People Shamefully Neglect Their Eyes

About the last thing the average person decides to attend to is the examination of the eyes. Some folks like to do without glasses, even though they admit that they need them. No greater mistake could be made. YOU do differently. If you only suspect that they are not just as they should be, have us give them a careful going over.

RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY CHARGES ATMOSPHERE

Report of Committee on Foreign Missions of Presbyterian World Alliance.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 27.—Taking notice of the religious controversy between fundamentalists and modernists, the report of the committee on foreign missions of the Presbyterian World Alliance, presented to the alliance to-day, examines the problem from the missionary standpoint to determine how far co-operative movements among interdenominational missions "can be salvaged from the wreck."

The report, submitted by the Rev. Dr. R. P. Mackay of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, referred to the "war of the churches that was being staged in the press these days," declaring that the "atmosphere is charged with religious controversy." It continued:

"Fundamentalists and Modernists at home and abroad have drawn swords, and it is a war to the death. 'No compromise' the battle cry, and it is heard in practically every land where Christianity is taught and Christian work being done. In China, a Bible Union has been organized in defense of the faith and has in three years grown from 400 to 2,200 in numbers. Its doctrinal basis embraces all the doctrines included in the Apostles Creed and more, and many are prepared to sacrifice operation and fellowship with any and all who cannot subscribe to their doctrinal statements. Others, however, repudiate the thought of separation, claiming it to be the mission to purge the church from within and not to abandon her to the unchristian and unclean."

"Modernists, on the other hand, are equally pronounced, and perhaps it may be said equally intolerant. They stand for liberty of thought with regard to ecclesiastical obligations. Their frequent claims to superior intelligence cannot always be charged with too great modesty. "It is not the intention here to attempt adjudication or reconciliation. From the missionary standpoint our problem is to ascertain whether cleavage is necessary or avoidable, and to determine how far, in either case, co-operative movements, developed so largely in recent years and to so great advantages, can be salvaged from the wreck."

The report then referred to two papers on this subject at the Oxford meeting of the International Alliance last summer, one by Dr. Robert E. Speer, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and the other by Dr. E. J. Palmer, Bishop of Bombay. Summarizing these papers, the report quotes passages from the New Testament to show that that part of the Bible "inculcates the spirit of tolerance and brotherly love," and adds, still referring to the addresses of Dr. Speer and Bishop Palmer: "These and similar scriptures are not adduced to prove that men should not contend for what they believe to be essential truth, but rather that the cultivation of this spirit would remove asperities and make it possible to appreciate each other's viewpoint, and help in finding the truth which lies somewhere between the extremes."

Despite doctrinal differences, missionary co-operation among the denominations can accomplish, in the opinion of the ecclesiastics quoted, Sylvia Field and Franklyn Fox in a scene that makes the spectator gasp, in "The Cat and the Canary" at the Grand, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 29th, and March 1st.

much in such matters as education and the stamping out of the "dope menace."

"On the other hand," continued the report, "it is easy to give instances in which doctrinal differences make co-operation impossible, such, for example, as theological education in the large and truer sense. There is a vast era of academic teaching in the theological field, such as the history of doctrine, forms of worship, church history and organization, that are a common possession and upon which the ministry should be informed and might well be taught co-operatively. Yet in differences so great, e.g., as to the value of the sacraments—that might well make co-operation impossible."

"Finally, as to the further question, whether there is any doctrine so central as to preclude the possibility of co-operation, the answer is that all Christian missionary effort is an attempt to present Christ as the final revelation of God. To co-operate with any who definitely deny that Jesus is God is to abandon the central reason for which Christian missions exist."

"The missionary should remember that he himself is permitted labor in foreign fields through the toleration of people holding religious views essentially different from his own. He seeks by persuasion to lead men to recognize the supremacy of Jesus Christ. It is evident that the path to this end is not the way of alienation and judgment and expulsion, but the way of calm and reasonable statement of the grounds upon which he holds what appears to us to be the truth. We best help others, and best grow ourselves into fuller apprehension of truth, by keeping wide and kindly the bounds of Christian fellowship, by preserving the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace and by going together as much of the work of the Kingdom of Christ as is practicable."

GANANOQUE

Feb. 27.—Word was received here yesterday afternoon of the death of Charles E. Britton at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bedford Jones, Perth. Mr. Britton was the last surviving son of the late D. F. Britton, one of Gananogue's pioneer residents and prominently connected with its growth. Charles Britton was always a public spirited gentleman, active in politics in the Liberal interest, and probably one of the most widely-known gentlemen in the vicinity. Surviving him are his two daughters, Mrs. Bedford Jones, Miss Muriel, Perth, and one son, Ralph, New Britain, Conn; and two sisters, Mrs. O. D. Cowan and Mrs. Collin Cowan, Gananogue.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. White are glad to know that there is strong likelihood of their being in this vicinity shortly. Mr. White probably being transferred from Niagara Falls to the management of the Bank of Commerce, Brockville.

The Thousand Islands Railway Company have written letters to the various manufacturers in connection with the use employees have been making of their right-of-way as a public thoroughfare.

The letter deals with the danger several persons have been in lately of being seriously injured or killed, which was narrowly averted only by the extreme effort on the part of their engineers. In view of these daily experiences being not only nerve-racking to the engineers, but in order to safeguard life and property the practice of using the railway's right-of-way as a thoroughfare must be immediately discontinued. It is the intention of the manager, H. W. Cooper, to prosecute all offenders after due warning has been given, and in order that all employees may be so advised. Notices to above effect will be conspicuously posted in the several factories.

Harry Campbell has accepted the agency for the Mason and Risch piano for Gananogue, Kingston and vicinity. Douglas dePencier is in town.

With Lent a few days off there is considerable crowding of social events before Ash Wednesday. Undoubtedly the Badminton club dance on the 28th in the Canoe Club building to-morrow evening, and the eucyre and dance in the Lyceum under the auspices of the Young People of St. John's Church on Monday evening next, will attract unusually large numbers.

The stork left a little son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgley, Birch street, on Saturday last.

BELIEVES HE CAN FIND THE BURIED TREASURE

Londoner Would Locate Gold and Silver Plate At Collin's Bay.

R. J. Howe, of 64 St. George street, London, Ont., believes that he can locate the treasure chest containing gold and silver plate which is supposed to have been buried near Collin's Bay centuries ago by faithful French priests. Mr. Howe claims to have discovered a method two years ago whereby the hiding place of lost or buried treasure can successfully be found.

That a chest containing much wealth was hidden near Collin's Bay was revealed in a story told by a descendant of Capt. Michael Grass, who led a party of United Empire Loyalists from Quebec to Kingston about 1783. It is supposed to have been concealed in a selected plot of ground near the school house in the village of Collin's Bay. Generations following the march of the United Empire Loyalists removed all traces of the hiding place and its location now, according to information obtained and legend, is unknown.

In a letter to Postmaster James Stewart, in which he asked for further information concerning the hidden treasure, Mr. Howe stated that he had located gold many times with a divining rod made of copper. By its use, he claimed, he had found some wonderful gold-bearing rock in Northern Ontario and had staked a claim there. This divining rod method of discovering metal is but two years old, he states, but during that time it has proven its merits and he believes it would again prove its usefulness in the case of the Collin's Bay treasure.

Postmaster Stewart, who has no information regarding the matter, having only read the story of the buried treasure in the Whig a few days ago, has referred Mr. Howe to the proper authorities in order that the matter might be taken up.

72 Years Old, But Actively On Job

Railroad Man Attributes Good Health and Strength to TANLAC.

Seventy-two years of age, but still in possession of the priceless boon of good health and actively on the job with the Central Vermont Railroad, where he has worked for 40 years, is the remarkable record of H. H. Moore, 24 Messenger Street, Al-bans, Vt., who attributes his present health and strength to the use of TANLAC.
"I have never in my life seen the equal of TANLAC," said Mr. Moore recently. "After spending a lot of money on things that proved worthless for stomach trouble of the most obstinate kind, TANLAC made me feel like an entirely different man. For nearly two years I had been gradually getting worse, and my strength and vitality had got so low it was hard for me to attend to my duties. Indigestion, constipation, and nervousness made life miserable before I found TANLAC, but now my health is normal and I feel happy as I work. I shall always be grateful to TANLAC.

Petworth Paragraphs.
Petworth, Feb. 25.—The Orange-men held their annual oyster supper on Friday evening. The good crowd did justice to the bountiful supper prepared by the ladies. Local talent furnished the programme. The chair was ably filled by Joseph Foster, grand organizer of the lodge. John Garrison left on Sunday last for Niagara Falls, N.Y., where he has secured a position. On account of the storm we had no mail Wednesday or Thursday. Mrs. Sidney Trimbrell is very ill, also Mrs. Thomas Bradford.

Watson. James Lambert and family have moved back to our midst. Owing to the storm the attendance at school was very small for the latter part of the week. Garnet Kerr, S.H.S., spent the week-end at home. D. R. Garrison is shipping hogs this week at $7.50 per cwt. There is a case of scarlet fever at Colebrook.

Words are thorns to grief.

TIERED, NERVOUS MOTHERS are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ill are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.
