"Tess of the Storm Country."
 Jane Hastings and her associate players will present a dramatization of Grace Miller White's famous novel "Tess of the Storm Country" at the Grand Theatre to-night, Friday night and Saturday matinee and night. "Tess of the Storm Country" is distinctly a comedy drama—homely cheerful, inspiring and diverting. It dwells for the most part on the community spirit in a typical fishing village along the shores of Cayuga Lake in the celebrated Finger Lake Region. The play has enjoyed unusual success wherever it has been presented, several high salaried companies have taken the piece on the road and the better class stock organizations have found it to be the most pleasing and satisfactory vehicle of their seasons list. Comedy and sentiment are agreeably blended in the intensely interesting heart story. So cleverly and ingeniously told that you laugh and cry alternately. You are touched by the ignorant simplicity of the ways of Tessel Skinner. If you have a friend who has not seen the Jane Hastings Players you owe it to him to bring him to the Grand Opera House without further delay. Perhaps he does not realize that there is a real company of finished actors, producing the best dramatic successes and staging them in a manner that compares favorably with the big traveling road shows. "Tess of the Storm Country" was the greatest picture success that Mary Pickford ever appeared in.

special is comedy to the core. We expect thrills, for Tom is one of the supreme masters of the art of thrilling, and we get fun, fun, fun, with more fun thrown in. By the way, in view of many of the stories circulated about Tom being of a studious turn of mind, Mrs. Mix has recently been denying them. Tom loves the ranch, it is his world, and he is most at home on horseback. Getting back to "Soft Boiled," it is probably the most varied picture Tom has starred in, the scenes and the action change delightfully. And the women folk are prominent in it. Billie Dove, the leading lady, is just as bewitching as ever, while the big beauty chorus is a winner, selected from the prettiest girls on the Pacific coast. Some of the ladies' costumes are marvels of novelty and beauty, particularly those of the mysterious "masked dancer." Tony, Tom's beloved steed, wins new laurels in "Soft Boiled," and makes the spectators wish they could have a horse like him for themselves. "Live Wires" is the short comedy at the Strand, and it thoroughly deserves its title.

WAS BORN 102 YEARS AGO
Mrs. Darius Smith, Collin's Bay, Celebrates Auspicious Event on Thursday.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, widow of the late Darius Smith, who was one hundred and two years of age on Thursday, Oct. 18th, officiated at the opening of the new Collin's Bay diversion in company with Anthony Rankin, M.P.P., she drove over the new roadway during Thursday afternoon and was delighted with the excellent piece of road.

On Wednesday afternoon, a representative of the Whig had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Smith at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. F. Vanlunen, Collin's Bay. Mrs. Smith, who is probably the oldest lady in eastern Ontario, stated that she was looking forward with great interest to the opening of the new road. Although a centenarian she is still fairly active and enjoys the pleasure of life. Only recently she made an appointment to go to Cataract cemetery and visit the grave of her husband who died when he was sixty-three years of age.

Mrs. Smith stated that she could well remember when the village of Wilton was first named. This place ninety-three years ago was called Simmon's Mills, and Francis Prime was instrumental in having the name changed to Wilton.

For seven years, Mrs. Smith was a school teacher, and can well remember the difficult time she had in getting to and from school.

Her late husband was for years inspector of light houses on the great lakes and the St. Lawrence River. She can well remember her husband going to Montreal for supplies, which were taken up the great lakes.

When asked how she felt, Mrs. Smith stated that she was in the best of condition and enjoyed her three meals each day and was still able to attend to her own hair. Her hearing and eyesight are not as good as it was two years ago.

For years Mrs. Smith has lived with her daughter, Mrs. T. F. Vanlunen, Collin's Bay, who has been confined to her bed for the past two months. Mrs. (Rev.) J. Ferguson, Aultsville, and Mrs. W. E. Grass, Collin's Bay, are also daughters. Three sons died some years ago, and two daughters died when they were very young.

JACKIE COOGAN COMING IN GREAT CIRCUS FILM.
 Jackie Coogan and a great circus are coming to town. Jackie will realize the dream of nearly every boy—young as six or old as sixty—and will be the star of a glittering, gorgeous, mammoth aggregation of the world's most marvellous wonders. Though he will be seen first as a very humble and very forlorn young lad selling ice cream, lemonade and peanuts to occupants of the "big-top" of Daly's greatest show on earth. Sol Lesser presents Jackie in the successor to the same producer's presentation of "Oliver Twist," and the name of the lavish picture which will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day, Friday and Saturday is "Circus Days." It is a very free and liberal transcription for the screen taken from James O'Hara's ever-popular story for boys (and girls, too) "Toby Tyler," which story has been current and popular for two generations and bids fair to endure into the classic age. Harry Well and Director Eddie Clino are responsible for the adaptation of "Toby Tyler" and a cast of extraordinary excellence will be seen in the leading roles. Barbara Tennant will be seen as Toby's harassed mother; Claire McDowell will appear as Martha, the somewhat soured aunt of the hero; Russel Simpson takes the part of Uncle Eben Holt; Cesare Gravini, who made a big hit with his performance of the role of the aged violinist with Jackie in "Daddy," will portray another endearing role, that of clown; Peaches Jackson will be adorable as the tiny equestrienne star of the big show. An entire circus equipment was assembled for the making of this the most pretentious and costly of any production in which the genius of little Jackie has yet shown.

LEAVES NOTE TELLING OF HIS SUICIDE INTENT
Oliver Graham, Cape Vincent, Disappears—The Body is Not Yet Located.

Watertown, N.Y., Times.
 Deputy Sheriff Andrew Truell, Cape Vincent, N.Y., asked the police department for assistance in locating Oliver Graham, Cape Vincent, about thirty-five years of age, who left a note on a boat deck in that village, Sunday night, stating that he was going to commit suicide. He is not believed to have done so, however.

Graham was employed by Archie Garlock, a net fisherman of Cape Vincent, during the summer. This morning Garlock found the following note on the deck of his boat:

"Archie,
 "Break news to wife that I have taken Lattie's punt and jumped overboard other side of breakwater. Got discouraged of living, being in debt and family troubles."
 "Signed, Oliver Graham."

The note was written on a sheet of cheap pad paper and enclosed in an envelope.

Search of the waters about Cape Vincent harbor failed to reveal the body, nor could there be found the missing punt which Graham said he was going to take.

Graham is a native of Canada, but has resided in Cape Vincent several years. A few years ago he married Miss Emma Kessler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kessler of that village. They have one child.

Married life brought financial troubles to Graham, who is said to have worried over these matters of late. His wife is in a delicate condition, and Graham was recently sued for a debt.

Investigation by Deputy Sheriff Truell revealed that Graham left his home about 6:30 Sunday evening, merely saying "Good bye" to his wife, who expected he would return soon. The note was found on the boat this morning at 7:30.

An unconfirmed report has it that Graham wore both of his suits of clothes when he left home, but his two suits of clothes are found to be missing. Some people in Cape Vincent claim to have seen Graham even there on the early bus Sunday evening.

Principal Sliter addressed the meeting and outlined the possibilities of the organization as a stimulator of school spirit and means of betterment for the pupils. A society such as the Junior Literary Society represents the standard of the school, as the subjects presented to the students are well chosen and appeal to a high sense of culture and refinement. Every possible support should be rendered the society by both students and parents in an effort to further raise the standard of the school and provide wider means of outlook for the pupils.
