REV. DR. HERRIDGE AT CHALMERS CHURCH

Preached Two Forceful Sermons at the Services There on Sunday.

At both services in Chalmers church on Sunday, the pulpit was occupied by the Very Reverend W. T. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa, who delivered two very forceful discourses. Rev. Dr. Malcolm Macgillivray assisted in the services.

At the morning service, Rev. Dr. Herridge preached from the text; Romans VIII, 37: "Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us."

In going through life, the strength or weakness of human nature asserted itself. If life were too easy we might become idle, while if life were too hard, we might fall in discouragement or despair. Life provides a wide range of possibilities and the choice remains within ourselves. It was for Him who overcame all these things to be given the crown of life. Life was not all conflict, although there was considerable in it, and one did not want to be beaten. Everyone would like to know the secret of triumph. The Christian warrior realized that strength came from God.

The Christian sees that into his life Christ may enter, to transfigure and to glorify. Christian triumph has a rich wide margin, an excess over the requirements, with no reason for doubt, and with no room for anything but gratitude to God.

During the morning service, Miss Craig rendered a fine solo. At the evening service Dr. Herridge's subject was the yesterday Christ, "Is not the Life greater than meat?"

YOUNG MEN WON WAR, SAYS GEN. MACDONELL

Who Addressed the Kiwanis Club in the Odessa Methodist Church.

The young men won the war, not the officers nor the old men, said Major Gen. Sir A. C. Macdonell in an address before the Kiwanis club in the Methodist church at Odessa on Sunday afternoon. Gen. Macdonell spoke on "The Canadian Soldier on the Western Front" and in his usual interesting way told of the response of the boys from the cities, towns and the farms in Canada when the call came for men to fight for the Empire. He explained the formation of the Canadian Corps, a fighting unit that was to become the spear-head in the final drive of the Allies in 1918 that smashed the German lines and made victory possible.

"It was the Canadian boys who did it and when anybody asks me who won the war I am proud to say that the Canadian boys did it." Rev. Sotford P. Dixon conducted a vesper service and there was a large congregation composed of residents of Odessa and vicinity. The Kiwanis Club was well represented.

A Marriage on Saturday. At St. Luke's church, on Oct. 27th at 7 p.m., Miss Louise Tolhurst, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tolhurst, 269 Colborne street, was united in marriage to Cecil George Allen, youngest son of William J. Allen, 151 Clergy street. Rev. J. DeP. Wright, officiated. The bride was dressed in a blue suit with hat to match. The bridesmaid wore georgette. The gifts to the bridesmaid, Miss Katie Allen, was a bracelet, and to the groomsmen, Alfred Kelly, a pearl studded tiepin. After the wedding a dainty buffet lunch was served. There were many handsome gifts. The couple will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Born in Ireland. An Irishman was being cross-examined in a case of assault. "Did the prisoner strike you with malice." "He did not have van, nor, so he struck me with his fist." After the court had recovered, counsel proceeded: "Where were you born?" "Ireland." "What part, begorra! The howl at ye, av course."

Vacancy at Chalmers. A meeting of the congregation at Chalmers church was held on Sunday evening, following the service, to deal with the vacant charge. Rev. Dr. Malcolm Macgillivray presided, and the meeting adopted the resolutions presented by the joint boards with regard to the calling of a minister. A committee has been named to make a selection of suitable ministers and report to the congregation.

In the Interest of Accuracy. "You have heard what the last witness said," persisted counsel, "and yet your evidence is to the contrary. Am I to infer that you wish to throw doubt on her veracity?" The police young man waved a deprecating hand.

"Not at all," he replied. "I merely wish to make it clear what a liar I am if she's speaking the truth."—Tit-Bits (London).

Some of us are so much accustomed to disguise ourselves to others, that at length we disguise ourselves to ourselves.

On Oct. 23rd, at the Methodist parsonage, Trenton, William Ostrom and Marie Casement, Belleville were married.

HIER HIP BROKEN IN FALL

A Regretted Accident Befel Mrs. G. W. Morden, Napanee, on Saturday.

A distressing accident occurred in Kingston on Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. G. W. Morden, Napanee, fell and broke her hip. She, with her husband, Dr. G. W. Morden, and other friends, came to Kingston to witness the Queens-McGill football game. Mrs. Morden, who has not been in very robust health during the summer, decided to call on some friends while the rest of the party took in the game, so walking on the sidewalk, in some unaccountable manner, she tripped and fell heavily, breaking her hip. She was taken to the General hospital, where her injury was attended to. Her friends in Napanee and Kingston are pained to learn of her mishap.

A STUDENTS' SERVICE.

Held in Sydenham Street Church on Sunday Evening.

Sydenham street Methodist church was crowded to the doors on Sunday evening when W. J. Rose, M.A., a Rhodes scholar and a former professor of classics in Manitoba University, spoke to the students of Queen's. For years past it has been the custom to hold services at the university for the students, but this year it has been decided to bring outstanding men to the city and the services will be held in the city churches. The first service took place on Sunday evening and judging from the attendance the change is a move in the right direction. The services at the college have not been as well attended as the university authorities would like.

Prof. R. O. Jolliffe of the staff of Queen's University, spoke of the days that he had been associated with Mr. Rose while on the staff of the Manitoba University.

When war broke out Mr. Rose was studying in Germany and was interned. While he was detained in that country he studied Polish, and after the war was over he went to Poland where he has done work among the students in the polish universities. On Sunday evening Mr. Rose told of the work which is being done in that country which is gradually coming back to her own after the war.

At the close of the evening service over two hundred attended the singing and social hour. J. Alexander Edmison, a student attending Queen's University, and who is mayor of the city of Toronto, gave an excellent address on "service." It was one of the best addresses which have been heard in a long time. Musical numbers were given by G. Radcliff and C. Williams. Ernest I. Adrand presided at the piano.

WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES E. BROOKS Secretary, American Meteorological Society, Tells How.

Three Recent Tropical Cyclones.

Though the tropical cyclone is best known through the bad reputation of the West Indian hurricanes and the typhoon, there are numerous tropical cyclones of much less destructive intensity. Three of these entered the eastern United States and as two storms crossed into Canada October 16-19, 1933. After a number of days of low pressure in the Gulf of Mexico a tropical cyclone of nearly hurricane intensity was reported by two vessels not far south of Louisiana. The storm reached the coast during the night of October 15-16, and moved northward. Another one arrived early on the 17th. By the evening of the 19th the remains of this pair were somewhere in Canada south of Hudson Bay. These storms readily followed a lane of warm, moist air which during several days before had spread from the Gulf to Canada.

The other storms appearing suddenly from the direction of Bermuda brought rain to New England early on the 18th, before the Weather Bureau could forecast it. The only warning of its approach was the slow rise of high clouds far to the southeast in an otherwise cloudless sky during the 17th, and a northeast wind that did not die at nightfall. A boisterous wind, magnificent, festooned clouds, then a heavy shower, and the storm had arrived. Drizzle and rain continued in southern New England with the northeast wind for nearly 24 hours. The weather became muggy as the centre approached. Then followed a squally and showery southwest wind for 24 hours more. A tropical storm had passed across New England. It had in moderate form the characteristics of its dreaded relative, the West Indian hurricane. On account of a restricted supply of moisture it was too weak to make more than about one inch of rain. The Gulf storms operated with all more abundantly supplied with water vapor and their latent energy was much stronger; the wind rose to 60 miles and hour, and the rainfall totalled nearly 10 inches at Penacola, Fla.

How Many Cats Had She? A lady called at the Sheldon, Mo., Enterprise office and without preliminary statement asked us to kindly write her twenty eight lines of poetry.

She gave no explanation for her rather unusual request, but reciting the following lines which appeared in our issue of last week, the connection is obvious: "I tried to write some poetry—Painstakingly I tried; I read four lines to our black cat. And the cat curled up and died."

Kaster, Stockholm: "No young man should go anywhere he cannot take his mother or sister. Is there any here among you young men who breaks this rule?"

Voice—"Yes, I do!" "And where do you go then?" "To the barber's."

Friend—"And you did not let fall a single tear as you stood by the grave of your benefactor." Friend—"Well, I should have done, you see, I came without my handkerchief."

Meggendorfer Blaetter, Munich: "Oh, Adolph, how came you to choose just me?" "Well, with my small salary, I couldn't make a very wide selection."

Klod Haus, Copenhagen: "How can you tell he loves you if he hasn't said so?" "I can tell by the way he looks at me when I look at him."

Nebelsfalter, Zurich: "Look, mother! the police are taking a man up!" "Well, don't act as if you thought it was your father again!"

Fliegende Blaetter, Munich. He—What shall I do dear? Your father has threatened to throw me downstairs and to break every bone in my body! She—Don't worry, dear! His acts are only half as bad as his threats.

"Your friend Coldmaier is being married! It's remarkable how the most stupid men find a wife!" "Not at all—the sensible ones don't get married."

Simfiscimus, Munich: "Why does the daughter of the house sing in the dining room?" "It's the only way to get the guests to leave the table."

"Why has father got hair on his head?" "Because he thinks so much." "And why have you so much hair?"
