ABRAMSKY'S DOUBLE DISPLAY CAPACITY

Now Offer People of This District the Very Finest in Furniture Display Rooms.

Travellers whose regular trips bring them through Kingston have remarked many times lately that the shopping section of the city is extending steadily uptown. Many new store fronts and reconstructed buildings have made their appearance and they continue almost to Division street.

The latest one of these to open its doors is the new furniture section of the departmental stores of Joseph Abramsky and Sons, which has just been completed. Two years ago this firm went into the furniture business as one of their main departments and it has grown so astoundingly that they were forced to seek much larger accommodation. To this end they took over the large double store below their own and have transformed it into a magnificent display hall.

The keynote of the new store is brightness and cleanliness. It has been re-constructed and re-decorated throughout and a beautiful indirect lighting system installed, which shows off all the fine pieces of furniture to the full desire of the customer. A new heating system has also been installed and everything done to make the building bright and comfortable.

The entire business now occupies the block of buildings comprised in Numbers 259, 261, 263 and 265, Princess street and the three floors in the block are barely sufficient for the needs of the huge stock. Surplus stock is kept in the firm's large warehouses on King street east.

Abramskys have been fortunate in securing a beautiful assortment from some of the best known furniture makers in America. The solid wood suites of that noted Canadian firm, the Gibbard Furniture Company, are on display and Abramskys are sole local agents. In a separate show room are found Kroehler Davenport and Divanettes, together with the latest household utility, the bed-Chesterfield; in another may be found the Barnes line of kitchen cabinets and an entire display room is set aside for a diversified line of Gurney and Happy Thought stoves and ranges.

The business has expanded naturally and healthfully but in a totally amazing manner. Orders are received from all parts of this district and the present expansion is only just enough to accommodate the volume. The new show room, one hundred feet long and thirty feet wide, is something that has been badly needed by the firm and it serves the additional purpose of bringing another attractive store front to a rapidly advancing part of the business section.

Joseph Abramsky started up in Kingston about thirty years ago in a very small way and he and his sons are to be congratulated on the enterprise and confidence in Kingston's future which has brought their firm to its present position and has also brought business to Kingston.

THE BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY

Chancellor Whidden, of McMaster University, Toronto, Was the Preacher.

Rev. H. P. Whidden, D.D., LL.D., chancellor of McMaster University, Toronto, and ex-M.P. for Brandon, Manitoba, was the special preacher at the anniversary services in the First Baptist church on Sunday. Special music was rendered by the choir under the direction of S. Salisbury, and Rev. J. S. LaFlair, the pastor, conducted the services.

Speaking in the morning from Philippians 1:21, "For me to live is Christ." Dr. Whidden dealt with the example set by the great apostle St. Paul, who was animated by a burning zeal to spread the knowledge of Christ whom he had taken as his ideal. He showed how the apostle adhered steadfastly to his ideal. His ambition became the impulse governing all his conduct and it was this that took him to Rome.

"It is necessary that we should have an ambition in life," said he, "and whether it be in the commercial or political life we must attach ourselves to a great personality and great principles if we are to succeed. It is just as essential in the religious life. Take the example of our fellow citizens of the province of Quebec and their great leader, Sir Wilfred Laurier. His personality found its way into the inner being of his people and they were willing to sacrifice anything. It should be the same in the religious life."

Dr. Whidden expressed his strong disapproval of the utterances attributed to Lord Birkenhead in Scotland in which he said that material interest was the sole motive in human conduct. "Have we reverted to the days of the jungle as to say that the only motive in life is to satisfy desire and the building up of a material interest? In contrast with this view we have the words of St. Paul: 'Lord, What Will Thou?' If we can live like Christ today we will go far in solving all material, corporate and national problems. But the winning of the man who has not been introduced to Christ is the great programme of the church today. What is the man who has not been introduced to Christ? The Christian programme there is nothing so great as winning souls." The preacher's evening subject was, "The Natural Secret of Victory." This he affirmed to be faith, which he described as "Life's greatest driving power," by which, in every realm of life, the greatest conquests are made possible and achieved.

Solo parts in the anthems were taken by Miss Miriam Osborne, Miss Ruth LaFlair, and Messrs. S. A. Mayer and James Saunders. James Marshall sang "Consolation" in excellent voice at the evening service.

A unique, but much enjoyed feature of the evening service was the combination of the pipe organ and piano for the leading of the congregational singing. Miss Nettie Meikle presided, most acceptably at the piano. The offerings for the day were generous, and pastor and people turn their faces toward the future with renewed faith and courage, after a day so full of inspiration and blessing.

ANNIVERSARY AT COOKE'S

Rev. R. M. Hamilton, B.A., Brockville, Was the Preacher of the Day.

Bright and inspiring services marked the anniversary observed at Cooke's Presbyterian church on Sunday. Rev. R. M. Hamilton, B.A., Brockville, preached at both services, and delivered forceful sermons. An exceptionally fine programme of music was rendered by the choir.

At the morning service, Rev. Mr. Hamilton preached from the words, "Rise, let us be going," found in the 14th chapter of John. The speaker gave as the title of his discourse, "The Winding of the Clock." A clock had to be kept wound up in order to keep it going, and so with the church. It was a going concern, and could not be allowed to run down. And the watchword today was, "Rise up, Ye men of God." The words of the text formed an appeal from God to His disciples and presented a challenge to the people of the church. It was for the church to carry on God's work and in carrying on the work, the people of the church would meet with the same encouragement and discouragement as of old. The love of pleasure today was keeping many people from the church, but the difficulties of the church today were no harder than years ago. It was for the people of the church to rise. There was an urgent call for laborers in the field, and also a call for greater generosity on the part of the people in their givings to the work. The church of God was to be established, and His people had been chosen as the builders. His people must catch the vision.

"We must rise and take up the work," said the speaker. "We must get at it. Take up the work and face the problems with new heart." Referring to the question of church union, the speaker said: "I cannot see why any man should not favor union."

At the morning service, the musical programme included an anthem by the choir, "O, Worship the King," a trio, "Praise Thee," by Mrs. Treener, and Messrs. Lemmon and Simmons; in the evening the choir rendered, "Lift Up Your Heads," with a ladies' quartette composed of Mesdames Treener, Coward, Misses E. and C. Eason; solo, "Lead, Kindly Light," by Allan Lemmon; violin solo, Miss Douglas; vocal solo, Mrs. Treener, "The Promise of Life;" male quartette, Messrs. Allan Lemmon, H. W. Newman, H. Filson and Thomas Donnelly.

A special anniversary offering of $500 was asked for during the day.

Plants are busy. The Deloro Smelting and Refining Company's plant is going to capacity, and the company is employing one of the largest number of men in its history. The Deloro Chemical Company is also very busy.

To Assist Agriculture. Conditions on the Indian Reserve in Tyendinaga are not what they should be as far as farming is concerned, says Rev. J. M. Macmillan of Toronto. "I would like to see this council make representations during the present session of the Dominion government, and also to have a representative to assist agriculture among the inhabitants of the reservation." General Phibbs has renounced his candidacy for the Mexican presidency and has offered his services to President Obregon against the insurgent forces in Vera Cruz and Oaxaca. The western has accepted the offer.
