Playing A Game or Making One Of Yourself—Which?

"I get lots of fun reading the A-B-C Classified Ads. In seeing what odd things people have to sell and occasionally in getting something for myself at a bargain price," said the first man.

"Pooh!" said the second man; "I have no time whatever for such frivolities."

In the course of a few years, the first man secured a wonderful position, married, bought a home, furnished it and began piling up a comfortable savings account—all of which was the direct result of playing the game of the "classified fans."

That's why the first man is still first—and why the second man can at best never be anything more than a poor second.

Once YOU start reading these classified ads, daily, you will understand why there are so many "classified fans"—and also why those who call opportunity-baiting frivolous are in reality making game of themselves.
