Unusual Case in Which Cecil
J. E. Walker Is Sent Up for Trial.

In the police court on Friday morning, Magistrate Farrell committed Cecil John Edwin Walker, alias John Macdonald, for trial before a judge and jury on a charge that he did unlawfully by false pretences and false representations procure a girl for unlawful purposes. The accused pleaded "not guilty" through his counsel, A. Revell and elected trial before Judge and jury. T. J. Rigney, crown attorney appeared for the prosecution. The evidence of the plaintiff was taken and then the accused was committed for trial. The plaintiff stated that she was nineteen years old last May 24th, and told about meeting the accused in Quebec, where they were both employed at the same institution.

Plaintiff swore that the accused proposed marriage to her and afterwards told her that he had been married, but had been divorced and wanted to know if this would make any difference to the proposed marriage. Plaintiff said "no." Later on the accused told her that he had been married a second time. Plaintiff also told about coming to Kingston on June 2nd, last with the accused and living with him as man and wife.

Questioned by the magistrate the plaintiff stated that she knew the accused was married and divorced and married again, but when pressed for an answer as to why she would think of marrying a man who was already married, stated that she was "willing to take the chances." Plaintiff swore, however, that when she first accepted a proposal of marriage she did not know that the accused had already been married.

VALENTINE EUCHE AND DANCE

Held by Boyne Lodge No. 16, Loyal True Blues.

Notwithstanding the numerous events in the city Thursday evening doing honor to St. Valentine, The Loyal True Blues, Boyne Lodge, No. 16, had a record attendance at their Valentine euchre and dance in the Orange hall. The committee spared no pains to make it an event worth while, and judging by the apparent enjoyment by all present their efforts were amply rewarded.

Many Valentine favors were in evidence, such as red heart-shaped score cards, white crepe paper hats trimmed with red hearts and the letters "L. T. B." in blue with which each head was adorned. Special Valentine decorations also beautified the hall. T. Masters, as floor manager, kept things on the move, while the music supplied by Salisbury's orchestra gave its usual good quota of satisfaction, responding unstintingly to the numerous encores. The prize winners at the progressive euchre were as follows: Gentlemen's first prize, J. Scanlon; ladies' first prize, Mrs. N. Babcock; consolations, Mrs. Disley and Mrs. Maurine Bauder. The committee responsible for the success of the affair was: Mrs. E. Campbell (convener) Mrs. Longshaw, Mrs. Roushorn, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Rawley, Messrs. Campbell, Masters and Roushorn.

Central Home and School Club.

The Central Home and School club held a Valentine tea in the school on Tuesday evening. Important business problems were first discussed and the audience was then entertained by a splendid programme put on by the students of the Junior fourth class. Miss McTeer read the story of St. Valentine. Solos were given by Miss Sybil Susman and Miss Ruth Routbard and the latter young lady, with Mr. Hill, were the accompanists for the evening. A contest on Kingston streets was interesting, the prize-winners being Mildred Ferris and Mary Archer. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Burke, convener of the social committee and her competent assistants, Mrs. Elmer and Mrs. Lyons.

Woolen Mills Suspended.
