JUNIOR COUNTY HONORS ANNEXED BY VERONA SIX

Both Titles of the League Now Held by the Northern Group Club. Verona defeated Sunbury 2-1 at the Holt Ring, R.M.C., on Thursday evening and annexed the junior championship of the Frontenac County League. The title was held by the Sydenham Juniors last year and the win by Verona brings both senior and junior honors to the northern group town for the present season.

The game was very poorly attended but for the time of year the hockey was fairly good. The first two periods were lively enough with H. Revelle, of Verona, showing the best class of all the players on the ice. The first frame was scoreless. Each team scored in the second, H. Revelle, for Verona, and S. Campbell, for Sunbury. In the third period H. Revelle again scored for his team. Verona—Goal, Ball; defence, F. Revelle, Bradford; centre, H. Revelle; wings, Amey, G. Campbell; subs., Reynolds, Skales. Sunbury—Goal, N. Medcoe; defence, Hitchcock, Haffner; centre, Haggerty; wings, Ross, S. Campbell; subs., Dixon, Hughes. Referee—Joe Smith.

CONDITION NEEDED IN BADMINTON PLAY

Many Fascinating Points to Game Fast Gaining Popular Favor.

Those men who think that badminton is an effeminate game requiring very little exertion are very much mistaken. It is now being played by athletes in every branch of the sport to keep themselves fit during the winter months. There is a rumor that two well-known hockey players prefer it to indoor golf. And it does absolutely no harm to one's tennis, provided the two games are not played concurrently. As an example of this it may be mentioned that Miss K. McKane excels in both games. There are many fascinating points about badminton; the feeling of a good "smash," watching one's "drop shot" float just over the net, and, above all, the satisfaction of completely deceiving one's opponent. On account of the lightness of the racket and the behavior of the bird in its flight, there are many more opportunities for what might be called "cunning" in badminton than in tennis. For example, it is possible in badminton to go through all the motions of a terrible smash, check the racket at the last moment and stroke the bird gently over the net. Or else to hit the bird with considerable force, but instead of hitting it "full," to give it a cut which will make it drop just over the net. Then there is very often time to give a slight pause before making a shot, particularly when receiving a short one, which leaves one's opponent in the dark, until the last moment, as to whether the return will trickle back over the net or be sent to the

FROM THE OUTSIDE—LOOKING IN.

The final game of the local hockey season comes to-night at the Holt Ring, R.M.C., when Kingston Irishmen and Belleville will play the first of home-and-home games for the championship of the Bay of Quinte League. The second game of the series will be in Belleville on Monday night.

Queen's boxers will soon have to get down to the daily grind once more in preparation for the international tournament with Yale here on March 29th. It is probable that the exhibition will take place in Grant Hall.

We know that baseball players go hunting and fishing in the winter time, but can any person tell us where all the hockey players go in summer time? From observations made locally it would seem that many of them play baseball.

If you find this world too peaceful for your taste, If you long for anguished squawk and angry scream, You can shatter all the calm if you make haste To go out and pick an all-star hockey team.

It can be taken for granted that the report concerning the new Queen's Arena, although as yet unofficial, is approximately correct. It is eminently satisfying to all followers of skating and hockey and the Jock Hartly Arena fire, while unfortunate in some respects, may bring about things which will make for better conditions in the long run.

To-morrow night Central Y.M.C.A. basketball team, of Toronto, will meet Queen's seniors in an exhibition game here. At the same time the K.C.I. girls will be playing the girls of the Ottawa Collegiate Institute in Ottawa. Good luck to both Kingston teams.

back of the court. It is probable that the above shots would prove disastrous to a player attempting them at tennis.

Although it is possible to get a bird back by giving it any kind of a hit, yet, to obtain accurate results, which is of vast importance, just as much attention should be paid to footwork and the execution of a stroke as in tennis. In a fore-hand smash, good footwork will give speed and accuracy to the shot and in other fore-hand over-head shots it will not only give accuracy but save effort. It is impossible to play any back-hand over-head shots properly without good footwork. One of the most difficult shots is to send the bird back-hand from one corner at the back of the court to the corner diagonally opposite to it at the back of the opponent's court. This cannot be done by brute force, but by getting into the right position under the bird (slightly behind it), by putting one's body into the stroke, as in golf, and by proper timing.

Any good tennis player, when he is actually hitting the ball, will be looking directly at it. While watching the ball coming towards him he has photographed on his mind the position of his opponent and the direction he is, or is likely to be, moving in. But when striking the ball he ignores his opponent as far as observing him is concerned. Exactly the same thing applies to badminton; keep your eyes on the bird, if you have not obtained an idea of your opponent's position or movements, it is very easy to send a safe shot to the back of the court, to his back-hand if possible, and this can only be done accurately if you are watching the bird while you are hitting it.

Variety may be the spice of life; it is certainly the essence of good badminton. Don't keep on playing the same shots or serving in the same way. If you do, your opponent will be prepared for anything you send him. And if somebody tells you that they hate playing against you, they never know what you are going to do next, you will know that you are beginning to acquire "cunning," unless that somebody is sadly lacking in the ability of anticipation.

VETERAN TAUGHT RECRUIT STUNTS WHICH COST JOB

Jacques Fournier, the Frenchman first sacker of the Brooklyn Robins, aided "the enemy" through his big heartedness to Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals. When Bottomley first came to the Cards, Fournier was first sacking for the St. Louis nine and undertook to help the youngster.

Fournier coached Bottomley in his batting and even went so far as to give Jim a couple of bats which Jacques found to be especially adapted to the style of batting used by the two players.

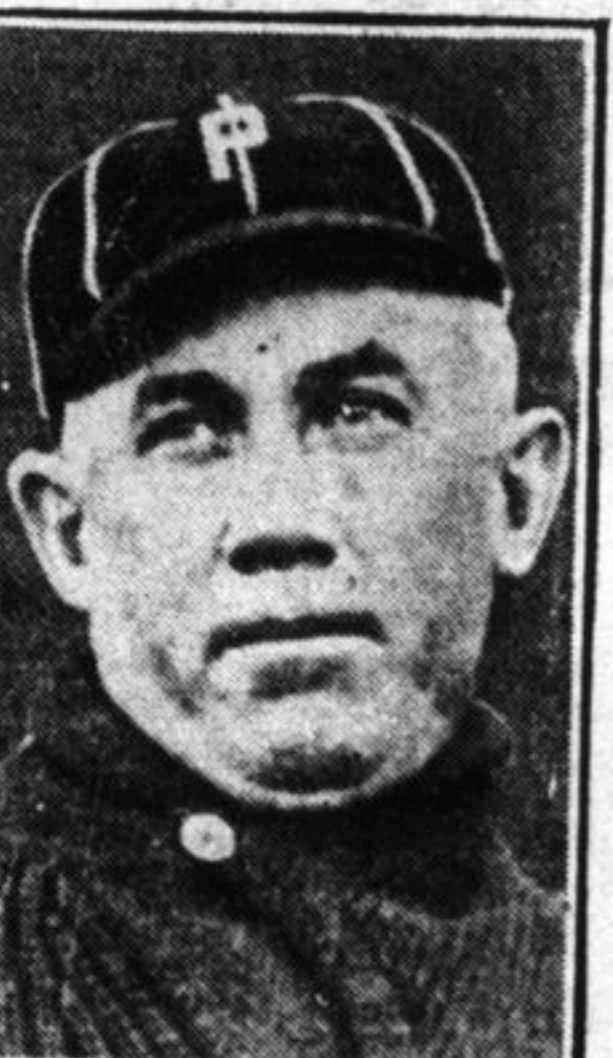

Then Fournier was traded to Brooklyn and Bottomley was the regular first sacker for the Cards, and Jimmy stepped right out and pounded the leather not only for a better average than Jacques but with such power as to pull several games between the Cards and Robins into the St. Louis winning side of the standing.

FRED LYNCH, who was suspended last spring by the Toronto club when he refused to be "farmed out" after the season opened. He is again with the Leafs in the south, and may make the grade this season.

PAT MORAN, Manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is dead in Orlando, Florida.

DICKY RUDOLPH, Veteran pitcher and former world's series hero, who is now coach of the Boston Braves, with which club he has been connected ever since he left the Toronto club eleven years ago. Rudolph's entire professional career has been confined to two clubs, Toronto and Boston.

DESCAMPS HAS ANOTHER STABLE OF YOUNG BLOODS. Francois Descamps, the oily-tongued manager of Georges Carpentier, has assembled a stable of sponge eaters which he intends to bring over to America in the summer along with the Gorgoons One.

The French manager admits that two of his new charges are first rate stars.

These two are Paul Fritch, a lightweight, and Johnny Sullivan, a welterweight.

Fritch is a graduate of the amateur rings and battled in the olympic bouts four years ago.

Sullivan is a Londoner of Irish extraction and Descamps thinks he is destined to be a great puncher.

WILSON MAY BE THE NEXT ONE FOR PAUL

Berlenbach, "The Betting Fool," Is Ready to Meet Former Champ.

Paul Berlenbach and Johnny Wilson will be matched for a middle-weight shindig in a day or so writes "Igoe" in the New York World. Tex Rickard asked the Betting Fool if he would meet the former champion in Madison Square Garden and Paul almost nodded the Texan over when he said calmly: "Yes, sir, I'll meet Wilson with a great deal of pleasure. Can you make it March 14th, the night of your next show?"

This was a little sooner than even Rickard counted on. He got into communication with Johnny Wilson and the one time world's title holder said that he, too, would meet Berlenbach, but that he was not prepared to face the Betting Fool before May. Other matches and the requirements of training would keep him busy until that time.

"There's a match I'd like to put on as soon as possible," remarked Rickard last night. "I am convinced that Berlenbach is a great fighter, a champion. What better evidence of his ability would there be than a victory—perhaps a sensational one—over Wilson, who is a tough man to beat. Wilson has a great body attack and it is that style would tell on Berlenbach if he has any flaws."

There is but one way to find them out and it is to send him in with fellows like Wilson. "I don't believe in getting a man along too much. If Jeffries and Dempsey had been tucked away in the caution case, they would never have arrived at the championship. Thorpe Wilson will be ready to sign soon. Berlenbach is ready tonight if necessary."

MANY OLD FACES WILL BE UNDER NEW UNIFORMS

The coming season will see many veteran ball players sporting around in new spangles. Sales, trades and releases have caused quite a few of the tossers to change their playing scenery. However, practically all of them will be connected with the same circuit.

The Boston Braves perhaps take the cake for new faces, in so far as the old-timers are concerned. For instance, the 1924 campaign will witness at least five chaps who have played on other National League clubs. They are Bancroft, the new manager; Tierney, Kelleher, Stengel, and Cunningham. Three of them formerly played with the Giants.

Philadelphia, the other chronic tallender in the parent wheel, boasts two in this class—Ford and Ray Powell, who were obtained from the Boston Braves. Brooklyn, Pittsburg and Chicago are standing pat, but Cincinnati has Carl Mays, New York Eddie Ainsmith and the Cardinals Al Sothorn. Mays was taken over by the Reds from the Yankees and is the only player in either league to go from one organization to the other. Ainsmith was a free agent, and Sothorn was gotten from the minors, though he is a former major leaguer, having performed for the Browns and Cleveland.

In the American League, Bobby Veach, for many seasons a member of the Detroit Tigers, will be cavorting for the Red Sox, as will also Steve O'Neill, Bill Wambaganssa, Burns, who has played with Detroit, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston, will be back in Cleveland again this campaign.

Of times a change of scenery does a player worlds of good. Whether or not any of the above mentioned fellows will be benefited by their new surroundings, of course cannot be told until the season gets under way. At any rate, fans around both major circuits shall have the opportunity of seeing their favorites wearing the uniforms of other clubs.
