(See Illustration on Page 18.) For efficient operation of a typewriter the operator should sit in a chair of the right height so that her elbows will be on a line with the space bar of the machine.

When the chair is too low and the arms are in a slightly cramped position, it takes more effort to work, and it is more fatiguing.

Improving Your Opportunities

Why is it that one person under certain favorable conditions thinks and learns, while another individual under exactly the same conditions, does not?

Principally it is because the former takes advantage of his opportunities. He is a utilitarian, as far as getting ahead is concerned. He seizes opportunity as soon as he sights it, and he puts it to some practical use.

Such a man reads—and answers—the beneficial offers in the A-B-C Classified Section of the Whig. He knows that to-day—or to-morrow—or some to-morrow—he will meet most of the good fortune he is seeking.

To think and learn.

He knows that if he improves opportunity, opportunity will improve him—and he reads the A-B-C Ads regularly!
