UNVEILING OF CAIRN EAST OF CORNWALL

In Memory of the Late Col. John Macdonell of "Aberchalder."

Cornwall, Sept. 18.—The Canadian national parks branch of the department of the interior of Canada recently erected a cairn and tablet on the provincial highway, about four miles east of Cornwall, immediately behind what is known as Glengarry house, at Stonehouse Point, in memory of Col John Macdonell, "Aberchalder," who played an important part in the Canadian militia and legislature of Upper Canada as well as in the progress of the country. The dedication and unveiling took place yesterday afternoon, and was attended by well over one thousand prominent persons from the counties of Glengarry and Stormont.

The cairn was occupied by John A. Chisholm, ex-mayor of Cornwall, who opened the proceedings with a short address, referring to the many acts of patriotism performed by the Colonel in whose honor the cairn was erected, as well as others of bygone days who performed similar service for their country. Others who spoke in like strain were, Gen. Cruickshanks, chairman of the historic sites and monument board of Canada, J. A. Sangster, M.P.P., for Glengarry, J. C. Milligan, M.P.P. for Stormont, Rev. Dr. Arpad Govan, Williamstown, J. A. Macdonell, K.C., "Greenfield," Alexandria. The latter acknowledged the gift of the cairn on behalf of the family of Colonel Macdonell.

RAP FORD SYSTEM AS SOUL KILLING

The British Industrial Welfare Society in Conference At Balliol College.

London, Sept. 18.—An attack on the effects of the Ford system of mass production was made yesterday at the Conference of Industrial Welfare held at Balliol College, Oxford, under the auspices of the Industrial Welfare Society.

The discussion had been started on the need of adopting for English factories some definite plan of administration, and the suggestion was made that this would deprive people of initiative and would lead to become "soul killings, like the Ford works."

Dr. William W. Johnson, medical officer of the Ford Motor Company, took exception to the epithet, saying that Ford employees in Great Britain all receive three shillings per hour and none of them seemed to have lost his soul.

Other speakers, however, argued that a good deal of Bolshevist preaching came from those who had to spend their days on repetition processes, and Miss Mathias, of the English Electric Company, declared: "We don't want men of intelligence if we are going to Fordize industry."

BELIEF OF ONTARIO'S PREMIER

Has Mandate to do as He Likes With G. T. A.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—It is understood here on good authority that Premier Ferguson has decided that the recent election results will be regarded by him as sufficient mandate, without any further referendum to the people, for whatever action he and his government may take in connection with the Ontario temperance act. The whole issue, it is held, was fully discussed during the campaign, the mandate to govern received by Mr. Ferguson was a clear cut one, and the members of his administration believe themselves to be fully seized of the opinion of the people of the province without further reference to the latter.

$10,000,000 FIRE AT BERKELEY, CAL.

Berkeley, Calif., Sept. 18.—Six hundred buildings were destroyed and damaged of ten million dollars done by fire which wiped out thirty-five entire Berkeley blocks late yesterday. It is shown in the figures compiled by the mayor's office. It is estimated that 2,400 persons lost their homes. No lives are known to have been lost, although two students were seen to plunge into the vortex of the fire when the roof of a house, upon which they had climbed collapsed.

CROSSES THE OCEAN IN 30-FOOT BOAT

Record Feat by French Yachtsman-Tennis Star—Voyage of 142 Days.

New York, Sept. 18.—Because he wanted to see New York, Alain J. Gerbault, international tennis star, crossed the Atlantic single-handed in a thirty-foot ten-ton racing cutter built thirty-one years ago by the late Dixon Kemp, famous sailor and designer of King Edward's private yacht.

Gerbault started from Cannes, France, on April 5th, of this year, and landed late on Friday night at the foot of Fort Totten, L.I., after traversing 5,600 miles of ocean in 142 days.

An exhibition of the past history of sailing shows that Gerbault created a record for a trans-Atlantic voyage in small craft. In the summer of 1918 Captain Thomas Drake, an Englishman, of Gravesend, near London, in the Sir Francis sailed 25,000 miles in a thirty-two-foot boat, and was assisted by a five horse-power engine.

During Gerbault's four and a half month voyage he met three hurricanes, when the wind blew at sixty-five miles an hour and huge seas engulfed the tiny vessel, wrecking the gear. At another period his water supply went bad and he had to jettison two-thirds of it. Thereafter he existed on a daily ration of a cup of water for all purposes. After the hurricane came tropical rain. Gerbault was so soaked that he went about naked for ten days. He caught a fever, accompanied by a sore throat which prevented him from swallowing. Then he became unconscious for forty-eight hours. Gerbault declares that during this time Providence must have guided his boat.

He was often without sleep for three and four days at a time: When he arrived he had not closed his eyes for eighty hours, yet he was able to unfold the narrative of his trip in unflinching English, which he speaks and writes with ease. His chief concern was a bath and a change of clothes.

Chicago's Beer Industry Is Reported Flourishing

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Despite the efforts of federal prohibition forces and the Chicago police force, the supply of booze, chiefly beer, has not been shut off or even diminished. The beer industry alone in Chicago has been developed to sales of almost $30,000,000 a year and where there is this much money the business will continue.

At the same time Mayor Dever attempted to clamp down the lid, Chicago breweries were putting out 13,000 barrels of real beer every week. At $30 a barrel, which was the lowest figure, that meant a business of $540,000 a month, or sales at the rate of $28,000,000.
