HANDS OVER $39.49.

To Poor Relief Committee From Greater Production Funds.

On Saturday morning, R. F. Greenlee, secretary and manager of the greater production committee which did such good work during the closing years of the war, acting under instruction from his committee, handed Mrs. John Wright, president of the Kingston poor relief committee, a cheque for $39.49, the balance which the committee had on hand. Through the activity of this committee, the citizens of Kingston donated the sum of $841, and practically all of this money was expended in cultivating vacant lots in the city which otherwise would have been unused. When the committee ceased its activities in 1919, there was a balance in the bank of $117.51, and in 1920 Prof. John Macgillivray thought that it would be a good idea if a large plot of land between the ice house and Albert street was cultivated, and the committee saw fit to give him a grant for this work. The late Senator H. W. Richardson was the prime mover in the greater production school, and he had associated on the committee, of which he was president, Francis King as vice-president; and John Nicholls, who acted in the capacity of secretary and manager until 1918, when the duties were taken over by Mr. Greenlee, who has carried them on very faithfully ever since.

Mayor J. M. Hughes and Mayor H. W. Newman, during their periods of office, acted on the committee. The committee is also very grateful to Thomas Timms, city streets foreman, who was overseer of the cultivating of the garden plots.

Industries Committee.

The civic industries committee, of which Ald. Harvey Milne is the chairman, held a meeting on Friday afternoon and discussed a number of matters, particularly in regard to the question of advertising, but the committee had no report to give to the press.

T. J. Rigney, K.C., city solicitor, was in Toronto on Thursday in connection with the bill.
