SUSPENDED SENTENCE IN A CASE OF THEFT

If Offence Repeated the Sentence Will be Automatically Operative.

At the police court this morning two cases, that were remanded last week, were brought up. One man, who pleaded guilty to a case of theft, was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Farrell, who pointed out that in the event of another charge the sentence will become automatically operative.

In the other cases a young man who pleaded guilty last week to passing worthless cheques, was again remanded for another week. It appears that several new charges have been laid. Efforts are being made by relatives to settle the claims.

Rev. Dr. Brown Is Modest.

Appologizing for the non-appearance of a photograph of Rev. Dr. W. T. G. Brown, president of the Montreal conference, in the current issue, the Christian Guardian says that he is "a brother universally loved and respected, but withal so modest that the editor of the Christian Guardian has never been able to secure his photograph, which is our loss and that of our readers, for he is rather an exceptionally good looking man. Bro. Brown is Canadian born and of Methodist extraction and he entered the ministry in 1895. He has proved himself a good preacher and a successful one, and wherever he goes he makes hosts of friends. He is sane and reliable, not given to fads, but aiming to help his people by every means in his power. He makes a good president, as he is both sympathetic and clear-headed."

A Summary Trial.

On Saturday Albert Bicom, Prescott, appeared before Judge Dowseley, Brockville, on a charge of theft. He was an employee of the Canada Steamship Lines, working on the steamer Kingston. He was charged with stealing a quantity of linen, the property of the steamship company, and of also purloining a camera and revolver from the trunk of a tourist, of Yonkers, N.Y., who was a passenger on the boat. On the charge of stealing the linen, he pleaded guilty, and on the other two charges not guilty. He elected to be tried summarily, and the trial was fixed for Sept. 6th.

The heavy rainfall on Tuesday morning will help the grass to show a better color than brown.

Mrs. E. Porter and baby, York street, have returned home after spending the last week in Toronto, with her sister, Mrs. Babcock, who was seriously ill.

Cars parked on streets at night, while the occupants are at shows, are falling the prey of sneak thieves. Loose goods, and even parts of the cars are being carried off. The name of Mrs. W. J. McManus was through error left out of the account given of the Sunday evening song service at Dead Man's Bay. Mrs. McManus was in splendid voice and her singing was enjoyed by all. It was Edward, not Edna Crumley, who was also a participant.

OBITUARY

The Late Rev. H. M. Dykeman, M.A. The death occurred very suddenly at Christmas Cove, Maine, on Sunday, Aug. 26th, of Rev. Henry McPherson Dykeman, pastor of the Congregational church at Scarsdale, N. Y. The late Mr. Dykeman was a M. A. of Queen's university. His mother was a Macpherson, a sister of the late Mrs. John Hamilton and Sir David Macpherson. Mrs. Dykeman was Miss Anna Leslie, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Leslie, William street. Passed Away at Calgary.

There passed away at Calgary, Alta., on Wednesday, Aug. 22nd, William Allen Briggs. Deceased was born on Wolfe Island, seventy-five years ago, the second son of the late Absalom and Eliza Briggs. He spent his boyhood on the Briggs farm, now known as the Keys property, situated on the old turnpike about one-mile from the village. Going west when a very young man, he followed gold mining for years both in Cripple Creek, Colo., and Roseland, B.C. Later he took up land in Jordan Valley, Oregon. He moved to Calgary in 1916, to be near his brother. Mr. Briggs had been in failing health for the past year, but yet was quite active until a very short time before his death. Deceased was of kindly disposition and made many friends who regret his passing. He will be laid to rest in the Union cemetery on Aug. 24th. One brother, Theodore C. Briggs, Calgary, survives.

A LAW PARTNERSHIP.

Hugh C. Farthing to Practice in Calgary, Alberta. The Calgary papers contain an announcement of the formation of the law firm of Farthing and Walsh, with offices in the Herald building. Mr. Farthing is Hugh C. Farthing, son of Bishop Farthing, Montreal, and will be remembered as a lad in Kingston when his father was Dean of Ontario and rector of St. George's cathedral. Mr. Farthing is a first class honor graduate of McGill University and of Osgoode Hall. He served with distinction overseas during the war and upon his return as a casualty was physically disabled. His friends will be pleased to know that he has recovered his former usual good health. His partner, Leigh A. Walsh, is a
