

The British Whig Pictorial Page

Ramsey MacDonald, leader of the British Labor party, and now one of the strongest political powers in Great Britain, was given a mammoth ovation upon his arrival at London shortly after the elections

Santa Claus is here seen just as he started on his annual pilgrimage from the north on Christmas Eve laden with all kinds of Yuletide surprises

Miss Nina Payne, American dancer, appearing in the Folies, Bergere, Paris, preserves her beauty by going through a series of exercises to music each working day

Here are some merry workers trying out a giant Christmas cracker, containing many toys and novelties, at a factory at Holborn, England, where the staff worked at a high pressure to cope with the usual big demand

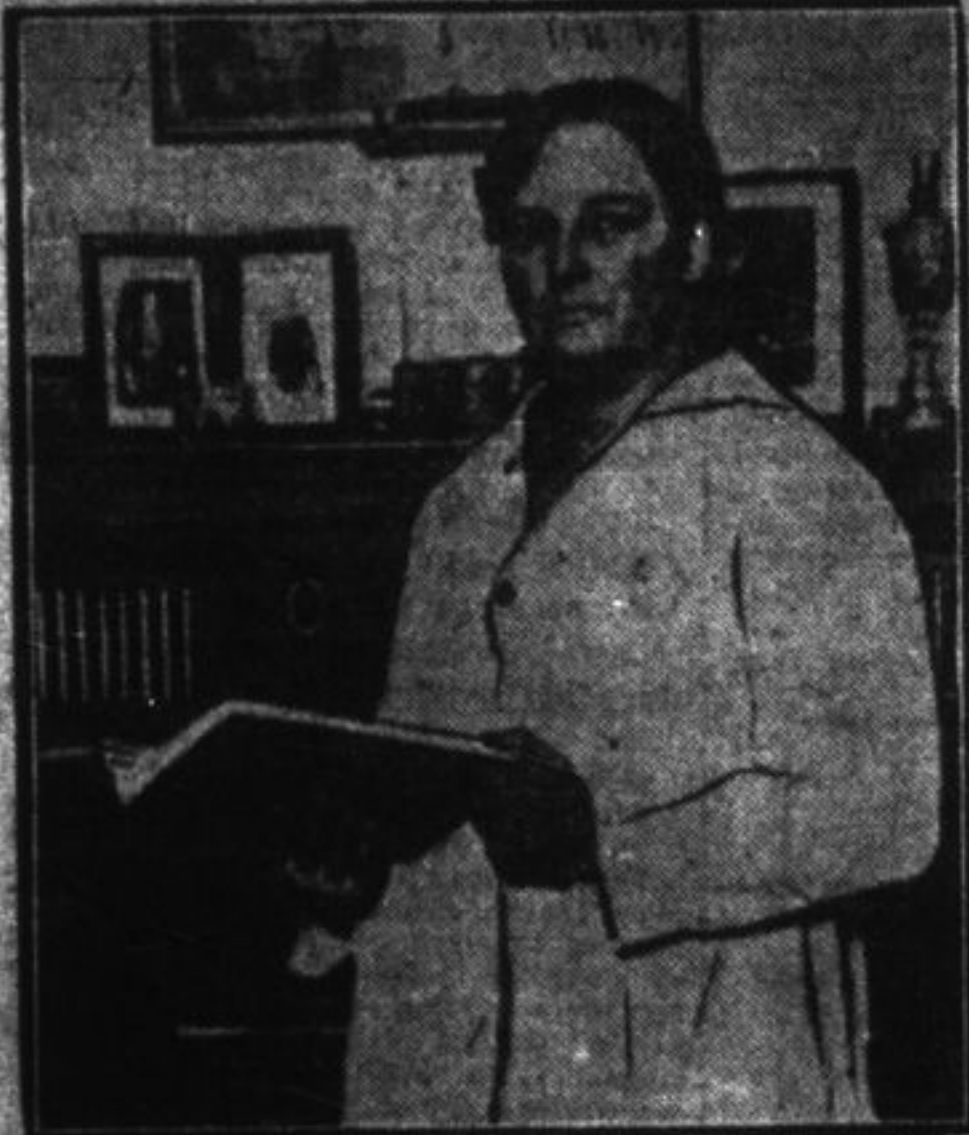

Dr. Ernest Chuard is the new Swiss president for the coming year of 1924. Each new year the vice-president of Switzerland is elected president automatically — a system that has worked out perfectly

Madame Hanhara, wife of Japanese ambassador to the United States, is pictured above in native costume as she appeared at a recent social event in Washington

The motor schooner, Mary Peers, which went ashore at Whitsand Bay, Cornwall, England, was left in this position when the tide went out

Lady Constance Butler, well-known English society woman, has turned to surgery as an outlet of her energies. She is probably the only titled woman to have charge of an X-ray department in a hospital

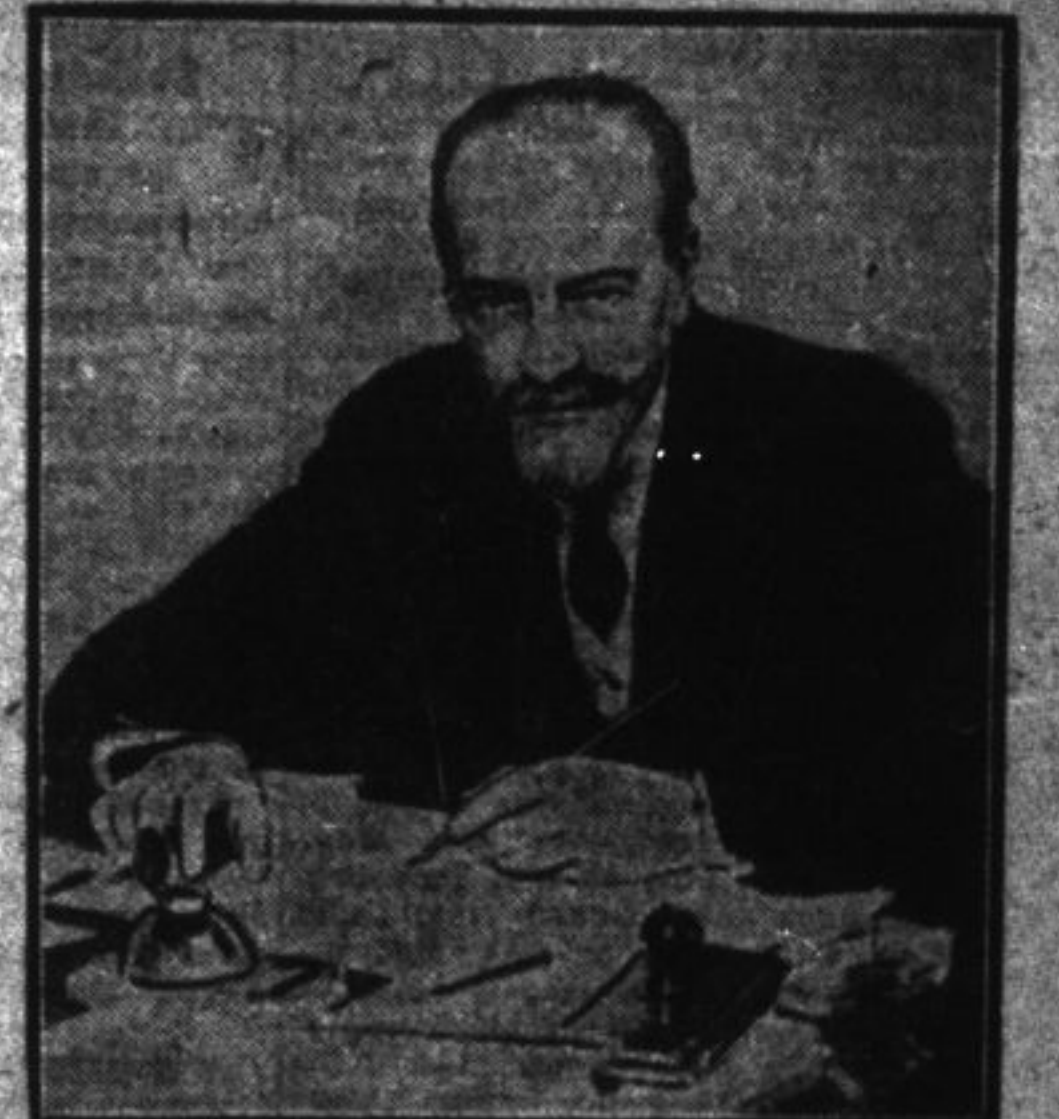

Mr. A. H. G. Fokker, the Dutch inventor of the "Fokker" plane, which was an instrumental defense weapon in the World War, who has arrived in America to interest Uncle Sam in a new plane

Doris Keane, well-known actress, has filed a damage suit for $50,000 against a physician now suing her for $20,000 fees. The unsympathetic attitude of the doctor, when she was ill, damaged her health, she alleges

Behold a stunning spring model in milady's millinery. This attractive turban effect chapeau is trimmed antiquesly with grained ribbon

Grand-Duke Alexander Michailovitch has startled London by founding a new religion, without priests or churches, called the Union of Souls. Just think good thoughts and believe that love and beauty rule—and, presto, you are a member of the cult

Photograph shows the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden pictured as they opened a bazaar in London. It will be remembered that they were married recently—a ceremony attended by all the royalty of Europe

Here are two distinguished exponents of the gland treatment for workers who have passed their prime. They would banish old age. They are Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler, who will be in charge of a San Francisco clinic, and Gertrude Atherton, authoress of "Black Oxen"

The Duchess of Rutland, who is none other than the mother of Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, arrived in New York recently to witness the appearance of her daughter in the forthcoming production of "The Miracle"

Here is Edward, "Algy" McGuire, of Buffalo, who won the American single sculls championship last June. He will probably be selected to represent the United States in the Olympic games

Gabriel D'Annunzio, the post-hero of Italy, was among the first to arrive at the inundated section of Dezzo, caused by the overflow of the river Tiber. He is shown in the lead of the party