the world, offering a background of thrills, was chosen as the locale. Into the background of jungles and mystery the story was woven. A man-to-beast battle with a Bengal tiger; a leap on horseback, over a deep gulch fifteen feet wide; a battle against a gang of Hindus; near-assassination at the hand of the Thugges, ruffians masquerading under the cloak of religion; a fight for life in the waters of the flood from the dynamited dam; these and other equally powerful situations were embraced in the action.

The result is perhaps the most exciting photoplay ever produced. A gasp a minute, yet not so thrilling as to lose its heart interest or its comedy relief, the picture speeds onward to one of the biggest climaxes ever recorded by a camera.

The leading feminine players, Eva Novak and Aileen Pringle, gasped audibly when they saw what they were to do, but nevertheless swallowed their misgivings and came out alive and unscathed. The supporting cast is excellent.

FOX FILMS OHNETS CELEBRATED NOVEL.
 George Ohnet's celebrated novel, "Dr. Rameau," has been made into a big motion picture by William Fox and will be shown at the Strand Theatre for a three days' engagement starting Monday, under the title of, "My Friend, the Devil."

Few novels contain the wealth of plot, the innumerable dramatic situations and the unlimited screen possibilities of this famous story and from all advance reports it has been made into a motion picture that will prove a revelation.

The theme of the photoplay deals with the spectacle of a man who has lost faith in a higher being. When little more than a child he prayed that his cruel stepfather be killed and at that very moment his mother whom he loved above all things, was struck by lightning.

The years passed and the man became a famous surgeon and he had faith in only one thing—the power of science and learning. How he finally is forced to acknowledge himself a believer provides a powerful theme and brings a climax that is both thrilling and satisfying.
