 What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

WONDERFUL STORY FOR FAIRBANKS' NEXT PICTURE.
 In keeping with the letter of the sagacious critics that the supreme test of a successful photoplay should be characterized in the first instance by a good story replete with action, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro," a United Artists production that is to be shown at the Grand Opera House for four days, commencing tomorrow with a daily matinee, has certainly amongst other things, fulfilled that requirement.

This story adapted from Johnston McCully's "The Curse of Capistrano" that was featured serially in the "All Story Weekly" magazine, can be safely said to surpass all of "Doug's" previous screen productions and to establish a new record in expansive film creation. The main action of the story has its locale early Southern California with its colorful, picturesque, indolent life as existed before Americans migrated to its borders. Indolence reigns in the picture play until the agile "Doug" enters the scene and hence all become inured to the greatest amount of activity as usually transpires wherever he makes his appearance.

Full of swift, bristling action, there is a strong life interest quite different from that attempted by Fairbanks heretofore. We also find a relieving touch running through the entire picture that buoy one up for the startling events that are in all details gripping, impassioned and mystifying. Every detail of setting and acting has been given the greatest care in presentation, thus creating a harmony of art that is distinctly superior.

It is fundamentally a drama showing the salutary influence. As such it contains something that always causes us to focus our attention throughout, a force which has made all of Fairbanks' pictures so notable and compelling an entertainment. Much more can be promised for this picture without the slightest danger of misapprehension.

For the cast, Fairbanks surrounded himself with an exceptionally strong one. When Doug first went over this vehicle, he realized that a number of changes in his company would be necessary if justice was to be done to the story because of its deviation from anything heretofore done by him. As a result of which a most careful selection was made; therefore we find that Fairbanks has gathered a host of new faces that have never appeared together with him upon the screen.

BUDDHA TEMPLE IN JAVA.
 Built Like Terraced Pyramid—Is Twelve-Century-Old Edifice.

One of the most interesting structures in the world is that of the Boro Boedoe, the Temple of the Buddha in the form of a terraced pyramid, built in the form of a terraced pyramid, in the massive twelve-century-old edifice, standing on a broad platform 500 feet square, is constructed without the aid of lime or mortar, the stones being jointed and dovetailed firmly together. It is built of volcanic lava, the grayish tint of which enhances its imposing and dignified appearance, and it is adorned with a greater wealth of ornament than any other building in the world.

This temple is composed of nine stories of sculptured terraces or balconies, the six lower being square and the three upper circular, terminating in a central terrace surmounted by a gigantic cupola or dome 100 feet in height. The terraces inclose galleries, the walls of which are covered with bas-relief sculptures illustrating events in the life of Buddha and which if placed in single line would extend for three miles. These bas-reliefs are particularly interesting in that they portray the everyday life of the seventh and eighth centuries, comprising, as they do, public ceremonies, domestic occupations, agriculture, navigation, music and drama.

A staircase has been constructed to the summit of the central dome. A fine view is obtained there of the surrounding landscape, of rice-fields and palm groves, hills and valleys and the blue mountains in the distance.

For six centuries the vast Temple of Boro Boedoe lay buried from view, and all that was to be seen was a tree-covered hill, and it was not until the occupation of Java by the British in 1814, under Sir Stamford Raffles, that these ruins were excavated, 200 coolies being employed for 45 days to clear away the vegetation and reveal the buried terraces.

THE DIOCESAN W.
 Legacies Announced From the Late Mrs. J. O. Crisp.

Mrs. Havelock Price, president of the diocesan Women's Auxiliary, presided at the meeting of the board in St. George's hall on Monday. It was heard with regret that Mrs. P. H. Huycke had retired from the office Superintendent of St. James Junior Auxiliary and with pleasure that Miss K. Wilson, a former superintendent had taken over the office again. Mrs. Price gave an interesting account of the annual meeting of the Montreal W. A., which she recently attended as a guest. A call comes from the Dominion Board for work among the white settlers in the west, recommended by the board of management of the M. S. C. C. The matter was under discussion at the meeting of the dominion board in Halifax in November. A letter was read from Mrs. Hall, dominion president, which said that if this work was to be undertaken it would mean an increase in the budget of $10,000 in 1925, of which Ontario dioceses share would be $320. The finance committee suggests a forward campaign for next winter, the plans to be discussed at the triennial meeting to be held in Ottawa in the spring.

Notices of changes in the constitution were read by the first vice-president, Mrs. C. C. Abbott.

It was announced that the late Mrs. J. O. Crisp had left $1,000 for a cot in the hospital ship of the Columbia Coast Mission and $1,000 to the widows' and orphans' fund of the diocese of Ontario.

On Tuesday evening the girls' branches of the city met in St. George's hall for a mission study class, which will be held every two weeks, Japan being the subject. Last night Mrs. C. C. Abbott gave a talk on the land, its people, its education, its commerce and its women.

DUMBELLS' GREAT ORCHESTRA

Synopated music and jazz bands playing the latest dance hits as soon as they are off the press, have become a feature of all the big musical revues this season. Paul Whitman and his band do a half-hour in the Ziegfeld Follies, while nearly every other girl and music show has its own stage orchestra. Scouting for orchestras has become a popular game with the producers. They send out scouts, usually song writers, who visit all the theatres and cabarets in search of talent. Several offers have been made to the Dumbells Company, Limited, for Captain Plunkett's Orchestra, now one of the headliners in "Cheerio".

Captain Plunkett assembled his ten-piece band in much the same way. Last season he had an orchestra with "Carry On," which proved so popular with the public that he decided to make a feature of the jazz band this year. In every city where the "Dumbells" played last season, the Captain made a point of hearing all the local orchestras where returned men were employed. Whenever he found a particularly good musician he arranged to have him come to Toronto in June for a tryout, paying his expenses there and back, in case he would not fit in. As a result he had some forty musicians to pick from and his Overseas Orchestra, as it now stands, will bear comparison with any similar organization on the American stage.

The Dumbells will present "Cheerio" at the Grand Theatre for two nights commencing Monday, March 10th. The revue is all new and entirely different from any show given here before.

AT CALVARY CHURCH

Resolution Was Passed Regarding Question of Church Union.
 At a meeting of the congregation of Calvary Congregational church, held on Sunday evening, the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, that whereas we, the members of Calvary Congregational church have in a meeting regularly called for this purpose, voted in favor of organic union with the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and whereas certain legislation for the carrying into effect of the said vote namely, the United Church of Canada Act is now before the provincial and dominion houses of parliament and whereas certain persons have taken concerted action to oppose the passing of such legislation, therefore be it resolved that we, the members of Calvary Congregational church, do hereby affirm our previous action and request the passage of the United Church of Canada Act and further urge our representatives in the provincial and dominion houses to use their vote and best efforts to procure the passage of this act, and that copies of this resolution be sent to the Hon. W. F. Nickle, Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P., and also to the press."

Passed Away at Winnipeg.

Mrs. W. C. Ketcheson, eighth Concession of Thurlow, received the sad message on Monday of the death of her only sister, Mrs. Charles Senecal, of 507 Young street, Winnipeg, Man., on Feb. 29th, at her home there. Although in declining health this news came with a great shock to her friends. Minnie Sloan was born in Thurlow in 1863, over sixty years ago. To mourn her loss are her husband and one son, Claude, a brother, Fred Sloan, Roach's Plains, Sask., and one sister, Julia Ketcheson, Halfway, Ont. The funeral took place at her home on March 2nd, interment in Winnipeg cemetery.

Notes From Bunker's Hill.

Feb. 26.—The snow in this section is very deep. People have found it necessary to turn out and break the roads. The ice in the lake is quite thick and there will be no shortage of ice for cooling purposes next summer. It is expected that this year will be a good sugar year. Everybody finds it necessary to burn lots of wood on account of the extreme weather. The roads are so blocked with snow that the mail man found it impossible to make his rounds last Thursday.

Euchre and Dance.

A very successful euchre and dance was held on Monday evening under the auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodge No. 6. There were eighteen tables in play and the winners were Miss Hunt and Miss McKane for the ladies and J. Peeney and Mr. Catermole for the gentlemen. Thomas Masters ably looked after the dance programme. Salisbury's orchestra provided the music.

How an Island Grows.

It is quite possible for an island to sink below the surface of the water in a few hours when an earthquake occurs. But it is not generally known that some islands have risen above the surface so rapidly that they could be seen growing.

Islands near a mainland are mostly merely fragments broken off the coast, but oceanic islands have no direct relationship with continents. They appear generally in groups and are known as low groups and high groups. The low groups are the coral islands, the high groups the volcanic islands.

The best example of an island growing in a night is one near Santonia in the Aegean Sea. This island appeared at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

One day Santonia showed signs of earthquake shocks. The next morning the people got very excited about a wreck, looking black against the shining sea.

Seafaring men went out and came back with the news that the "wreck" was a huge rock, risen from the sea where it had previously been 525 feet deep. Oysters were still clinging to it.

Within twenty-two days the island stood twenty-five feet above the level of the sea and was about 3,150 feet in area. The water round it was hot, and black rocks began to appear round the island.

The day after the rocks had appeared they had risen so high as to become part of the island. The island went on increasing in size, the growth being visible to the eye, till it was nearly five square miles in area.

The cause of this was, of course, submarine volcanoes. And it is in this way, though the process possibly was much slower, that all the volcanic islands of the world have appeared.

Mysteries of the Clouds.

The wonderful clouds that hang above at times are in reality huge masses of vapor held up in the air. Low down, the drops of moisture are heavy and accompanied by a myriad of minute particles of dust from the earth which make the cloud dark. When the cloud becomes heavy enough it breaks and rain results. Higher up, the dust particles are absent, and the drops of moisture, which are now ice crystals expand and open out. White light consists of different rays, varying from violet to red, whereas the denser dust particles of the clouds nearer the earth will reflect a greater proportion of one set of waves than another, giving us colored clouds, the larger and more widely separated ice crystals of the clouds higher up reflect all the waves, and give us a white cloud.

Making It Clear.

Little Willie was of an inquiring turn of mind. He was always asking questions.

"Daddy," he asked one day, "is to-day to-morrow?"

"No, my son, of course it isn't to-morrow," was the reply.

"But you said it was," murmured Willie.

"When did I say to-day was to-morrow?" asked father.

"Yesterday," answered Willie.

"Well, it was. To-day was to-morrow yesterday, but to-day is to-day, just as yesterday was to-day yesterday, and to-day is to-day yesterday, and to-morrow will be to-day to-morrow which makes to-day yesterday and to-morrow all at once. Now run along and play."

Gold Leaf.

The process of making gold leaf has been known since the eighth century B.C. It is found in connection with the most ancient known mummies, having been used for covering teeth, tongues, skin, and so on. Sometimes it is found on the coffins. Gold leaf was also used on the tombs and monuments of ancient Egypt. In the eleventh century it seems to have attained as high a degree of perfection as to-day.

Far Away.

"There seems to be an idea that voices had better be trained in Europe," said a flat dweller, I heartily subscribe to that."

Curious Fact.
