When There Were Only Two Telephones

There was no need of an elaborate telephone directory of subscribers. Nor when there were but three, four or five telephones. But—

When there were hundreds and then thousands—when every office and every other home had installed a telephone—an indexed directory of subscribers became an absolute necessity.

And so it is with the A-B-C Classified Sections of the British Whig. If there were but two or three offers in this section, it would not make much difference how or where they appeared. But—

Now that this section has grown in its scope of public service until its offers are so numerous — accurate classifying and indexing has become an absolute necessity for reader convenience and public service.

Reading these offers is about the same thing as saying, "Hello, Classified Section, please give me Opportunity!"
