CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE By Uncle Ray

Death of "the Red Beard." The Crusaders, of course, had a different idea of what happened to Frederick's soul. They were sure it went to heaven. All persons, in fact, who died in the "holy wars" were supposed to go to heaven.

An old picture of a woman pilgrim.—Many women went to the Holy Land with the soldiers.

some of them, got still another idea about their ruler. They said he still lived, but was asleep up on a lonely mountain. His long red beard was said to be growing and growing, twisting itself about the rocks.

Richard of England was called "the Lion-Hearted" because he was brave. We shall keep news of him and Philip of France for our next story.

"OVER NIGHT" REX PLAY

At Grand Opera House For Week-end—A Great Laugh Hit.

"Over Night, which was presented at the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening by the Rex Stock company, is one of the best laugh hits of the season. The large audience present went home convinced that the Rex players are offering at the Grand for the last three days of the week one of the funniest productions they have presented during the past two seasons. It is altogether different to anything which has been played by the Rex Company.

The show is produced in three acts and every member of the company has a part to play. The first act takes place on the deck of a steamer where two wedding couples, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kettle (Rex Snelgrove and Eithel Van Order) and Mrs. Percy Darling (Herbert Lewis and Zana Vaughn) board the steamer with the intention of going on their honeymoon. During the excitement which takes place before the steamer is due to leave, Percy Darling and Mrs. Kettle discovered that they have left something on shore and leave in search of the missing articles. While they are absent, the steamer pulls out. The two happy couples are heart broken over being separated and continue to worry until the curtain falls in the third and final act and the newly-weds are quite happy again.

The hotel scene in the second act is a scream from start to finish and the audience was kept in roars of laughter. "Bill" Yule, who plays the role of the hotel clerk, creates a lot of amusement. Rex and Zana, who always fill their parts to the satisfaction of all, were never seen to better advantage. Hazel Williams and William Seymour as Miss Patchem, the maiden lady, and Al Rivers make a lot of fun. Bettie Leslie and Fred Dampier, who have made themselves sound with the Kingston theatre-goers, since joining the Rex Company, were exceptionally good. Charles Hannah, who was with the company last season, plays two roles. The best way to enjoy a good evening is to go to the Grand on Friday or Saturday evening.

Mr. Snelgrove announced that on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, the company would present one of the best productions it has shown in the city. He stated that the only name given to this coming event was "Rex" announced that next week the doors would close at 3.25 p.m. and as there would only be the one act the doors would remain closed so he advised all to be on time.

"Over Night" will be presented at the Grand on Friday and Saturday nights, with a bargain matinee on Saturday afternoon.

Belleville yachtsmen enjoyed a cruise in the harbor there on Christmas Day just to keep them in trim for the races next summer.

The price of liquor is going down. Likewise the liquor itself.

The government Christmas box to tipplers is the lowering of the price of liquor.

It is stated that the people living in Mexico have to read the newspapers every morning to see who is president.

This Christmas the small boys asked for a football. As a usual thing they ask for a pair of skates or a sleigh.

Judging by the number of "smokes" passed around these days, the local tobacconists must have had a rushing Christmas trade.

Passing bogus cheques is an old game but some person manages to put it over from time to time.
