AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

FAREWELL TO THE REX STOCK COMPANY. The Rex Stock Company have picked for their last effort in Kingston this season, a play that is so well known it needs no publicity—"East Lynne."

As Rex himself said in a certain talk last week we have had "wished upon us" many versions of the greatest English play, with short casts, short on the scenic end that he deemed it time that we had a really true revival in all its splendor, five acts and ten scenes, of this great masterpiece.

What we are going to do without our favorite players is a problem. There is one certain thing, that the Rex Stock Company is one attraction that comes here that gives value received for the price of admission.

There will, beyond all question of doubt, be a big gathering for the last three days of this week to see "East Lynne" and wish Rex and his family "God Speed" until we have the chance to see them again.

"HIS CHILDREN'S CHILDREN"

AN ATTRACTIVE PHOTOPLAY. The Capitol is offering one fine picture for the first three days of this week in "His Children's Children."

One has only to say that Bebe Daniels is in the lead to assure good acting and for the rest she is supported by a cast of the highest calibre. "Unless this house be built of the Lord it is built in vain" is the moral on which the picture is founded.

The picture is well filmed, set in wonderful scenes and carried through by a fine cast. Bebe Daniels is especially good and her work alone makes this worth seeing.

"SPIDER AND ROSE" AT STRAND.

One of the most beautiful love stories ever pictured on the screen is enacted in "The Spider and the Rose," a B. F. Zeldman production, at the Strand Theatre today.
