TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT CREATES MUCH INTEREST

At the Kingston Fair—Dr. Bruce Hopkins Gave Address Friday Evening.

The officers and members of the Kingston Tuberculosis Association have reason to be pleased with the evidence of interest shown in their effort at public education at the Kingston Industrial Exhibition. Hundreds of visitors and citizens have availed themselves of the privilege of being present at the evening lectures and daily demonstrations in the large marquee near the entrance to the grounds. This group of citizens are to be congratulated on what they have accomplished in making it possible for the general public to acquire information on the all-important matter of combating the ravages of tuberculosis.

The object for which the association was established is to find ways and means whereby government legislation can be secured which will assure free sanatorium treatment for all those suffering from tuberculosis, and who, for some reason, are unable to bear the entire cost of long sanatorium treatment. At present the provincial government allows $1.50 per day for each patient in a sanatorium, but the patient should be relieved of all financial embarrassment. To bring this matter forcibly to the attention of the government it is necessary to get large numbers deeply interested in this one important step in preserving useful citizens.

On Friday evening, Dr. Bruce Hopkins, medical superintendent of Mowat sanatorium, gave what he termed an "informal talk" on the subject. His remarks culminated in an appeal for more general education on the subject of the prevention and cure of the disease. One of the points which Dr. Hopkins emphasized was that of giving children early attention. Up to the age of 15 years between 60 per cent. and 70 per cent. are infected with tuberculosis, and it is of utmost importance that they be kept under, if possible, professional observation, and their bodies well nourished, in order that the disease may be checked. He went on to remind his hearers that between 75 per cent. and 95 per cent. of the entire population of the world contract tuberculosis, and it is only by minimizing the chances of infection, and by keeping up the general health that death in hundreds of thousands of cases can be prevented. The disease can be prevented, and is curable. The medical profession is, fortunately, becoming more enlightened on this subject, which for some years did not receive the expert attention which it is now accorded, and Dr. Hopkins, who has made a specialty of its diagnosis and treatment, pressed home the necessity of educating all, fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, school teachers, etc., and through these, the children. Although a child may, from all outward appearances, recover from an attack of this disease, it has been only too often proven that the old trouble will flare up, like a forest fire, in later years, and carry off the victim.

The doctor stressed the point of the prevention and cure of tuberculosis in the early stages, and explained the cause and progress of the infection. We were all shocked, and quite rightly so, at the appalling numbers of deaths in action of Canadians during the war, but comparatively little thought was given to the fact that an equal number of our fellow-countrymen and women, and children, were carried off by the course of the disease of tuberculosis. Surely it is time that this subject was given very serious attention.

A number of slides were thrown on the screen, and explained in detail, relative to the points brought out by Dr. Hopkins.

Found That Dead Letter Was For His Sister

A rather peculiar incident, took place at the post office exhibition at the fair grounds on Friday, when a man who was making an inspection of the booth read over the addresses on some of the letters and post cards which were in the dead letter office, and to the surprise of the clerk in charge, he remarked, "Do you know one of those post cards is addressed to my sister, and if you like I will give you the correct address." The address was given and the post card will be forwarded to the address in Toronto. There are letters on exhibition which were mailed in 1841 before stamps were in use. The booth is in charge of James Kane.

Church Services.

FOUR HORSES RESCUED FROM BURNING STABLE

The Mackey Bread Company Suffered Severe Loss on Friday Night.

The stables of the Mackey Bread Company, at the foot of Clarence street, suffered serious damage in a fire which broke out at 9.15 o'clock on Friday night. The cause of the fire is unknown. One ton of hay went up in smoke and four horses had a close call. Fireman Smith, with the assistance of Mr. Sinnott, taxi driver, got the horses out of the stables. The loss is covered by insurance.

The firemen used two lines of hose, one from the hydrant at the corner of Ontario and Clarence street, and another from the hydrant in front of the city buildings.

THE CLAN MACDONELL

Lieut.-Col. John Macdonell One of Brock's Aides

Bystander in Toronto Globe. Another Macdonell is cited by a reader who is interested in the recent paragraph of Glengarry House and its early owners, now a ruin, marked this week by a cairn erected by the Ottawa authorities. This is Lieut.-Colonel John Macdonell, who was one of Brock's aides at the capture of Detroit and at the Battle of Queenston Heights, where he was killed, in October, 1812.

Colonel John Macdonell was a son of Lieut.-Col. Alexander Macdonell, previously mentioned. When Brock was organizing his expedition to Detroit Macdonell was Acting Attorney-General of Upper Canada, and member of Glengarry, and was considered "a young man of much promise." In March, 1812, he had reported on the American fort at Detroit, from information received during a residence of a few days in the vicinity. It was Macdonell and Major Clegg, the other aide, who carried to Detroit Brock's summons to surrender, but General Hull refused even to see them, whereupon Brock opened fire, and a short time afterwards Detroit was taken, without the loss of a man.

When Brock was warned of the attack on Queenston he immediately dressed and hurriedly left Fort George, making the memorable ride of six miles up the road to Queenston through the grey dawn of an October morning, leaving his aides to follow. Macdonell, like his leader, fell in the battle, and had the distinction of being buried at Queenston Heights with Brock, beneath the great shaft that now adorns the Heights.

Derbyshire-Anger Wedding.

On Monday evening, September 10, at Trinity Methodist church, Toronto, the marriage took place of Annie Watkins, youngest daughter of Mrs. Annie K. Anger, Toronto, to Dr. Aubrey O. Derbyshire, son of Mrs. S. A. Derbyshire, Westport. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Anger, B.A., assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Basil Thompson. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Reginald W. Pyke and wore a beautiful gown of ivory flat crepe and lace. Her court train of satin hung from her shoulders, and her veil was of embroidered tulle caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower-bouquet of ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Frances Anger, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of peach crepe draped with figured georgette, a black picture hat and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. J. W. Bennett was best man and the ushers were J. J. Buchanan and Dr. Gordon Anger. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, who received in a becoming gown of black satin and Spanish lace, with corsage bouquet of Richmond roses. The groom's mother was in cocoa brown canton crepe with corsage of pink roses. Mrs. R. W. Pyke was in pink-roses and lilies. Dr. and Mrs. Derbyshire left later for a trip to the Rideau Lakes and on their return will reside in West View Court Apartments.
