TRYING TO PLACE ALL BRITISH IMMIGRANTS

Canadian Manufacturers' Association Co-operating — Kingston Demand for Labor.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association is co-operating with the immigration authorities in an endeavor to place all British immigrants who came to Canada as harvesters. The association has issued a circular to the employment offices for the purpose of ascertaining what the labor, skilled and unskilled, requirements are. If these British immigrants are not taken care of now that harvesting is over it is feared that they will be shipped back to their homes. The circular says:

"Most of these immigrants who are now working on farms, are going to be out of work when the cutting and threshing of the crops is finished, and it is known that practically all of them want to stay in Canada if they can find work. Among the 12,000 who came to Canada, as the result of an appeal for harvest help, are both skilled and unskilled workers. Altogether officials of the immigration department say they are of a fine type of Britisher and it would be a loss to Canada if they could not be kept in this country.

"The machinery of the department of immigration and the employment services is going to be placed at the disposal of employers throughout the dominion to try and prevent the return of these young Britishers. Among the harvesters are men belonging to practically every trade. They will be on the lookout for work at their trade here and failing to secure it will doubtless return home. Do you need skilled help? If so make known your wants at once to the nearest employment office."

When questioned regarding the local situation the employment superintendent stated that there was a good demand for labor of nearly every kind in Kingston. It could not be predicted how long this demand would last. There has been no particular action on the part of employers as a result of the above circular. The close of the summer season as a rule throws considerable numbers of unskilled laborers out of work when construction ceases and these seek indoor employment of any kind.

The employment offices are doing splendid work in placing labor and the exact situation may be learned by reference to the records kept in them.

LETTERS To The Editor

Thanks of Humane Society, Kingston, Sept. 26.—(To the Editor) On behalf of the Kingston Humane Society I wish to extend to you my sincere thanks, with those of our staff, for your generous co-operation with us through the medium of your valuable columns for several weeks preceding our tag day of the 15th inst.

We consider that the success of our enterprise was in no small degree the result of the kindly and approving notices of our work, disseminated by the Kingston press, previous to this, our first experiment in "tagging," and we assure you of the heartiest appreciation of your considerate and liberal attitude towards us and our work.

Faithfully yours,
—J. R. C. DOBBS,
President Kingston Humane Society.

KINGSTON CHORAL SOCIETY Has Re-organized for the Season — Prof. Gummer Elected President.

A business meeting of the Kingston Choral Society was held in St. James' Hall Wednesday evening for the purpose of re-organizing for the fall and winter season. A large attendance of members was present, and a quantity of necessary business was transacted. A further business meeting is to be held on Monday to which prospective members are invited for the purpose of receiving the report of the executive committee on several matters referred to it.

Officers of the society and executive committee were elected as follows:—President, Prof. C. Gummer; vice-president, Miss I. G. Bureau; secretary-treasurer, E. Warburton; executive committee, Mrs. C. Gummer, Mrs. J. Macdonald, Mr. G. V. Dredge, and Mr. H. C. Clarke.

Capt. A. Light, musical director, R.C.H.A., who conducted the production of the "Elijah" last season, and to whom, in co-operation with Mrs. A. R. B. Williamson, much of the success attained by the society is due, is to be invited to conduct the society again this winter, while Mrs. Williamson is to be invited to assist as co-director in the capacity of accompanist.

The executive committee, co-operating with Capt. Light and Mrs. Williamson, are to make a selection of music, either secular or religious, to be attempted this season, and report back to the society next Monday. The executive are also authorized to arrange for a suitable hall in which to practice.

The terms of membership include an annual fee of $1, membership being confined to those who are selected by a committee composed of Capt. Light and Mrs. Williamson, to whom application has to be made by prospective members.

The society is apparently off to a good start, and a successful season is confidently looked forward to.

Miss Marion V. Arkey, Kingston, is among students registered in household science in Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Que.

Jasper Park

A night on board the Canadian National train from Edmonton, or to be more exact about eight hours, brings the western traveller to the beauty spot of the Canadian Rockies—Jasper Park.

Situated in the greatest National Park preserve in the Dominion it is a rest haven, cut out of the primeval forest, 3,400 feet above sea level.

Nowhere have we seen a quieter or more restful spot; nowhere it would seem has nature been so unmolesed in making a great summer resort.

In February of this year the axe had not been put into the forest—in July of this year there was accommodation for two hundred guests, and the place was full to capacity.

Jasper Park Lodge is a large log cabin forming the Hotel offices, lounge, and dining room. The buildings—some scores of them, are all of peeled logs with cement and mortar between. The beams are of the same timbers and the braces are of artistic crooked sticks. The selection of these is in itself a work of art and the whole design is a triumph in its native simplicity variety and good taste. Avenues are cut out of the forest and lighted with electric lanterns as the traveller winds his way to the sleeping cabins. These are one two or four room dimensions according to the size of the party or the taste and financial ability of the guests. In each, the equipment is plain but thoroughly modern with electric lights, baths, hot and cold water in every room and all the conveniences of a modern up-to-date hostelry.

The whole place, so new, so modern, so complete, springing into being almost overnight, is set in a perfect picture. A small lake stretches on two sides of it, winding roads lead up the valleys, trails innumerable struggle up the mountain sides, to famous cantons to vast glaciers and unnamed mountains. And this is the single inhabited spot in that vast territory of the National Park—much of which must remain unexplored for years to come.

This place has fortunately none of the marks, as yet, of a conventional summer resort. True the cuisine is of work when construction ceases and these seek indoor employment of any kind.

The employment offices are doing splendid work in placing labor and the exact situation may be learned by reference to the records kept in them.

It is a long train trip from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert or Vancouver. The western tourist even if he spends a day or two in Saskatoon and Edmonton needs to break his journey at some point in the mountains. Besides, one gets no proper introduction to mountain scenery from the window of an observation car. Jasper Park meets this need. Passengers travel on the same ticket either west to Prince Rupert and down the coast by steamer or direct from Jasper south west to Vancouver over the C. N. Lines. In either case the scenery is much more interesting, and the beauties of mountain lake river and sky much more apparent for the few days spent at this mountain resort.

Did I forget to mention that next year there will be a golf course for travellers to "keep fit" and from the look of the country it will not be difficult to make natural hazards on every fairway.

This season Dr. W. G. Dyde will reside in Mrs. Gamsby's house on King street.

He left Canada when thirteen years of age though he has made several trips of extended duration.

Box Social at Mowat.

A very enjoyable box social was held at Mowat Hospital on Wednesday evening, the affair being conducted by Miss O'Donnell and the Children of Mrs. H. F. McGrath, composed of Mrs. H. F. McGrath, George Bow, William Dunn and M. Donnelly, rendered a number of selections during the evening, and were heartily applauded by the audience. George Smith presided and also acted as auctioneer, the boxes being disposed of with general satisfaction and merriment. The affair was voted a real success, and the proceeds, which amounted to around $50, will be devoted to the interests of the tubercular league.
