Arrived from some clever "April Fools." Supper was served and dancing went on for a short time.

That Toronto is to have a perfect orgy of conventions in June and will welcome among other women delegates those sent by the International League of Women Voters, many of them from Europe.

The Editor Hears

That King Tutankhamen may have been one of the Pharaohs of the Exodus was stated by Prof. S. A. B. Mercer, Toronto, in lecture before the Woman's Canadian Club.

That green is to be one of the favorite shades this spring. The pretty green gingham and rattines are most suitable and cool looking for summer wear and this is the time to buy them, not later, when the fine weather lures you into the country and the pile of unfinished sewing lies heavy upon your conscience.

That a New York editor says the subtlest propaganda against bobbed hair yet disseminated is the story of how the Court Clerk in Akron, O., has ordered his female employees to bob!

That this is the day the small boy has looked forward to when he can watch with delight his elders pick up a carefully wrapped parcel to which he has fastened a slender cord or an old purse, fat with tissue paper instead of hundred dollar bills. The telephone is a great aid to the carrying out of the traditional April Fool's Day jokes, as the long-suffer-

Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out, and that is to dissolve them. Get about two ounces of peroxide powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts, and every blackhead will be gone. Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores, and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of peroxide powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition.

TWO NEW CIRCLES OF THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Two juvenile circles of The King's Daughters have been organized recently by Mrs. M. R. Davis, the secretary of The Kingston City Union of The King's Daughters. The "Ever Ready" circle, which is an uptown circle, held their first sale on March 18th, and with part of the proceeds will buy wool and knit scarfs for poor children for next winter. The "Polly-Anna" circle is a down town circle and the leaders are planning ways of earning money to help others. The circles are all undenominational. The leaders are members of the Lend-A-Hand circle of The King's Daughters. More circles will be organized.

THE COMMON TOUCH.

"Dolls, dolls' furniture, coloured bricks, and other playthings from the tomb of a little Roman girl of the time of Tiberius have just come into the possession of the Berlin Museum."—Daily Paper.)

Little dead maid from the time of Tiberius. You have been sleeping so long with your toys; You must have hushed them with whispers mysterious. Bade them be good and not make any noise. Surely you said at the end of your playtime. When you had kissed them and sung them to sleep.

"You must be quiet and wait till the daytime." Oh, the long vigil you gave them to keep!

Where are the rooms that once rang with your laughter? Where are the stairways that echoed your feet? Marble and bronze and the sweet cedrine rattle— All now are dust with the dust of the street.

But in the darkness where some one had laid them. Since they were yours and that place was the best. Time and his leaguers—who else had betrayed them— Shattered an empire but left them at rest.

Down the long road that begins with your story We have peered wistfully into the gloom. Watching the shadows of Rome and her glory. Hearing the echoes of triumph and doom; Yet, with your bricks and your dollies at bedtime. You with the games of your brief summer while. You are the bridge of the living and dead time— Clio kneels down to your toys with a smile.

Answered Letters

Mrs. I. W.: "Please tell me how to clean and polish a black walnut bedroom set, and also how to renew green shades which are in good condition but faded, and how to change the color of yellow shades."

Answer: Clean the black walnut with linseed oil and petroleum, rubbed off with a clean one. Polish the wood with a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and linseed oil. As for the window shades—both kinds you mention—simply apply a flat coat of good household paint and they will look like new.

J. M.: "Kindly tell me how Grape Jelly can be made with gelatine for use as a dessert. Also give recipe for Baked Beans made with molasses."

Answer: In using gelatine it is not necessary to have a recipe if one just remembers that one tablespoon of the gelatine will stiffen one pint of any kind of liquid. But here is "just how" to make the grape jelly: Take a glass of grape jelly (such as one buys in the stores) and add to it enough boiling water to make one pint of liquid. Now soften one tablespoon of granulated gelatine with a very little cold water, and add this to the grape-liquid (which you have heated to the boiling point)

"The Sickness That Destroyeth."

Not long ago a newspaper woman, in speaking of her day's work to some friends, remarked that she had been at an isolation hospital, getting what is called in journalistic parlance, "a story." There were exclamations of horror from some of the listeners, and a distinct drawing away from her on the part of others. But the newspaper woman laughed. "Why," she said, "you and I and all of us are in far more danger every day of our lives, as we go about where all sorts of diseases are stalking round, without any precautions being taken, than I was at the hospital, where there is every safeguard against infection." A few days later one of her audience was in a large butcher shop, where all sorts of meats are displayed, when a girl, very evidently far gone in tuberculosis, came in, and going up to the counter, asked in a husky voice for a piece of meat. As she did so she coughed unrestrainedly over the rest of the exposed meat, without taking the precaution of putting either hand or handkerchief to her mouth.

This sort of thing is being duplicated all over the country. Much has been done in the way of teaching people to take precautionary measures, but a very great deal remains to be done. Unfortunately, carelessness is to be found more often in the rural sections than in the cities, and this fact accounts, in large measure, for the returns showing that the death rate from tuberculosis is higher (in proportion to population) in the country than in the cities. If children were taught when very small never to cough without putting the hand or the handkerchief before the mouth, one means of germ-distribution would be out of.—The Canadian Farmer.
