IF KIDNEYS BOTHER TRY DOSE OF SALTS
Drink Quart of Water if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles.
No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.
The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.
This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.
Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Wants to Hear of Descendants.
The landing of the 1784 United Loyalists is to be commemorated next year at Belleville and other points along the Bay of Quinte, and will attract descendants of those pioneers from every portion of America. But while an anniversary is being arranged for them in such fitting manner, B. M. Wylie, Toronto, asks the committee in charge to make place also for those Loyalists who preceded them in 1776, among whom was "my great-grandfather, Solomon Huff, and his brother, Paul Huff. My grandfather, Richard Huff, was three years old when his father settled at Adolphus town, in 1777 and from him I learned the traditional history of the Pilgrim Fathers as nursery tales he delighted in rehearsing. I am very desirous of having communication with descendants of Paul Huff."

Three Minute Journeys
How The English Named Continental Cities.
In journeying about Europe Americans are frequently surprised to find that the names of many of the principal cities are totally different from the names taught in our schools. It would be supposed that the natives of a country or a city had a right to name their native places, and that their names would be the right ones. It is due to the liberties taken by English-speaking peoples that we hardly know a great European city by its proper name. Of course all Americans know that the French ignore the fact that they live in Paris and insist on living in France, but that is only a matter of pronunciation. Yet the Bavarians never heard of a city called Muenchen and the Austrians are impudent enough to deny the existence of Vienna. The capital of that unfortunate country is Wien.

When we got to Italy we find the English equally intolerant of Italian names for their own cities. Try to find Leghorn on the continent of Europe. There is a big seaport known as Livorno, and it is there that the Leghorn hats come from. Naples doesn't exist, either, but Napoli does. And Florence is a figment of the English imagination. Firenze is the place they have in mind.

Warsaw is another Anglicism. Vasovia is the name of Poland's capital. How would American feel if the English called New York, Yump-town; Boston, Beanwich; Chicago, Porkville, etc.? That is the way the Continentals regard the English system of renaming all their cities to suit themselves.

The total inability of the English to pronounce foreign names is the explanation of the practice. They simply come as near to a foreign pronunciation as they can manage, and then spell the place the way they mispronounce it; hence Vienna for Wien, Munich for Muenchen, Florence for Firenze, Leghorn for Livorno, Warsaw for Vasovia, Naples for Napoli and so on.

The system grew from the practice of the English two or three centuries ago of sending their son to make the Grand Tour, so called. This meant that a constant stream of English gentlemen, total ly ignorant of the languages and customs of Continental countries, many, France and Italy. When they came to the names of towns and villages, they pronounced and spelled them as best they could in

Something New at Last; Hold-up Men Use Buggy
Hastings, Dec. 5.—While on his way to Roseneath on Saturday evening, after selling a load of grain to merchants here, W. Carew was overtaken by two men with a horse and buggy on the Cobourg road. Both men left the vehicle, one attacking Mr. Carew in the wagon, while the other held the horses' heads. Mr. Carew, having a broom in the wagon, took it and managed to lay out the one man by hitting him over the head. At this time the horses took fright and bolted, so that Mr. Carew had to give them all his attention. The holdup men took this opportunity of escaping.
