FRONTENAC IN FOREFRONT

In Dairy Production — A Steady Improvement in The Producers' Herds.

Kingston has reason to be proud of the record made by the farmers of the district in the dairy industry. The year 1928 found the county of Frontenac in the forefront in the production of cheese and butter in the British Empire, capturing first and second prizes in the exhibition at London and Glasgow.

This record has a firm basis in the industry and integrity of the farmers who are conscientious stock breeders and there is only the highest praise for those who have taken positions of leadership in the breeding of dairy cattle. There has in consequence been a steady improvement in the herds, but large producers in the vicinity of the city whose output is consumed here, have taken another step by guaranteeing the people milk of high quality and at the same time milk that is absolutely safe.

These farmers are D. C. Rogers, J. J. Wilmut, Pittsburg, and James Henderson and Sons, Baker Bros., G. F. Murton, Front Road, Portsmouth. Their herds have been under the control of Dominion government inspectors with the result that bovine tuberculosis has been absolutely eradicated. There was considerable sacrifice in the loss of many fine animals, but as long as there was evidence of tuberculosis the animals had to be removed and slaughtered. In some cases there was little or no loss, but in others the whole herd was practically wiped out and replaced by cattle that showed immunity to the disease.

The government inspectors make tests every sixty days, and the stables are practically under their management. To-day only milk that is safe and certified as coming from certified herds is delivered from these dairymen for consumption in Kingston.

It Balances the Budget. "The fringe on the bottom of father's trousers doesn't always match the fur on the bottom of mother's skirt," says an exchange. We don't know. They seem to us complementary items of the family budget.

Genuine ability doesn't very often get crowded out of a job by pretense and conceit.

How to tell Eyestrain

If moving pictures hurt your eyes. Sharp pains in the eyeball. A pressure at the top of the head. Eyes feel tired and the lids heavy. Eyes smart and burn. A tendency to hold reading matter further away than formerly. Bright light causes squinting or frowning. Becomes nervous when doing close work. Frequent blinks when reading fine print. All these are signs of eye-strain and proper glasses relieve them.
