Grimm's Fairy Tales Versus The Grim Truth

That old book of Grimm's fairy tales thrilled us in childhood—but now that we have grown up and are facing the stern realities of life we have put away childish things and are demanding the helpful actuality of truth in the reading we consume.

For the fulfilling of our wants and needs we don't rely upon the services of good fairies. We turn to really informative mediums—where the truth is stronger than fiction.

The Whig's A.B.C. Classified Section is the one medium which never fails us. Its offers have real substance and easily realized profits. And they are so perfectly indexed and accurately classified that we waste no unnecessary time in finding just what we want.

We read—and learn that the thrills of fiction are as naught beside the thrills of profitable facts.
