Considering the number of people there are to tell him about it, no man ought to make the same mistake twice.

The pen is many times made the weapon of injustice.

The Editor Hears

That the very finest brand of Indian Summer, having all the qualifications, that is, warm sunshine in November after the first snow is with us. It arrived on Friday in time to get everyone enthusiastic about the big match.

That the roses, "nipped in the bud" by Jack Frost, present a rather pathetic sight in the Custom House garden. But it is something to have roses that contemplate blooming in Kingston as late as November.

That the small hat of a gray color will be much worn with fud coats this winter. They are easy to make at home, and a clever girl should have several.

That "Good Old Queen's" has drawn hundreds of her graduates back to the city "On Old Ontario Strand" to see the rugby team play for the championship.

That the Daughters of the Empire have chosen the right place for the cenotaph. The passing boats will carry those who will see that Kingston honors her dead, and the children, playing on the shore, will not forget that men of their own cared enough for the Empire to give their lives that she might live.

That the visits of the students of Queen's University of Sunday afternoon are eagerly looked forward to by the inmates of the Home of the Aged.

November. The children wade amid the sodden leaves, So lately glistening green in summer breeze Now dropping slowly from the bare brown trees, That stretch gaunt arms about the cottage eaves. Stripped are the orchards; gathered in the sheaves.

The wild fowl quite her haunts for southern seas Ere touched by silent frost the streamlets freeze And winter's craft her icy mantles weaves.

About the woods there breathes the mystic spell That speaks of vanished beauty, lost delight; The last belated robin flutes farewell The sun, 'mid red and purple, sinks from sight.

While the wild winds and rain-gusts rise and swell To wrap the world in storm and wintry night. —Agnes Maul Machar.

Three Minute Journeys

The Railroad with the Serpentine Track. The most wonderful railroad in the world is located in Peru, but it is a triumph of American achievement, because it was designed and constructed by American engineers. In seven hours it rises from sea level, or practically sea level at Lima, to the tip top of the Andes at Cerro de Pasco, more than sixteen thousand feet above the sea.

Furthermore, this remarkable railroad is standard gauge, and does not contain a cogwheel in its entire system. There are many mountain railroads which climb with the aid of cog track, into which cogs on the bottom of the engine fit, and give the leverage needed for a steep climb. But the Peruvian road is so ingeniously constructed that it lifts steadily on a three per cent grade, and can thus manage heavy freight trains as well as passenger cars. The Andes mountains are full of copper, and the Cerro de Pasco mines are among the richest in the world. It was to connect the mines with the sea that this road was built.

Five Tracks Can Be Seen.

In order to preserve a minimum grade the road winds round and round mountain sides until, in one place, you can look down and see five tracks below you at distances of from a quarter of a mile to a half mile. There are tracks you have already traversed in your climb. The western slopes of the Andes are not particularly picturesque. There are practically no rainfalls, and no vegetation of any sort—only vast mounds of brown dirt, black rock and yellow clay. In the valleys, where swift mountain streams irrigate the soil for a few rods on either side, there are streaks of green, and here and there an Indian village. The mountains, however are bare and grim; grand, maybe, but beautiful not at all.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Green and Black. Some of the most lovely lingerie recently displayed is of green georgette trimmed with black shadow lace and black ribbon.

Yellow and Blue. With a plain little frock of navy charmeuse are trimmings of bright canary yellow braid and a canary colored felt cloche.

Sports Blouses. Sports blouses of rayon and silk broadcloth come in excellent styles this season. The more dressy blouses have elaborate beading and embroidery.

Tiered Skirt. An unusual black velvet frock has a three-tiered skirt bound on each edge with watered silk ribbon.

Keeps Fish Fresh. When your neighbor gives you some fish from his catch and you do not wish to use the fish until the next day, sprinkle it liberally with salt and wrap in a piece of muslin wrung out of vinegar. Rinse under cold water before cooking.

Blue and Gold. Dull blue velvet is made into the most effective frocks this season by combining it with gold and silver tissues.

This old world is full of important people who have nothing but associations to back them up.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat ticks, bronchial asthma or winter coughs. To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.
