CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle Ray

Winter Homes in Cellars.
 How would you like to live in the cellar?
 I'm certain you wouldn't like it for long.
 The Germans had cellars under their huts, and many families spent part of their time during the winter months under ground.
 German houses were not very well built. The chill winds of winter came through the logs or wove twigs. That is why the families went into the large holes beneath the huts.

 There were no window-panes to let light in the cellars. The Germans probably got most of their light from torches. No doubt there were a few small holes which let in fresh air.
 Fires were built in this logly home. The women spent their time spinning thread, weaving cloth or sewing. Sometimes they cooked.
 The men lay beside the fire, sleeping a great deal of the time. While awake, they talked to one another, drank beer, and gambled.
 Ah, yes, they gambled! It seems no men were ever more fond of gambling than those rough Germans.

WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS
Secretary, American Meteorological Society, Tells How.

Rain Falls Where it Falls.
 The popular idea of rain or snow is that it arrives on the wind, ready made. In their mind's eye many people see the drops or flakes forming great distances away, usually out on the ocean, and carried by the stormwind over sea and land until its time comes to fall. This is far from being the fact.
 Rain or snow forms where it falls. For example, the cold northeast storm wind arrives, bringing little moisture with it. The moisture is already here, warded up from the south in warm winds. Being warm and light the south wind rides above the cold air. Thus we have the northeast wind in the levels next to the earth, with the south wind flowing over it aloft. The warm moist air rising over the denser air hugging the ground is cooled by expansion so far that its dewpoint is reached. Further cooling condenses some of its water vapor, and we have rain in summer and rain or snow in winter.

In the great northeast storm of October 23rd to 24th, which prevailed the entire length of the Atlantic Coast, this condition was well illustrated. For two days the northeast wind poured in below, while the vapor-impregnated southeast wind flowed over it, and a great rainfall resulted in southern New England varying from four to five inches. But on the second day the warm current began to dominate on the middle and north Atlantic coast and finally reached the ground displacing the cold air and locally sending the mercury up 10 degrees in a few minutes. This warm wind contained about three times as much water vapor as did the cold wind the day before. There were a few clearing showers as a cool, dry southwest wind nosed under the muggy southwest wind.

WALTON QUITS COURT.

Tells Senate Committee He Despairs of Fair Trial.
 Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 18.—I have reached the conclusion that I cannot have a fair trial in this court, I hereby withdraw.
 Governor J. C. Walton amazed the Senate court of impeachment Saturday by rising from the midst of his counsel at the centre table and making this statement.
 The governor's statement came immediately after testimony regarding the Ku Klux Klan offered by the executive's counsel had been barred by the court.

Increase In Trade.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—There was an increase of nearly $175,000,000 in the total trade of the dominion during the first seven months of the present fiscal year, according to returns made public by the department of customs. There were increases in both imports and exports, but the rise in imports was much greater than in exports.
