CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle Ray

The Slaves of Rome.
 It was dangerous for people to walk along country roads in Italy during early Roman times. There was no telling when a band of slave-traders might swoop down and capture wayfarers. Thousands of men, women and children were taken as slaves in this way. Sometimes pirate ships would land near a city and carry off whomever they could catch. Rich Romans complained.
 "Sometimes these pirates take children of the best families and sell them as slaves."
 It often happened that a poor citizen fell into debt. Hard as he tried, he could not pay the money he owed. Then he was sold as a slave.
 In some wars the Romans got tens of thousands of prisoners who became slaves. All the rich families in the city had large numbers of slaves. The master could put them to death if he wanted to, but he seldom did so because slaves were worth money. Beatings, however, were common.
 There were several slave markets in Rome. The unhappy persons who had been captured were sold at auction. They were trotted around as if they were animals for sale. The usual price was between $50 and $1,000. (I am speaking in terms of American money. Of course the Romans used different coins.)
 Probably the hardest life was led by the slaves who worked on farms. From sunrise to sunset—or even longer—they toiled, picking grapes or olives, caring for herds, and taking care of growing crops. The whip of the overseer was often on their backs.
 Next—Out in the Country.

JUSTICE WAKES UP AND PRISONER DIES

French Criminal Lies In Death-House, Forgotten, For Eighteen Months.

Paris, Oct. 11.—Felix Gueydan, "the forgotten criminal," who for 18 months lay in the death-house of the prison at Aix-en-Provence, while a Justice forgot to order his execution, was guillotined yesterday morning at daybreak. His cellmate, who shared the same suspense during the same period, had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.
 Gueydan, who was twice sentenced to death for murder, was quite forgotten by the French public, when suddenly a month ago he returned to the limelight when he addressed to the Procureur-General a letter from his cell, stating that he did not care whether he died or not, but did want to know what his fate was to be.
 The criminal met death calmly yesterday morning, refusing all aid and walked firmly onto the platform, where he knelt and laid his head beneath the knife.

FAILED IN SCORING.

But Collegiate Boys of Picton Had Good Time.

Picton, Oct. 10.—On Monday the Picton Collegiate track team went to Nanawee for the Nanawee C. I. field day. The following went: R. Church, J. Redmond, R. Knox, C. Thompson, J. Reynolds, D. Beamish, and Mr. Phelps, their instructor. The only places Picton secured in the events were two thirds, in the hundred-yard dash, and the half-mile. They had a very pleasant voyage in Mr. Redmond's motorboat.

A nasty accident happened on Monday afternoon when Roland Herrington, aged thirteen, Picton, while watching a junior ball game, was hit with a foul ball which cut his lip, necessitating two stitches.

On Saturday, Bobbie Young, had his arm broken when a car, driven by H. Dayton, struck him. C. B. Beamish, on Tuesday, returned from Toronto, where he had been on business. On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Nick Gilbert and Miss Spafford entertained at bridge.

GLASGOW WOMAN HANGED.

First In Seventy Years—Killed Eleven-Year-Old Boy.

London, Oct. 11.—Susan Newell, the first woman to go to the gallows in Glasgow in the past seventy years, was executed in the Duke street prison, Glasgow yesterday morning for murdering a school boy at Coatbridge.

Attempts were made to obtain a reprieve for the woman and when these proved unsuccessful she was informed of her fate by the Lord Provost and town clerk. The Lord Provost was visibly moved and expressed profound regret that he was obliged to be the bearer of the message that the Secretary for Scotland had not seen his way to grant a reprieve.

LLOYD GEORGE PRESENTED WITH KEY TO CITY OF MONTREAL.

Britain's famous war premier was almost mobbed, time and time again, by enthusiastic Montrealers during his visit to the metropolis. In the picture he is seen with Mayor Mederic Martin, during the presentation of a Key to the City of Montreal, and a civic address. At the right is Dame Margaret Lloyd George.
