Red and green streamers hanging from the lights, red and green decorations on the tables and an air of Christmas already pervading the gathering, marked the sale and tea given by the A.Y.P.A. of St. Paul's parish on Tuesday afternoon.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. John Matheson, president of the W.M.S. Chalmers church, gave her home on Alice street for a sale of embroidered linen, lace and other articles made by the girls in the Chinese industrial mission school.

For the Cough That Sticks

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

Cheap and Best

For any kind of a cough, but especially the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home-made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phlegm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmit (double strength) — to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint — that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home-made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness. Get Parmit and get better.

FEMINISMS

By Annette Bradshaw

AND NOW MULES TRAVEL AS FAST AS FASHION'S OTHER FADS.

Irene—Mules may provide a slow method of locomotion, my dear, but once they get going there is no telling what may happen. Just look at these new ones. They make the morning after resemble the night before, since they are modeled faithfully on the lines of evening slippers, even to the pattern of brocade velvet. I think the French toe and the unusual strap give them an air of distinction, don't you?

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6.

Certain strongly-menacing conditions are forecast from this day's sidereal movements. The Solar orb in evil aspect with the revolutionary and iconoclastic Uranus—a figure sustained in its malefic effect by the Lunar square to Neptune, a planet of obscure and subtle intent—makes the nature of the ominous visitation foretold difficult to predict. The best advice is to remain as quiet and circumspect as possible and by caution forefend all danger. Avoid all new enterprises and protect the health and welfare of the family.

WEDDINGS.

Wilmot-Machea. At 10.30 o'clock on Wednesday morning the marriage was solemnized by Rev. R. H. Bell, D.D., in Sydenham street Methodist church, of Grace Alivia, daughter of Robert Machea, Pittsburg, and John Morland Wilmot, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wilmot, also of Pittsburg. The bride, who was unattended, wore a charming frock of royal blue canton crepe, heavily beaded with iridescent beads; her hat was of black panne velvet and her bouquet of opheelia roses. The party motored to the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Elmer Woodman, Earl street, where dainty refreshments were served, the table being centred with a wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilmot left on the train for the west for Cleveland, Ohio, and other western cities, the bride travelling in a smart navy blue tailored frock and black cloak of marvella, fur trimmed. The young people will on their return make their home in Pittsburg.

They Are With Us Still. In that remarkable book, Makura no Zoshi, Sei Shonagon, a poetess of the Japanese tenth century, gives a part of the tenth century, gives a chapter to "Detestable Things." It is a very human chapter, and the objectionable things are equally objectionable today. The following examples are quoted by Mr. R. M. Weaver in the Bellman: A visitor who sits down to regale you with a long tale when you are in a hurry. If by chance he is an intimate friend, you can pack him off until another time. But those whom you cannot summarily dismiss are detestable indeed.

when you want to sleep are especially detestable. People who interrupt your story to show off their own cleverness. All interrupters, young or old, are very detestable.

People who, when you are telling a story, break in with "Oh, I know," and give you a different version from your own. Either at home or in the palace, to be roused up to receive an unwelcome visitor, in order to avoid whom you have been pretending to be asleep.

WHY DO MEN— Love women with their eyes and money with their hearts and souls? Say that women make fools of them, when no woman would ever waste her time on a job which nature completed so perfectly long ago?

Yell loudest and frown most knowingly at a football game, when they understand it least? Extol their own brawn and brains, also the beauty of women—but never concede brains to the latter? Show the good manners of bears and the gentleness of football players when a homely girl is present, and suddenly register gallantry when a pretty one appears. Make their sisters, wives, daughters and mothers the guardians and wardens of their none too sensitive consciences? Say that women prove their political unfitness by refusing to inherit their parents' opinions and their grandparents' policies?

The nice thing about two autos crashing is you often find whiskey in one for the injured. The hubby of Princess Mary is a collector of old glass. So are the autoists of this country. If money talked a dime made in 1900 could tell some yarns about what it bought in its youth.

THE MISTAKE THE ROMANS MADE.

The Roman soldier stood supreme in fighting power, so long as he lived on simple, natural foods. When he took to pampering his palate, he became as other men, full of ills and weaknesses. Then he failed. Perhaps he was not to blame, for in those days strengthening foods meant unpalatable eating. But a delightful, vigor-building food has been prepared for us that is at the same time a treat to the palate in any of the many forms in which it may be served. Roman Meal is that food.

In winter weather Roman Meal is of distinct advantage. Most foods of civilized races are "Excess Acid" and form acid blood. These acids must be passed out of the blood or we are immediately ill. In summer, they leave by the skin, in winter by the air passages—nose, throat, lungs, etc. These passages, they irritate, causing colds, catarrh, bronchitis, tonsillitis, flu, pneumonia, etc.

Roman Meal is 400 parts in each 1,000 "Excess Alkali." It keeps the blood alkaline (opposite of acid) and thus keeps the body energized and vigorous to resist colds, catarrh and all irritations and diseases of the air passages.

Roman Meal makes delicious porridge, puddings, soups, mince, Johnny cake, pudding, etc. You can go several hours longer on an entire meal of Roman Meal than you can on any other food, because it is so nourishing. At all grocers.

The Editor hears

That maple syrup is good for bears. At least an admirer of Queen Boo-Hoo who ought to know has presented her with a can of this delicious sweet. It will not be left near the college, however, as it is a well remembered fact that an authority even higher than her majesty, also likes this Canadian dainty, so well indeed that he hates to go out motoring without it.

That the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. had a pleasant surprise the other day when they received an anonymous gift of thirty dollars. It is these kindly, generous acts that lighten the load of the women of Kingston without whom many institutions for the benefit of the community would close their doors.

That the Toronto Telegram has a splendid cut of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Griffin who were the inspiration of the brilliant St. Andrew's ball held in Toronto on St. Andrew's night. Mrs. Griffin is wearing a tartan scarf across her black frock and Mr. Griffin is in highland costume. The latter will be remembered by the older generation of Kingston people as a great addition to Kingston society when he was a member of it.

That of recent Paris note says the frocks of the debutantes are returning to the simplicity becoming to the youth of their wearers.

That some girls know what they want in the way of a husband and to know what you want is a long step towards getting it. According to a questionnaire filled out by University of Minnesota co-eds, the ideal husband must be moderately good-looking, athletically inclined, morally clean, respectful toward religion, healthy, appreciative of the good and beautiful things of life, well trained socially, optimistic and good-natured, chivalrous.

Christmas Cake. Cream a pound of butter with one of powdered sugar, add the beaten yolks of twelve eggs and stir steadily for at least five minutes; then add a teaspoon each of nutmeg and allspice and a tablespoon of cinnamon and beat in alternately the stiffened whites of twelve eggs and a pound of flour, sifted. Now add a pound each of cleaned currants and seed- and chopped raisins and a half pound citron minced, mixing these fruits first and dredging plentifully with flour. Turn into two large buttered molds and bake in a steady oven for two hours.

Some Comfort. A new hotel in California is equipped with automatic sprinklers. As assurance to its patrons, a card bearing the following verse has been placed in each room: When you lie down for restful sleep, remember, beds that get wet, if fire comes, don't be concerned, you may get wet, but you can't get burned.

Don't believe all who agree with you. Argument tries some people.
