THE MIRRORS OF OLD ISRAEL

The International Sunday School Lesson for February 24th is, "The Period of the Judges."—Judges, Chapters 2-16.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

"Mirrors of Downing Street" and "Mirrors of Washington," backstairs portraits of celebrities in London and Washington, had their little day and once again proved the public taste for personalities. This week the Sunday schools of the world are studying what might be termed "Mirrors of Old Israel," during the period of Judges. Here are vivid and pleasant glimpses of personalities; the Book of Judges is crammed with what newspaper men call "human interest."

Who recalls the doughty nephew of brave Caleb, Othniel by whom since "blood will tell," came peace to Israel for forty years? And do the boys who love gory tales of adventure know about Ehud, who craftily got into the presence of the fat king that was oppressing his people, and ran his big sword clear through his body, so that the fat closed in on the handle? There also was Shamgar, the hero with an ox-goad for a weapon. This, too, is the book of Deborah, the woman leader, and her immortal song beginning, "For that the leaders took the lead in Israel."

Jael, her tent-pin and hammer, with which she slew the defeated fugitive king, Sisera, is a character in this book of famous figures and unforgettable lines, as: "The stars in their courses fought against Sisera." "Curse ye Meroz . . . Because they came not to the help of Jehovah." To the help of Jehovah against the mighty." Gideon, also, the of the fleece, and the lamp and the trumpets and the victory over the Midianites, occupies a large space in this story of the Judges. Jotham, and his curious fable of the trees electing a king, is part of this meaty narrative. Jephthah's foolish vow, which cost him his only daughter, is a dramatic incident told here. The rise of the use of the word "shibboleth," dates back to an incident in the Book of Judges. Samson, too, with all his pranks and his final tragedy, stalks through these stirring pages. Wonderful portraits of real personalities are mirrored in this ancient and rich book.

The Barometer of a Nation.
Amidst all this diversity of individualities, there was one master unity of life in Israel. That unity was the spirit of the people toward God. Although a unity, this spiritual barometer of Israel under the Judges was as changeable as Pennsylvania weather. Mostly, the people were falling away from God and lapsing into idolatry. Then along would come a leader, and there would be a temporary revival. A succession of ups and downs was the religious experience of this nation in the making. Nevertheless, it was their faith in God that made the Jews a people, and lifted them up when they slumped. We study the story of Early Israel in vain if we see it only as a rather exciting assortment of tales of adventure and romance. The real characteristic is the record of the people's loyalty and disloyalty to Jehovah.

What person of penetration will deny that the significant fact about our own land and time is likewise its spiritual experience? All our political changes, all fluctuations in employment, industry and trade and all the varying moods of social consciousness, are merely phases of the state of religion among the people.

Sound The Tocsin!
Can this nation be awakened to the truth, which is just as clear today as it was in the life of those long ago Jews, that the one thing which really counts in a people's life is their attitude toward God? When men and women are loyal to the Lord, and put His honor first, then happiness and true prosperity follow. Contrariwise, when this central stability disappears, and this supreme allegiance is shaken, then all sorts of lesser evils continue the process of national disintegration.

In halls of legislation, in schools of learning, in editorial offices, and, most of all, from every pulpit, should ring continuously in this day of crisis and change, the clear challenge of history to right all other wrongs by getting the people right with God. There is no graft, there is no vice, there is no crime, there is no demoralization, in a community or in a nation.

country whose people put loyalty to God first.
Times were different with the Israelites, back in the intensely democratic days of the Judges, when every one did that which was right in his own eyes. True enough; but only a provincially-minded person is deceived by these non-essential differences of times and manners and forms. What ailed Israel then was exactly what ails the United States and Canada and Europe now; the people were prone to depart from simple allegiance to the living God. And what restored Israel, again and again, after repeated lapses, was to be led back to simple obedience to Jehovah by some plain man or woman who dared to put his first duty first. That same remedy is the one sure cure for everything that is the matter with our land and with our time. Why cannot this truth be seen in all its clearness and importance by those preachers and laymen who have turned aside at the critical hour of the world's need and of Christianity's opportunity to squabble over theological subtleties?

The Immortal Three Hundred.
In this interesting series of lively experiences which make up the history of Israel under the Judges, we are called by this Lesson to focus especial attention upon Gideon, who was called to put the God-consciousness back into his people. The land had only been half cleared of Israel's foes; in things big and little, every task left unfinished makes trouble for those who come after. The Midianites threatened Israel. So the summons searched out Gideon, who cautiously required many tests in proof that it really was God who had called him. Once assured, Gideon "blew the trumpet"—that trumpet for which so many ears are straining, that its notes may rally the friends of God to the day's great task.

Crowding close home upon our notion that we must have a great organization, a national movement, a mass-petition, a list of influential names, before we can really do any great work for Jehovah in our day comes the point of the Gideon story, which is that three hundred fit, fearless and faithful men are better than a mob of thirty-two thousand. A multitude at first responded to the call of Gideon's trumpet; and, as the familiar story tells, the crowd was weeded out until only the three hundred tested men remained—and by them the whole Midianite army was driven from the borders of Israel forever.

Perhaps Gideon's story may convince us that, unlike the modern automobile manufacturer, God Almighty is not primarily interested in mass production. He cares for quality. Always the Divine Will has been worked out by the few who have been found qualified. Jesus called only twelve apostles. The trend of the teaching of Scripture is toward the preparation of the few, for the service of the many. The judges—that name is rather amissomer, for it has nothing to do with judicial functions: it simply means leaders—are every one a testimony to the eternal truth that in times of sag and slump, the Lord looks to some man or woman to lift them up. Wouldn't it be interesting to know what young Gideons and Deborahs are studying this Sunday school lesson today?

A supplemental talk on the lesson is given by Dr. Ellis over the radio, every Saturday night at nine o'clock. He speaks from Station WFI, Philadelphia, 395 Meters.

What the Package Does.
Tea growers have found from experience that it is necessary to pack tea in air-tight metal-lined chests as soon after plucking as possible to preserve the flavor and goodness of the leaf. Equally so is an air-tight package necessary for retailing tea, and for that reason, the "SALADA" air-tight aluminum package is the most practical way of preserving tea-flavor that is known. Bulk tea is always poorer in flavor since it is exposed to air.—Adv't.

SLASH INCOME TAXES.

Democrats Force Their Measure Through First Vote.
Washington, Feb. 21.—Aided by a group of Republicans, most of them insurgents, House Democrats eliminated from the revenue bill the Mellon income tax rates. By a vote of 222 to 196 a schedule advanced by Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, was substituted.

The bill as amended fixes the surtax maximum at 44 per cent. on incomes in excess of $92,000, as against 50 per cent. on incomes exceeding $200,000 under existing law, and 25 per cent. on incomes of more than $100,000, as recommended by the Treasury. It also reduces normal income rates to a greater extent than Mr. Mellon recommended, and increases personal tax exemptions, a feature not in the Treasury draft.

The Democratic income tax substitute provides:
Normal taxes of two per cent. on incomes below $5,000; four per cent. on incomes between $5,000 and $8,000; six per cent. on incomes exceeding $8,000.
A graduated surtax scale beginning at one per cent. on incomes between $12,000 and $14,000, up to a maximum of 44 per cent. on incomes exceeding $92,000.
Exemptions of $2,000 for single persons, and $3,000 for heads of families.

GANANOQUE

Feb. 21.—One of the most enjoyable entertainments yet put on at the parish house of the Anglican church was the bridge party on Tuesday evening. All the tables planned for were in play and the result will be a nice little sum added to the young people's treasury. The prizes were won as follows: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. D. H. Rogers, 2nd, Mrs. Clara Squire, consolation, Mrs. Harrison; gentlemen's, 1st, F. J. Skinner, 2nd, Hubert Shortall, consolation, Burns Gilbert.

Miss Vera Boyls has returned to resume her duties at the Hotel Diea after a couple of weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle.

Mrs. J. J. Davis entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon and Mrs. William Edwards in the evening.

Mrs. Frank H. Lutz, and Miss Jean, who have been spending the past couple of weeks with Mrs. James McMillan, Ottawa, returned home Monday night.

Miss Anne Tulloch is entertaining at bridge this evening.

Miss Kate O'Neill left to-day to spend a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Lee, Oshawa.

The young men of St. John's church will put on an old time 17th of March concert in the Lyceum, and will be assisted by the best local talent.

David Farling, one of Gananoque's grand old men, got a very pleasant surprise yesterday when the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church gave him a little party. Saturday is Mr. Farling's birthday, but as yesterday was the regular day of meeting for the Society they decided to celebrate Mr. Farling's natal day on this occasion. The little banquet was held in the lecture room of the church.

Through the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wilson, the library board held their inaugural meeting at their home last evening.

THE GROWING GIRL

Requires a Mother's Constant Care and Watchfulness.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptoms of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IRISH BAR STIRRED.
By the Proposal to Abolish Wigs and Gowns.

Dublin, Feb. 21.—The bill which proposes to abolish in the Free State the traditional legal system of wigs and gowns and set up in its place a more modern system, has passed through the Dail and now is in the Senate. In the latter body much of the preliminary discussion of the bill had to do with the question whether wigs and gowns shall continue to be worn. The bill provides that the decision as to whether the judges and members of the bar shall wear any special costume and what that costume shall be shall rest with the minister for home affairs acting with a committee representing the legal interests.

The legal profession is strongly attached to its wigs and gowns and the subject is likely to lead to heated discussion because the government is in favor of some dignified costume that will impress upon the popular mind the realization of the change from British control of all law to the control of the Irish people. The power proposed to be given to the minister for home affairs is challenged as an undue interference with the independence of the judiciary. It is expected that the Senate will make several amendments to the bill.

MODERN TREND OF YOUTH.

Deplored by Church Leader—"Collapse of Restraint."
Chicago, Feb. 21.—One phase of what has been called the "revolt of youth" to-day may be truthfully called the "collapse of restraint," ac-

According to Dr. W. S. Bovard, corresponding secretary of the board of Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"Parents have almost quit raising their children; teachers wear no badge of authority, and society in general refuses to train up children in the way they should go," Dr. Bovard asserts. "Even moral distinctions are denied if they offer the slightest barrier to the complete satisfaction of life's many appetites."

"Any hesitation to follow one's natural instincts to the fullest is branded as cowardice or hypocrisy. This teaching is finding its way into the thinking and living of our day."

In this critical transition of authority it is our solemn duty to arouse the teaching capacity and kindle to a flame the spiritual devotion of the church in order that the on-coming generation may have an adequate personal experience of God."
