NEW NOTIONS IN OLD JERUSALEM

The International Sunday School Lesson for October 14th is: "Israel, a Missionary Nation."—Ex. 19:1-6; Isa. 43:9-11; 45:20-22.

By William T. Ellis.

Strange and upsetting facts confront one in old Jerusalem these days. The beautiful dream of Zionism loses most of its bloom upon close approach. A visiting investigator, who is trying to "see both sides and get all the facts," is in for some startling experiences. One of the most significant is the discovery that the orthodox Jews in Palestine are mostly bitter opponents of the present Zionist project. Of the forty thousand Jews in Jerusalem today, the majority are arrayed in opposition to political Zionism. They are the old residents, the devout children of Israel who repaired to Jerusalem for purely spiritual motives. A brilliant Dutch lawyer, a Jew from Amsterdam, who has been made to suffer many indignities, including the loss of his position as a University professor in Jerusalem, because of his outspoken anti-Zionist views, set forth for me, in succinct and picturesque English, the familiar argument that it is impossible to restore Israel to her historic and spiritual mission among the nations by means of what he characterized as "a lot of infidel Bolsheviks, these Jewish colonists from Russia."

five years. Leader after leader has fallen or failed. Plan after plan has proved futile. Both reactionary and radical experiments have been vainly tried to the limit. Still conditions in the world grow worse and worse. Although statesmen continue to talk in the sordid terms of the money-market, at least there are signs that men are beginning to perceive that it is moral and spiritual leadership that mankind awaits. Things will never be right among the nations until people get right with God and His clear laws. It is a spiritual Israel, calling men to penitence and obedience to the King of Kings, that is the day's international need. This is the sort of Zionism—a return to the true worship of Jehovah—that holds hope for humanity.

Some Nation's Opportunity. It was a big idea that old Israel embodied; and that it is the most needed plan for today but vindicates the ancient revelation. The children of Promise were chosen as the medium through whom the One True God should reveal himself to an idolatrous world. Not for themselves, alone was the supreme revelation given to the Jews of the unity of God; they were to be His missionaries to all mankind. The crown of Israel's blessing was that it should become a blessing. Some thing more than salvation for the Jews was involved; theirs was a call to highest service. They became a great nation because of the unifying and inspiring truth of their mission as God's peculiar people.

With a sense of awe, we recognize the tremendous truth that today some existing nation—and probably the free Christian people of this Western world—has an opportunity to duplicate Israel's mission, on a far larger scale, without making Israel's supreme mistake. Leadership of the whole world awaits that land which has the vision to fulfill its Christian destiny. It any people have a sufficient sense of the times' desperate need, and of the simple qualification necessary for this incomparable task, to undertake to illustrate and to proclaim the truth that the way of obedience to God is the only way out of the jungle in which this generation finds itself, that people will inherit all the blessings ever promised to ancient Israel.

Although it is the most pertinent illustration of the present Lesson, this is not the place to set forth the Zionist story as one finds it in actuality in Palestine; except to say that the many devout Christians in Western Europe and United States who believe that present-day Zionism fulfills the prophecies concerning Israel as a missionary nation, and the return of the Jews to the Land of Promise, can find no support for their views from the Christians in Jerusalem. I failed to discover a single Christian Briton or American in Palestine who does not disapprove of the existing Zionist enterprise. One of the foremost in denouncing Zionism to me was a British missionary to the Jews, who nevertheless believes that some day Israel will return to the Land of Promise.

More Important Than Zionism. Whether this particular enterprise of Zionism is a success or a failure, a good or a bad thing for the world, may be a relatively small matter, but whether the human race, in this hour of emergent need, is to be served by some people who sincerely feel themselves to be God's chosen instrument of holiness. This is the one central point of the day's Lesson. If literal Israel has failed of her opportunity, then some spiritual successor must become God's missionary to the nations, to testify to the real nature of Jehovah and to set forth the divine will for human relationship.

Tragedy after tragedy has overtaken the nations of the earth in the past century. This is the one central point of the day's Lesson. If literal Israel has failed of her opportunity, then some spiritual successor must become God's missionary to the nations, to testify to the real nature of Jehovah and to set forth the divine will for human relationship.

The SOCIETY WOMAN contrives it

Her skin smooth - supple - young years longer than other women's

"A woman's complexion should be very nearly perfect. It must be smooth, supple and transparently fresh and it must never betray fatigue or the effects of weather." "This, if it were written, would be the society woman's code. As proof of it, there is scarcely a woman of prominent social position whose age you can guess by lines or any dullness of skin. That does not mean she does not motor or take part in whatever sports are in season. She is a zealous sportswoman by day and appears in the evening with delicate skin unmarred."

How do they accomplish it—Two essentials of skin loveliness

THERE are two fundamental needs of the skin that the society woman knows cannot be neglected without disaster—regular cleansing in the particular way that cannot possibly tighten or coarsen the skin—and careful protection and freshening for all day-time and evening appearances.

Long before even the society woman considered sports seriously, Pold's knew these two essentials, and to meet them, perfected two entirely different creams, which used together form the modern care for woman's skin.

Pond's Cold Cream of a special lightness and fineness, not only cleanses but restores the skin's essential suppleness—Pond's Vanishing Cream, not only gives unflinching protection, but in addition beautifies the skin instantly, making it marvelously fresh and smooth.

With this method your complexion need never be roughened or reddened by exposure, nor lined or coarsened through neglect. Begin today to use Pond's Two Creams regularly to give your skin that well-cared-for look and smooth loveliness that distinguish the women who must be beautiful in spite of their active social life.

A Story From Beersheba.

Just as a man must have a purpose, in order to save his life from frittering away, so a nation mission if it is to fulfill a distinctive destiny. Such a spirit depends on leadership among the people, even as the World waits for leadership by some nation which knows itself to be called and set apart. In stressing this plain point of leadership, I am not going one jot beyond the foremost teaching of the day's Lesson. The whole mission of Israel hinged upon God's recognition of this truth.

Down in Beersheba Palestine, some time ago, an incident occurred that fairly pictures the case, especially as applied to individual possibilities. There had been Arab risings and rebellion in and about Beersheba. This is a pastoral region, and the British authorities decided to punish the people by confiscating their flocks. So the punitive force gathered up the flocks of sheep assembled at the wells of Beersheba and decided to drive them all off, for further disposition. All the separate flocks, of individuals and of villages, were massed in one vast flock, containing many thousands of sheep.

Then the order was given to move on with the confiscated stock. That was more easily said than done. The huge aggregation of animals refused to be driven. Soldiers yelled at them and flung stones and beat the outside sheep with their guns. They rode furiously to and fro behind the immense flock, firing their rifles into the air. All in vain. The affrighted animals simply milled to and fro in panic. The authority of the British Government meant nothing to them. Little the silly creatures cared for officialdom. It was a military expedition versus a flock of dumb animals. Every effort of the army was put forth to move the sheep, but without effect; and the officers felt that they were being made ridiculous in the eyes of the Arabs. Then a wise head suggested, "call the Shepherds." At once the word went forth, and the shepherds appeared amidst the heterogeneous mass of fear-smitten animals. All seemed confusion and hopeless tangle, until each shepherd began to call his own sheep by name and then to walk forth in front of them. At once order succeeded chaos. The sheep knew their shepherd's voice and followed him. What authority and force and formidable measures of coercion had failed to do was accomplished by each shepherd's caring for his own flock.

Isn't that a picture of the world and its present plight? It is to be delivered by leadership; by each man each nation, fulfilling the shepherd role to those who know his voice. The incident is a parable for pastors; and none the less for patriots and all publicists. The Great Shepherd has given the gift of leadership to those who dare lead, in obedience to Him. And some Shepherd Nation may, nowadays become a new Israel to lead the panicky, punished and perishing world back to God.

With the present condition of mind existing in Europe, U. S. President Coolidge sees little or nothing to be gained from an endeavor to hold a world economic conference.

Nineteen thousand Hudson coal miners, on strike at Scranton, Pa., voted to return to work and let a conciliation board settle their grievances.
