WOULD IMPOSE A FEE FOR USE OF COUNCIL CHAMBER

The City Property Recommendation—Aldermen Decide to Postpone Action.

Should the city council charge a fee for the use of the city council chamber for the holding of meetings by various organizations? This was a question under debate in the City Council on Monday night, as a result of a recommendation submitted by the property committee, through its chairman, Ald. McCartney, that a fee of $4 be charged for night meetings and $2 for day meetings.

Ald. McCartney stated that his committee had the matter under consideration and that in view of the fact that the chamber was used to such a large extent, it was felt that a fee should be charged, so that the city would derive some revenue to help pay for the heating, etc.

Ald. Nash drew attention to the fact that when Ontario Hall was used for charitable purposes, the fee was always refunded. Would the same action be taken as regards the council chamber?

Ald. Peters questioned whether it would be worth while charging a fee for the use of the council chamber. It had always been the rule to refund the fee when the city buildings were used for charitable purposes.

Questioned by one of the aldermen, Ald. McCartney stated that the military authorities paid at the rate of $4 per day for the use of the chamber for the holding of examinations.

Ald. Kent said that the city should have some place where citizens' meetings could be held. He thought that very few meetings were held in the chamber outside of those under the auspices of charitable institutions.

Ald. Kent also stated that he did not think there should be any charge for organizations working in the interests of the city.

Ald. Chown suggested that the property committee withdraw its recommendation until the council secured more information regarding the use of the chamber. A list of the organizations using the chamber could be secured.

Ald. Laturney favored charging the fee suggested with the exception of "philanthropic societies."

"There should be some place for the taxpayers to hold meetings," said Ald. Kelly. "If the taxpayers want the chamber for the city's business they should have it free of charge."

Ald. Price felt that all outsiders should pay a fee for the use of the chamber.

"Let the matter stand over until we get more information and get an idea as to how many meetings are held in the chamber," suggested Ald. Kent. "When we have this information we will be in a better position to vote on the matter."

The council finally decided to allow the matter to stand over for more information.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS TO CONSIDER DANCE HALLS
 The City Council Refers Requests of Several Bodies to Them.

The Board of Police Commissioners will be asked to deal with the communications of the W.C.T.U., the Kingston Local Council of Women, the International Association of Machinists, Kingston Lodge No. 54, and the Sodality of the Children of Mary, asking that the dance halls in Kingston be regulated.

This was the action taken by the city council, at its session on Monday night, when the letters came before the members. There was no discussion on the matter and the letters were not read to the council.

Three of the requests have already been published. J. Durand, recording secretary, wrote as follows on behalf of the International Association of Machinists, Kingston Lodge No. 54:

"Lodge 54, of the International Association of Machinists, have instructed me to write the city council that we endorse the stand taken by the W.C.T.U. on the dancing question in the city and the closing of the dance halls at an earlier hour."

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY.

Observed by Mr. and Mrs. Severa Dorey, Gananoque.

A happy event was celebrated on Feb. 11th inst., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Severa Dorey, Victoria avenue, Gananoque, the occasion being the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. On this occasion they had with them their ten children, no break having occurred in the family throughout the half century. Altogether some eighty people sat down to the sumptuous banquet provided, and of this large number there were very few outside of the family circle.

The rooms were specially decorated for the occasion in gold and white with an abundance of daffodils, all of which went to give charm to the occasion.

After partaking of the many good things provided, an address was read by their youngest son, Percy Dorey, while a substantial purse of gold was presented by their eldest son, John Dorey. The toast to the bride and groom was responded to by another son, Alex. Dorey, who reviewed their many years of happily wedded life.

The bride, whose maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Miller, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of Pittsburgh township, and was born near Ballantyne Station. She was united in marriage to Mr. Dorey at St. Mark's church, Barrie, on Feb. 11th, 1874, afterwards taking up their residence near Findlay Station, where they resided for two years and then moved to Gananoque, where they resided for a few years, afterwards taking a farm near Sharbot Lake. Some twenty-five years ago they returned to Gananoque.

Mrs. Thomas Calow, sister, who was bridesmaid fifty years ago, was among the guests. The best man, Charles Dorey, is still living, but is now a resident of Blaine, Wash., and unable to be present.

The out-of-town guests included Mrs. William Rice, Miss Violet Dorey, Frank Dorey and M. Leslie Dorey, Kingston.

Miss Edith Zeva Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Warren, Cape Vincent, N.Y., and Reginald Mason Giltz, Clayton, N.Y., were recently married.

At the last session of the quarterly official board of Enterprise circuit, Rev. R. J. Morrison, pastor, was unanimously invited to return next year.

"SO THIS IN LONDON" PRESENTED AT GRAND Sparkling Comedy Well Played by an Excellent Cast of Artists.

It is certainly fine! That was the unanimous opinion among those who saw the first local presentation of George M. Cohan's "So This is London" at the Grand Opera House last night.

The play is by Arthur Goodrich and is one of the cleverest pieces of work seen in a long time. It is an explanation of England to America and of America to England and—in a clever way—it points out some of the bad points, as well as many of the good points, of both nationalities.

We find the American with a distorted idea of Sir Percy Beauchamp and his family and find Sir Percy with an equal ridiculous conception of Hiram Draper and his family. These "mental" pictures are produced during the play and cause uproarious laughter. The stiff, self-satisfied Englishman is no more true to type than the gum-chewing, loud-voiced and money-shrieking American, yet there is no doubt that they present the pre-war conception of many on opposite sides of the Atlantic.

Of course there is a very charming little love tale woven into the comedy, which serves as an axis about which the main plot revolves. One cannot single out any member of the cast for special mention. Their acting was superb generally. Allen H. Moore, as "Junior," does his best work in repeating to Ralph Locke, as "Hiram Draper," the account of his address to Donald Hall, who takes the part of Alfred "Honeycutt," general manager for a great British shoe firm.

Reginald Carrington has a very difficult part in "Sir Percy Beauchamp" but handles it to the delight of the audience. His efforts are ably seconded by Barbara Allen, as "Lady Beauchamp," and Eugenie DuBois as "Mrs. Hiram Draper" gives an interpretation of the American wife and mother of which Americans may be proud.

Blossom O'Brien's charm at once makes a hit for her and her natural assumption of the role of "Elinor Beauchamp" is indeed pleasing. Marjorie Dalton has one of the most difficult parts when she plays "Lady Amy Duckworth." She is the director of the destinies of the characters in the play and has some fine pieces of mixed comedy and melodrama to her credit.

The plot of the play and its serious aspects are thickly covered with comedy which produces mirth from the rise of the curtain. It is indeed one of the feature attractions of the season and should draw big houses for the matinee this afternoon and the last performance this evening.

YOUNG PEOPLE DEBATE.

Princess Street Methodists Entertained at Chalmers.

The young people of Chalmers Presbyterian church entertained the young people of Princess street Methodist church on Monday evening, and the occasion was marked by two very interesting debates. The boys took part in one debate and the girls in other. The debate in which the girls took part was "Resolved, that Success in Life is due more to character than to circumstances." In which the affirmative was taken by Miss C. Curtis and Miss M. Pierce, of Princess street Methodist Church, while the negative was upheld by Marjory Richard and Helen Mabee, of Chalmers. The affirmative won.

The debate in which the boys took part was "Resolved, That it is much more important choosing your wife than choosing a profession." The affirmative was taken by Grant Johnson and Howard Mitchell of Chalmers, and the negative by W. Berry and H. Murphy of Princess street. In this debate the affirmative also won.

During the intermission dainty refreshments were served and Miss Nora Williamson rendered a piano solo. At the close Luther Loney moved a vote of thanks to the young people of Chalmers church for arranging the splendid entertainment.
