It takes two to make a successful marriage, but one can turn it into a failure.

The "rights" men fight for always multiply rapidly as men learn more about fighting.

Before a man gives advice on how to run the government he should learn to obey its laws.

It takes all kind of people to make a world, so almost anyone should be able to fit in somewhere.

The reason flour and bread don't fall in price is because farmers don't make the flour and bread.

Many a man has picked another for an easy mark and developed a case of mistaken judgment.

Friend wife learns that she has undertaken a real job when she starts to correct husband's faults.

If it's a fool idea, propaganda can't put it over; and if it's a sound idea, propaganda isn't necessary.

A free country is one which you can vote for an added radical when you have a grouch about something.

It certainly looks as if it is going to be a bumper year for everything except the toothpick industry in Russia.

ANOTHER WAR-MENACE OVER.

For the present, it seems as if the menace presented by Italy to the peace of Europe has passed.

The difference in the attitude of Italy in these two cases is worthy of comment. In the case of the Greek trouble, action was swift and drastic.

In the dispute with Jugo-Slavia, however, such pressure was not necessary. Italy realized that in a conflict with this baby nation she would have a big task ahead.

LETTING DOWN THE BARS.

The new immigration policy which has been announced by the minister of immigration in the Dominion cabinet is a radical departure from the policy which has been in force since the conclusion of the war.

Mr. Robb, the minister of immigration, doubtless has very good reasons for this change in policy.

It's a funny language. A man deliberately fills up on hooch, and liberally steps on 'er, and then 'we call the result an accident.

Burbank always destroys the second best to keep it from populating the earth. How fortunate that he experiments only with plants.

Perhaps you have observed that the man most skilled in argument will sit in the shade and whittle while his wife mows the lawn.

Sir Thomas Lipton says he wants "that bloomie mug." This desire has already cost him much. Here's hoping the game old sportsman succeeds in lifting it next time.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY THE ONLY HELP:—For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee.—Isaiah 41:13.

Reconstructing Tokio.

The new Tokio will resemble old Tokio principally in size, if proposals for reconstruction that have come from the capital city of the Land of the Rising Sun bear fruit.

It will be different in Tokio. The government is the real power there. What the government says will receive scrupulous attention.

NO ARTIFICIAL RAIN.

Once more, however, matter-of-fact science blasts the hope of regulating the rainfall by artificial means.

Those who knew old Tokio well will hope that many of the charms they cherish in memory will not pass into oblivion.

"The Need of Change." A business friend of mine was criticizing a certain woman's club one day.

These women all come from homes, from homes where they are the guiding genius. If they do not do all the work of the household, they usually do a part of it.

The club offers a new field. There is a chance to help some cause. There are the business details of the ordinary club meeting, the updates more or less interesting and sometimes exciting, and then the more public affairs where thought and energy must be expended.

Lucky. "Have any luck in the poker game last night?" "You bet. There was a doctor in the game and I won eight prescriptions."

Needed Treatment. "Golf—Doctor, you remember you recommended golf to take my mind off my work?" "Doctor—Yes. "Well, can you prescribe something now to get it back again?"

CLOSING DAY OF THE FAIR

County School Parade. The wet weather on Thursday prevented a large attendance at the county school children's parade in front of the grand stand on Friday afternoon.

The children representing the five school sections formed up in separate groups, and paraded in front of the grand stand, and were judged by Major-General Sir Archibald Macdonell, and Major Jeffrey of the Royal Military College, Miss Jennie Shaw, Mrs. A. W. Street, and Harry K. Hill, teacher of music in the public schools of Kingston.

The children who took part from Glensvale were: Harold Patterson, Ernest Clarke, Austin Patterson, Ronald Gibson, Jack Gibson, Ralph Gibson, G. A. Swale, Lloyd and Bruce Van Ord, George Clark and Will Davis, Lizzie Maloney, Erma Ellerbeck, Margaret Ellerbeck, Agnes Maloney, Gretta Crawford, Zena Swain, Georgina Caverly and Ivey Biddulph.

Some of the children wore banners, and crumpled paper hats, the work of their teachers. One noticeable feature was that some of the children appeared to drag their feet, instead of marching in a military manner.

Quite Right. "What does this mean—a six-horse-power motor car?" asked Jones. "Why, one that requires six horses to drag it home when something goes wrong with the works!" replied Robinson.

Disguises. "People ought to wear disguises." "I can't say that," replied Mr. Meekton. "I couldn't expect Henrietta to go to a party-looking the same as she does around the house."

Recoming Pipe Smokers. A friend who happened to be a passenger on an Anchor line steamship via New York from the other side tells me that in a talk with a Scottish tobacco firm agent on the way over he had a demonstration where high taxes might greatly lessen the source of revenue. A. D. If. Alkman Smith, the man he talked with, was the representative of the John Cotton Tobacco Company of Glasgow, said to be the oldest tobacco firm in the world. He declared that due to the ad valorem tax placed on cigars in the British Empire following the war, England has become a nation of pipe smokers. David Lloyd George, Premier Baldwin and his predecessor, are examples of those who have adopted pipes over cigars, he said. The John Cotton Tobacco Company, said Mr. Alkman Smith, was established in 1726.—Montreal Herald.
