When There Were Only Two Telephones

There was no need of an elaborate telephone directory of subscribers. Nor when there were but three, four or five telephones.

When there were hundreds and then thousands—when every office and every other home had installed a telephone—an indexed directory of subscribers became an absolute necessity.

Now that this section has grown in its scope of public service until its offers are so numerous—accurate classifying and indexing has become an absolute necessity for reader convenience and public service.
