Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bastow, 85 Queen street, came on Sunday and on Monday to offer them congratulations on having spent fifty happy years of married life together. They received beautiful gifts of all description among them fifty yellow roses from three nieces in Chicago, and quantities of yellow mums. A friend who had been at their wedding fifty years ago, when they were married in St. James' church by the late Rev. F. W. Kirkpatrick, came to bring his congratulations, and Mrs. Bastow received a letter from her bride-maid recalling the old days. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. Merritt from the tea pot given Mrs. Bastow at her wedding, and the guests had the honor of drinking it out of the dainty china cups of the set. Miss Lily and Miss Alma Merritt assisted in the tea room and Mrs. C. B. Morrill, a sister of Mrs. Bastow, assisted her in receiving her many guests. Mr. and Mrs. Bastow have been life long members of St. James' church.

The decorations in the reception rooms were of golden mums and the color scheme of gold was carried out in the table decorations and confections, the loes being decked with a tiny golden rose in which was set a golden lighted candle. A pleasant feature of the dessert was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Mylks, by Mrs. G. W. Mylks, of a purse of gold, the gift of their sons Dr. G. W. Mylks and Dr. Leonard Mylks, Birch Hills, Sask. A telegram from Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Mylks and many letters of congratulations were read. Mrs. C. L. Bass, Toronto, a sister of Mrs. M. Mylks, and Mrs. James Connell, Brockville, an old friend of the guests of honor, were among the guests. After dinner, music was provided by the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Mylks, Gordon, Henry and Helen Mylks, who made delightful

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It To Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mix the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by drawing all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

That a visit to the fruit pantry of the Y.W.C.A. would surely make your mouth water, for here are rows upon rows of homemade jams, jellies and pickles with a special section for breakfast marmalades. Canned fruit so preserved as to taste almost like the fresh berries, is as good as it looks.

That the prayers of the congregations of the city churches were asked on Sunday for the sufferers from the recent earthquake in Japan, and the clergy urged a generous response to the Red Cross appeal.

That this is the time to buy wild grapes to make home-made wine. If you cannot get enough of the wild fruit, add some of the garden grapes, and if you are careful in the preparation, you will have a delicious beverage.

That it is thought by those who know conditions in the city that there will not be so much distress among the less fortunate people this winter. But the Victorian nurses always have distressing cases to deal with, and are glad of clothing, old linen and sick room supplies.

That the farmers were indeed glad of the rain and are hard at work ploughing the fields for next year's crop.

That Sydenham Woman's Institute will arrange for a three days' Chautauqua by the Redpath Company.

LAWLER-MARTIN NUPTIALS. Took Place at St. Mary's Cathedral on Tuesday Morning.

Dr. Ambrose B. Lawler, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Lawler, and Miss Gertrude Mary Martin, daughter of the late Captain Charles Martin and of Mrs. Martin, 13 Balclutha street, were married in St. Mary's cathedral Tuesday morning. Rev. Father Lacey officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Sloan, Cornwall, and Fred Martin, Montreal, was best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Captain Harry Martin, Montreal.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's mother. Only the members of the immediate families were present as the wedding was a quiet one owing to a recent bereavement in the family. Friends and relatives, showered beautiful gifts upon the bride who was one of Kingston's most popular young ladies, and the drawing room tables were laden with silverware, fine china, cut glass and jewelry. The wedding cake, made by Mrs. Martin, was a work of art.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawler will spend their honeymoon touring in New York State, and they left on the Steamer Waubic for Cape Vincent. Upon their return they will take up residence at 218 Alfred street.

Dr. Lawler is a promising young physician of Kingston, and his marriage is the occasion of hearty congratulations from his medical associates and numerous friends.

A Story of Peever's Settlement. The Canadian Farmer: Years ago there lay away back from the settled portion of the Diocese of Ontario—North Hastings to be geographically explicit—a hamlet known as Peever's Settlement. I fancy the people there were of Dutch extraction. They had no resident clergyman, but someone went among them from time to time, baptizing, catechizing, marrying and now and again when such was possible, burying. After a while a little church was built and when it was ready for service the patriarch of the family, who had often read the church prayers and kept alive the spirit of religion in the little settlement, decided that he and he alone, should nail above the church the wooden cross which would mark it as the house of God. He was a very old man and the younger men demurred, fearing an accident. But the old man was firm, and mounting the ladder he nailed the cross in place. "In the Name of the Father," he said solemnly, as the first blow of the hammer fell; "In the Name of the Son," and another nail went; "In the Name of the Holy Ghost," and the third nail drove in. Later, the then Bishop of the Diocese, the Right Reverend John Travers Lewis, went to the settlement to confirm a group of candidates and to consecrate the church. He was told the story of the raising of the cross. "The church has no need of consecration, by me," said the Bishop, when he heard it. "It was consecrated on the day that John Peever set the cross upon it in the name of the Trinity."

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 17. The planetary configurations for this day point to lively and satisfactory conditions in all lines of commercial and professional pursuits, as Mars and Mercury are under the trine aspect of the Moon. The spirit may be aggressive and adventurous, inclining towards bold and important projects. It may be a propitious time for making new contracts, oral or written. The health may give concern, and domestic affairs may prove annoying or possibly hostile and disappointing.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an active and progressive year in business, but they may encounter unhappy conditions in the domestic relations. The health should receive particular attention. A child born on this day will be blessed with a bold, enterprising and resourceful nature, which should assist it to a high position in life.

IF YOU HAD BEEN GODIVA. If you had been Godiva: And I'd been Peeping Tom: Would I have viewed with sensual eyes Your epic of sacrifice? Would I have spurned the states learned In youth from Pop and Mom— If you had been Godiva And I'd been Peeping Tom?

If you had been Delilah From Sorek near the sea And I'd been Samson, tall and strong, With wits so weak and hair so long: Would you have sold for pagan gold Your honor soul and me— If you had been Delilah From Sorek near the sea?

Had I had Cranmer's choice to take Or Wolsey's cards to play: Could I have met each scorching test? That downed the noblest and the best? Could you as Queen Penelope Have worn the long years through While suave and sleek Heftenic kings Stood flirting round in amorous rings? What towering peaks of principle We might have tumbled from: If you had been Ulysses' queen— If I'd been Peeping Tom!

(The recipe of Monsieur Filippini, former chef of Delmonico's, simplified for home use)

Peel six medium-sized potatoes, slice them into rather thin, equal slices. Heat in a frying pan one and a half tablespoons melted Crisco. Season with one teaspoon salt and two saltspoons white pepper. Gently toss the potatoes once in a while, cooking for seven minutes on a brisk fire, then give them an omelet form; cook them for four minutes longer, or until they obtain a good golden color.
