And another spring sign is "fresh paint."

The cheaper the car, the more happiness it holds.

The man who wants to do nothing never runs short of assistants.

An ugly man is a mighty sight better looking than a pretty man.

You must meet your expenses if you expect to meet your friends.

Cynic's motto for married people: "United we stand—each other."

Be careful about what you want because you are liable to get it.

Any man can make a success if he has enough chances to practice on.

A true optimist is one who can find beauty even in a half-chewed cigar.

It isn't the tea that gets a man's goat at these afternoon affairs, but the tea-see.

If the world doesn't believe in you it's probably because you don't believe in you.

Human nature is what makes you knock your town while in it and fight for it when away.

Another advantage that Adam had. Eve couldn't threaten to go home to her mother.

A college man's rule of correct dress for all occasions: The best clothes his roommate has.

The man who is in the habit of giving three cheers for himself usually gets exactly three cheers.

A waggish doctor of our acquaintance speaks of his "medic-kill" profession. How's that for candor?

Marry in haste and repent. Take your time and probably she will not wait for you. What's the answer?

A man can lay no claim to prominence these days unless he has been sued for divorce at least once.

Listening to a banquet speech, one can sometimes guess what the subject is, but seldom what the object is.

The expert blame-shifter and credit-taker is another form of animal life that the world could get along without.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, officer, I suppose I was exceeding the speed limit and I guess I deserve to be fined."

Some day we will read about lightning striking a tax collector's office and say the applause sounded like thunder.

Fable: Once upon a time there was a mere man who knew the difference between purple, lavender and heliotrope.

"Seeing by radio soon possible." And perhaps they'll some day get it to the point where we can hear satisfactorily by it.

BIBLE THOUGHT: PURE RELIGION and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.—James 1:27.

THE HOME FOR THE AGED.

The directors of the city's house of refuge, which during the past few years has cared for the aged poor of Kingston, Frontenac and Lennox and Addington, have found it necessary to increase the weekly rate to the counties owing to the fact that a deficit of five thousand dollars has accumulated through capital expenditure and increased cost of maintenance.

The Kingston home is sufficient to care for the poor of the adjoining municipalities and will no doubt continue to be used for the purpose under a working agreement with the directors of the home. The directors have no desire to make the institution a profit-making concern.

It is the directors' attention to have a careful investigation made as to the city's capital investment in the institution and the exact cost of maintenance. Should this prove to be lower than the first estimate, the counties will be charged accordingly.

REST IS RUST.

What is nobler than the tongue of man than, "Let me die in the harness?" Could the poet better express love of living and love of work, which is life?

No man is successful until he has learned to love his work and no man who loves his work could desert it after work and worker have made the climb to the top together.

At the age of 90 years Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, refuses to step out of the harness.

Thomas Edison, 77 years old, keeps on inventing, spending his days in his private laboratory or his factories, planning new conquests in electricity and boyishly hoping for success.

There are three classes of workers—those who hate all work, those who have not found their life's work and those who have found their work.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, officer, I suppose I was exceeding the speed limit and I guess I deserve to be fined."

Some day we will read about lightning striking a tax collector's office and say the applause sounded like thunder.

FRENCH MENU VANISHING.

A Cleveland reporter, struck by the absence of French names from the bills of fare of high-priced restaurants which used to employ them so extensively in describing their dishes, has interviewed the proprietors of some of them.

Some French names for food which supplanted the Anglo-Saxon equivalents after the Norman conquest became so firmly established that their foreign origin has been forgotten.

There is no reason, however, why restaurant men should call potatoes "pommes de terre," soup "potage," cheese "fromage," mushrooms "champignons," etc.

PICKING A WINNER.

The Montreal Herald recalls the fact that some time after Mr. Ernest Lapointe made his first appearance in the House of Commons twenty years ago, the late Tom Owen, former editor of Hansard, picked out Mr. Lapointe as one of the big men in Canadian politics.

Mr. Owen did not live to see his prediction fulfilled, but it has been fulfilled during the present session.

In his campaign during the past winter and in his speeches in the house, Mr. Meighen has endeavored to create a feeling of distrust in the King government.

He further showed that Canadian exports had been increasing under the Franco-Canadian trade treaty carried out by the present government.

Over a long period of time the wealth of the world mounts up at much less than 3 per cent. compounded semi-annually.

The old fable of the hare and the tortoise still holds true. If a man is inclined to be a tortoise then, there is no reason for him to imitate and envy the hare, because most of the hares never "get there."

Not looking where you are going may cause that run-down feeling.

That Body of Ours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Ministers and Priests as Physicians. There was an article in the paper the other day stating that in London, England, they were establishing a clinic for sick people, and that half the staff would be physicians, and the other half ministers or priests.

And so this clinic should be a wonderful success. To such a clinic will come all classes of sick people.

Because there will actually be some form of nervous trouble due to an organic disturbance, or else an ailment due to some outside or inside emotional disturbance.

As I said in a former article every one of these cases where the person is not really insane, but has a history of nervous breakdowns, sleeplessness, irritability, forgetfulness, lack of concentration, morbid ideas about himself and life in general, has been produced by some one thing, weeks, months, yes, years, before.

Just what it was must be discovered by the minister or physician, and the work of reconstruction of the man's ideas and outlook must start from this point.

The war, our hurried lives, the speed of everything, makes the keeping of the balance a bit more difficult than ever before.

But it must be admitted that the treatment of these nervous or mental cases is on a more solid basis than ever before.

And the cures are as frequent as the cures of the ordinary physical ailments.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but important lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

A man who is inclined towards the purchase of gilt edge bonds instead of more speculative securities should do so, and feel sure that it will prove profitable in the long run.

Over a long period of time the wealth of the world mounts up at much less than 3 per cent. compounded semi-annually.

The old fable of the hare and the tortoise still holds true. If a man is inclined to be a tortoise then, there is no reason for him to imitate and envy the hare, because most of the hares never "get there."

Of all actions of a man's life, his marriage does least concern other people, yet of all actions of our life 'tis most meddled with by other people.—John Seiden.

WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS Secretary, American Meteorological Society, Tells How.

Why We Need Barometers. We, personally, are much better equipped to act as thermometers than as barometers. We can quite readily recognize even a moderate change in temperature without consulting a thermometer.

The Best Argument of Nations. Enlightened nations—nations with an enlightened self-interest—will not be deceived by the claims of an impractical idealism.
