How to tell Eyestrain

If moving pictures hurt your eyes. Sharp pains in the eyeball. A pressure at the top of the head. Eyes feel tired and the lids heavy. Eyes smart and burn. A tendency to hold reading matter further away than formerly. Bright light causes squinting or frowning. Become nervous when doing close work. Type blurs when reading fine print. All these are signs of eyestrain and proper glasses relieve them.

CIVIC PRESENTATIONS TO RUGBY CHAMPIONS

To Be Made by City Council
Gift Also for Joseph A. Craig, Butter-Maker.

The city council will present watches to the members of the Queen's rugby team, who won the Dominion senior championship, and gold football fobs to the members of the Royal Military College team who won the intermediate Dominion honors. This was decided upon at a special meeting of the council on Thursday evening. On motion of Aids Chown and Boyd, a committee consisting of Mayor Angrove and Aids, Peters and Kidd was appointed to arrange for the purchase of the civic gifts, which will be suitably engraved. A public presentation will be made in the city memorial hall. It was felt that as the Queen's team had won the Dominion honors for the second year in succession its members should be given watches. Last year the Queen's champions were given gold footballs, and similar tokens will be given the military college champions this time. If cadets repeat their championship win next year, the civic gift to them will be watches.

Various members of council declared that Queen's and R.M.C. had given Kingston a great advertisement through their rugby victories and that it was only right that tangible recognition by the city should be given. The committee was voted $600 to cover the cost of the trophies.

Mayor Angrove read a letter he had received from Major-Gen. Sir A. C. Macdonell, commandant of the Royal Military College, expressing the appreciation of the staff and gentlemen cadets of the college for the splendid reception given the R.M.C. champions last Sunday.

To Recognize J. A. Craig.

On motion of Aids. Price and Peters, the council expressed its appreciation of the honor won by Joseph A. Craig, butter maker of the Eastern Dairy School at the Glasgow exhibition last week. Mr. Craig's butter exhibit won first prize against entries from the British Empire at this Scottish dairy show, and the city council feels that a great honor has been brought to Canada and Kingston through Mr. Craig's success. While the victories of Queen's and R.M.C. rugby teams are national, the victory of Mr. Craig is an international event, and is a big thing for Canada. Only a month ago two Frontenac cheese makers received first and third prizes at the London dairy exhibition, and one of these makers is connected with the Kingston Dairy School. The county council is showing its appreciation of its cheese champions in a tangible way, and the city council will recognize Mr. Craig's victory by presenting him with a gold watch at the formal opening of the Eastern Dairy School on the 10th of January by the minister of agriculture. Mayor Angrove will make the presentation. The Eastern Ontario Dairy men's convention will be in session here at that time.

Aids. Price and Aids. Boyd both spoke in appreciation of the honor that had come to Mr. Craig in winning the first butter prize at the Glasgow exhibition. Mr. Craig has been a resident of Kingston nearly all his life. He is a native of Glenburnie and a son of the late William Craig, for years known as "The Laird of Glenburnie."

In attendance at the meeting were Mayor Angrove and Aids. Anglin, Boyd, Chown, Driscoll, Godwin, J. Holder, W. Holder, Johnston, Kelly, Kidd, Laturney, Milne, Nash, O'Connor, Peters, Price, Robertson, Richardson and Sargent.

LETTERS To The Editor

Shortell-Draper Suit.
Dec. 11.—(To the Editor): I wish you to please correct a statement in your paper re the suit of Shortell and Draper, which was printed during the week of Nov. 10th, 1923, and stating a settlement was made. This has caused a misunderstanding between our many relations between Kingston and Gananoque. The facts are as follows: We were suing Ellen Draper of Glenburnie, for $1,000 and costs, as the endorser of a note. The maker of the note, David H. Shortell, of New York, was unable to pay and judgment was obtained against him, so Miss Draper as the endorser, was liable. For three years she spoke of a settlement, but when none was forthcoming we took the matter to court. Our lawyer, J. M. Farrell, found upon examining her that she declared herself insolvent, so we went no further. The case never came to trial, and there has been no settlement. David H. Shortell is a brother to John, Patrick and Richard of Brewer's Mills. I trust you will correct the statement, as it is untrue and has been very misleading.

MINDEN MASONIC LODGE.

John F. McEwen Writes About First Meeting Hall.

John F. McEwen, a past master of Minden Masonic Lodge, writes as follows:

"In your issue of the 12th Inst. in the article 'The Masonic Temple Dedication,' you state that Minden Lodge was formed and met in the hall over Lackie's bakery. Minden Lodge was formed in the year 1870 but not in the Town's hall with the other lodges for several years until the brick building at the corner of Wellington and Brock streets was built by Mr. Ford, and the hall now occupied by the Scottish Rite was arranged especially for Minden Lodge. The corner stone was laid by the officers of Minden. We remained there several years, then moved to the Bajus hall over Lackie's bakery. We moved back to the Town building in the early eighties, and remained until the Golden Lion property was rented, and ever since have met with the other lodges. There is only one of the original charter members alive today, as far as the writer knows, John McKelvey. The lodge was an offshoot from St. John's. The late G. M. Wilkinson was one of the principal movers in the matter. His portrait now hangs in the new Temple."

That Tobacco Signboard.

In the city council meeting last evening, Ald. Anglin, twitted Ald. Robertson, chairman of parks, who ordered the tobacco signboard removed from the cricket field. "According to resolution of the council the signboard was not to be removed," said Ald. Anglin. "How is it that Ald. Robertson has had it taken down?" he asked. To which Ald. Robertson replied: "Well, I gave permission for its erection and I was quite within my rights in having it removed."
