TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22.

A rather slow and uneventful day may be read from the dominant stellar operations. The ponderous and slow-moving Saturn is in unfavorable aspect with the Moon and this proves a retarding and obstructing force generally. Its most ominous influence may be felt in the matter of the health, which it threatens with colds, chills, congestions and rheumatism.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather quiet year with little progress or achievement. They should look after their health and that of the family. A child born on this day is liable to have a rather uneventful career unless the hour of its birth indicate otherwise.

The Editor fears

That a bride of this week sent her lovely bouquet of roses and valley lilies to a shut-in friend, instead of throwing it among the merry group of girls who saw her off on her journey through life, wishing her the best of good luck. This kindly act may well be followed by other brides. Flowers are too expensive and too rare at this time of the year to be given otherwise than where they will give the most pleasure.

That we must not let the rather dreary weather depress us for there is always some one who is much worse off than we are and we need all the brightness we can muster to make Christmas happier for them.

Kingston hostesses are most hospitable and few indeed will be the lonely ones who will dine at a boarding house table on Christmas Day.

That the V.O.N. have been so well helped by the people of Kingston that they will give their annual treat to the children at the Welfare Station and tea to the mothers in the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon.

That the postmen are already laden with gifts and will soon be followed by a small cart piled with parcels. Don't forget the hard time they have had bringing you all the gifts you receive by mail.

That the music of the Salvation Army band will cheer us on Christmas morning. The kettle on the market on Thursday in which people dropped a few coins for the Christmas baskets sent out by the army should have been full to overflowing, for the Salvation Army does a splendid work in Kingston.

The stars are no part of our solar system. They are situated far beyond it. In fact, the stars in turn are suns with planets revolving about them.

Saturn follows cost closely on the greatest pleasures.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

Thursday Afternoon.

The nominations for the officers and the convokers of standing committees from the affiliated societies of the Local Council of Women were read at the December meeting of the council held in the council chamber on Thursday afternoon. The president, Miss Mowat, was in the chair.

The Travellers' Aid work is under discussion and will be carried on as it is felt to be most necessary. A report from Mrs. Charles Wright, the Travellers' Aid was read, and told its own story of the need for such an officer. As well as the work of meeting trains on the chance of being of use and taking strangers to their destination, Mrs. Wright has had numerous calls from parents and guardians sending young people through Kingston to other places and who would be several hours or perhaps all night in the city. A girl of eleven years of age on her way from New York to Belleville, was, at the request of her mother, met although she did not come when she was expected, cared for here and put on the train for her home.

Many such cases occur, mothers constantly write from other towns to the Travellers' Aid to meet their daughters and in some cases much trouble and time is expended on one person. Thirty young girls were cared for during the holiday season and many older women were assisted when sick or in difficulties. Attention was called in the report to the fact that undesirable characters avoid a town where there is known to be a Travellers' Aid as she would soon spot them.

A resolution of sympathy was passed and will be forwarded to the honorary-president of the Local Council, Miss A. M. Machar on the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John M. Machar. The president read a report of the corresponding secretary of the National Council giving an interesting account of the year's work. Other important business was discussed.

Why Not Canadian Apples? New York, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Two generations ago Charles Francis Adams, then Minister to England, gave a barrel of Newsworld Pippins from his native Massachusetts to Queen Victoria, the flavor of which so pleased that discriminating lady that every year thereafter she ordered a supply of such fruit from the same orchards. And now her similarly discriminating great-granddaughter, Princess Mary, having sampled the output of New Jersey orchards a year ago, is having a crate of Wine-apps shipped to England to figure in the dessert of her Christmas dinner.

Under the caption, "Our Supreme Apples," the New York Tribune gives us this interesting information. Ought not the Women's Institutes of Canada see to it that next year the merits of the juicy Canadian apple are placed before Princess Mary. Surely the Prince of Wales might have given her a brotherly hint on the subject! "Our Supreme Apple!" This is terrible.

But in another column of the same paper we are given faint consolation. The expert shopper for the New York Women's Institutes "Column" writes: "We went to talk meats and fowl and fish and got held up at the cheese stand the first thing. Did you ever eat Canadian cheddar, at 40 cents a pound? Pale, soft, and with a surprising tang, but not strong—perfect for sandwiches, salads or for a rabbit."

Bobby's Presents.

I've just bought a present for mother—the dandiest baseball you've see. And if she can't possibly use it, Why, then, she can lend it to me.

I've bought a fine bat for my father—I'm sure it will make Daddy smile. And if he thinks he doesn't quite need it, I'll borrow it once and awhile.

I picked out this jack-knife for baby—the best on the store-keeper's shelf. But yet—she might cut herself maybe. I think I will keep it myself.

For Auntie, I bought some nice candy. But—I'm really sorry to say 'Twas up on by bureau so handy. And now it has vanished away.

Some folks simply hate Christmas shopping. They're glad when at last it is done. But I don't see why they feel that way—I think it's the greatest fun.
