HE SEES EUROPE GOING FROM BAD TO WORSE

Post-War Peace Movement is Deteriorating, Lloyd George Thinks.

London, Sept. 22.—Europe as viewed from outside No. 10 Downing street, is a sad spectacle indeed and is going from bad to worse, in the eyes of David Lloyd George who, in a 300-page book entitled "Is It Peace?" to be published September 28th, reviews the whole ambit of the present European problems, the future dominating, and comments thereon in the vigorous style, replete with sonorous metaphor, which is characteristic of his writings.

The former premier is convinced that peace has gone back, perceptibly and unmistakably. Up to 1923, says Lloyd George, each year after the end of the great war showed a distinct improvement of its predecessor, but "the present year has been one of growing gloom and menace; the international temper is distinctly worse all around."

Lloyd George says Europe's patched-up peace pacts will leave the continent in a more precarious plight than ever, but he is still hopeful that the settlement will be left to the diplomats and not to gunmen. The Ruhr situation particularly received the former premier's attention. He is confident that the programme of his government for getting reparations from Germany was the only one possible of fulfilment and he continues to demand full publicity for the British proposals submitted to the allied conference of August, 1922, which he says were substantially accepted by all the allies with the exception of France.

"M. Poincare refused to agree and his refusal alone rendered the conference fruitless," says Lloyd George. "Over a year has elapsed since then. He has pursued a different policy, and so far it has brought him nothing. I am bold enough to predict that in the future will bring France considerably less than the 1922 plan would have yielded."

"If Poincare is out for reparation, his policy will inevitably fail in comparison with that he so rashly threw over, but if he is out for trouble, it has been a great success, and in the future it will be an even greater triumph for his statesmanship. The permanent garrison in the Ruhr has possibilities of mischief which it does not require any special vision to foresee."

Lloyd George's concluding sentences in the preface of the book are: "Peace can only be restored by full recognition of the equities as well as the humanities—of the humanities as well as the equities. I have sought in these pages to deal fairly with both."

Streams Blocked by Herrings

Tromsø, Norway, Sept. 22.—The fjords in the extreme north, in the region of Tana and Vadsø, have been literally blocked into a semi-solid state by herring shoals. The shoals often penetrate to the narrow heads of the fjords where they wedge tight into the jetties of small villages and fishing stations. Several ships have been sent to the north to take advantage of the harvest, and others have arrived at the herring-oil factories heavily laden.

What the World Is Doing

Rolling Dice By Airplane Latest of Sports
With giant dice made of light material, aviators now play the game of dice from their airplanes as one of the latest American sports. Placed in front of the machine, the propeller is twisted, and the rush of air sends the dice rolling down the field with the plane in pursuit. The cubes are then placed in position again.

Suction Cup Holds Ruler Against Blackboard

For teaching classes in subjects that require accurate drawings, a blackboard has been provided with a drawing set that can be instantly attached by a suction cup, from which the instruments swing on a pivot, permitting the use of protractors, divider, T-square, rule, and angles. The force of the suction is sufficient to hold the set to the surface of the board for 15 minutes, when the outfit may be removed or replaced as the same point. Being vertical, this device may be seen from any part of a room, and makes it easier for the lecturer to illustrate his subjects.

DRIVE 3,000 MILES FROM ALBERTA TO KINGSTON

J. E. Cunningham Tells Of Conditions in West—To Settle in Kingston.
J. E. Cunningham, who has been in Alberta during the past ten months in the interest of the Saskatchewan Land and Homestead Company and the Cunningham Land Co., returned home on Wednesday, having driven from Red Deer, Alberta. The trip covered almost 3,000 miles, and took fifteen days actual driving. Mr. Cunningham states that the Minnesota roads are the best encountered, but says that Ontario is almost as good.
Driving across the prairie provinces, Mr. Cunningham had a splendid opportunity of securing conditions and states that Alberta and Saskatchewan have produced very heavily this year. Southern Manitoba was terribly hit by rust.
Mr. Cunningham will likely open an office here for sale and purchase of city and town properties, together with Western Canada loans, lands and sale agreements.
